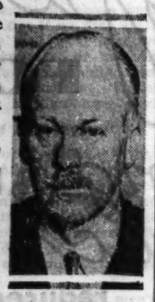
BRITISH EMPIRE LAUNCHES WAR ON DEPRESSION

Economic Parley Opens in Canada.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 21.—With a minimum of pomp and circumstance, the imperial economic conference, which hopes to bring back prosperity to the British empire, and through it prosperity to the rest of the world, opened its session today in Ottawa.



LORD BESSBOROUGH. [Acme Photo.]

Whatever pomp there was was on the outside. Lord Bessborough, Canadian governor general, drove to the parliament house in an open landau drawn by horses. There were footmen and outriders in scarlet uniforms. The carriage was escorted by a troop of the Princess Louise dragoon guards in blue tunics and gold helmets. The great open space in front of the parliament house was ringed by Canadian mounted police in red coats and a guard band with busbies played a welcome to the king's representative.

Drab and Businesslike.

Inside, however, all was drab and businesslike. Lord Bessborough entered the chamber of the house of commons promptly at the stroke of 11 o'clock. He wore a black morning coat and a flower in his buttonhole. Walking straight to the speaker's chair he began reading a message from King George before any one realized the proceedings were under way.

On each side of the chamber black coated delegates and their advisers filled the seats usually occupied by Canada's legislators. On the left of the speaker's chair sat the United Kingdom delegation headed by Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council. Next to them was a solitary delegate from New Zealand. He was placed there because he is crippled.

Then came the Irish delegation with Sean T. O'Kelly, vice president of the Free State, at its head. After the Irish came the Indians and far down at the end sat the delegation from Southern Rhodesia. On the right of the chair the Canadians occupied the position of honor with the Australians beside them. The main New Zealand delegation was next and the delegates of Newfoundland, oldest of all the dominions, sat at the end. H. M. Pollock, delegate from Northern Ireland, sat with the British.

No Special Prayer.

The proceedings were as businesslike as the atmosphere. The governor general read the message from the king and then spoke briefly invoking God's blessing on the work of the conference. This procedure was the result of the Indians' objection to opening the conference with a prayer, believing that a prayer might be offensive to some of their many religious sects.

Mr. Baldwin, speaking for the British, then moved that Richard B. Bennett, the prime minister of Canada, be elected to the chairmanship. Australia seconded the motion and Bennett's choice was unanimous.

Then came the only dramatic incident of the session. Premier Bennett proposed the customary resolution of loyalty to the king and called upon "all in favor of it to stand up." This evidently came as a surprise to the Irish, whose Dail Eireann recently voted to abolish the oath to the king. The Free Staters merely had expected a formal declaration that the resolution had been carried. The motion, incidentally, did not mention the word "loyalty."

O'Kelly Casts His Vote.

The delegates leaped to their feet, including Sean Le Mass and Dr. Ryan of the Irish delegation, but O'Kelly, the delegation leader, hesitated, half rose, stopped again, but finally straightened and voted with the rest.

The tensity of feeling between the Irish and English was again displayed on O'Kelly's turn to make the opening declaration for Ireland.

Both on rising and on taking his seat the Free State's vice president received more and louder applause than any other delegation chairman. All

2 MORE DEATHS MARK GANG WAR TO SEIZE UNIONS

Link 'Fur' Sammons with Killings.

Warfare between organized labor and machine gun gangsters was held responsible for the double murder early yesterday of Patrick Berrell, vice president of the Teamsters' international union, and Willie Marks, former Moran gangster. The double killing occurred at Shawano, Wis., 40 miles north of Appleton.

The events of this warfare, as told by public officials and union labor spokesmen, date back to the murder of John Clay, head of the Laundry Wagon Drivers' union. They include the St. Valentine day massacre of seven Moran gangsters and the murder a month ago of George "Red" Barker. They take cognizance of the release from prison last Saturday of James "Fur" Sammons, and lead to the killing of Berrell and Marks. Sammons is under suspicion in this latest killing.

Succeeds Con Shea.

Berrell, chief victim of the latest machine gunning, had 18,000 men in his unions. He succeeded the one time labor czar, Con Shea, and became a national leader as vice president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, when Dan Tobin of Indianapolis became president.

"Berrell was the outstanding opponent of the gunmen who have been trying to muscle in on legitimate unions," E. N. Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, declared yesterday. "Berrell had blocked them time and again and withstood their efforts to put all the unions of the city under gangster domination.

"The Milk Wagon Drivers union is an armed camp, due to onslaughts by those who would like to loot its treasury and command the members of the union. Steve Sumner, vice president of the Milk Wagon Drivers union, has been the target of criminals for some time and now that Berrell is gone Sumner is the only hope of the unions."

From Many Sources.

Other information tending to show that the Berrell killing was the result of a feud between union labor and gangsters came from various sources—the police, the Secret Six, and the Employers' association.

It was pointed out that before 1928 the Capone gang on the west side and the Moran gang on the north side waxed fat and arrogant on the booze and beer business. Then they saw the chance of invading the realm of business and legitimate trade unions.

The Becker system of cleaning and dyeing plants on the south side took Capone into the organization as a protection against racketeers. "Bugs" Moran, north side gang boss, became a partner in a north side cleaning and dyeing plant. This industry was torn with labor troubles, but an outstanding legitimate labor leader was John G. Clay, boss of the Laundry and Dyehouse Chauffeurs' union, which had a measure of control over distribution of business picked up from small tailoring shops.

Frustrates Moran.

Then Clay was shot to death in union headquarters on Nov. 16, 1928. Investigators said there was information to the effect that Moran and Willie Marks had been frustrated by Clay in an attempt to take control, through gun power, of the union employés of this industry.

Clay's union was one of those in the group of which Berrell was the di-

RAINSTORM GIVES CITY RELIEF FROM 4 DAY HEAT WAVE

Here are the high points in the Chicago weather situation:

1. It will be cooler today. Showers and shifting winds broke the four day hot spell yesterday afternoon.
2. Yesterday's official maximum temperature was 95 degrees at 1 p. m. At midnight the mercury registered 76.
3. A lightning bolt struck last evening at the Montrose beach, killing one bather and severely burning another.
4. A windstorm swept through the township of Lemont, knocking down wires and halting electric line service.
5. There was one drowning. A small boy lost his life while wading in a northwest side pool.

WHAT'S INSIDE OF OIL CANS? DRYS FIND OUT

A small automobile carrying three husky men halted last evening in front of the warehouse of the Puritan Products company, oil jobbers at 7247 South Halsted street.

Out stepped the trio. Each held a crowbar. With his bar the first man tried the front door and found it strong. A crowd gathered and some one asked why the crowbar men didn't use a key.

"We don't need no key," said the leader. "We're officers."

They went to the rear door and broke it in. Then they valiantly attacked a five gallon can and punctured it. A gummy liquid ran from the tin, which had the legend "oil" on the label.

"Well, well," said the first crowbar wielder. "It really is oil."

They trooped out. The police were notified a little later by several witnesses that the car had a license plate with the number 736,289. That number was issued to the department of justice, United States of America, 608 South Dearborn street. H. A. Baker, president of the oil company, announced that he would demand today that the government explain why its busy agents are going around bursting oil cans.

Gets 30 Days After Her Car Hits Children

Found guilty on four counts as a "hit and run" driver, May Romano, 24 years old, 2905 Diversey parkway, was sentenced yesterday to the bridewell by Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green in the South State street court. The judge found Miss Romano guilty of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident and sentenced her to 30 days on each charge. However, he provided that the terms should run concurrently, so that she would have to serve only 30 days instead of 60.

Judge Green ordered Miss Romano taken into custody immediately and set her bond at $25,000 pending an appeal. At 11 o'clock she was still in custody at the detective bureau, having failed to furnish bail.

Fined for Lack of License.

Two fines of $100 each and costs were also assessed against the defendant because of her failure to have either a city or state license on her car. Miss Romano admitted on the stand that she had owned the sedan for two years and never had had a license. Policeman B. Westbrook, who arrested her, and another witness testified that she asserted when arrested that she "didn't need a license," and that she always had had her tickets "fixed for a few dollars."

"If there ever was a clear case of wanton disrespect for the law and disregard for the rights of these children," Judge Green declared at the close of testimony, "I think it is this case. The public is entitled to a break. Yet here is this woman, not only driving a car for two years without either city or state license, but boasting that she got tickets fixed. A license ought to mean something and the city is entitled to $100 and costs in this case, as is the state."

Children Hit by Car.

On July 11, swooping past a barrier erected across Cambridge avenue near Oak street to protect children playing under the auspices of Eli Bates settlement workers, the Romano girl piloted her sedan twice through a crowd of nearly 100 boys and girls, the evidence showed. The second time she knocked down and injured Mary Rizzo, 8 years old, who is still in Children's Memorial hospital, and Laura Turmino, 11, of 926 Cambridge avenue, still suffering from bruises.

No horn was sounded on either trip through the barred play space, it was shown. The sedan did not stop after the accident, and when tested going at twenty miles per hour, less than her indicated speed, was proved unable to stop within 120 feet because of poor brakes.

Policeman Westbrook and Walter Kindelsperger, the boys' play director who identified the car after the accident, told the court Miss Romano professed ignorance of an accident and finally declared that "if I hit the kid I'll pay damages."

Strenuous objection to any publicity was made repeatedly by the young woman's attorney, Clarence W. Hortsman, who threatened to throw reporters out of his office and asked Judge Green to impound a picture made at the trial.

FEAR 10 DROWNED AS BOATS SWAMP IN A WIND SQUALL

Pontiac, Mich., July 21.—[Special.]—Following a violent wind and rain storm throughout this section of Oakland county early tonight and the discovery of five empty boats which capsized, it is believed at least ten lives were lost on a small lake about six miles west of this city.

Firemen and sheriff deputies dragged the lake. One body, that of William Burns, was the first one discovered. The wind storm demolished telephone and lighting wires, leaving the entire surrounding territory without lights or means of communication other than automobiles.

The lake is about two miles long and one mile wide and has several boat liveries. Hot weather during the late afternoon drove many persons to the lake, which was formed by damming the Huron river. Two rowboats, smashed, were found on the dam and others found floating in the lake.

City Employes Paid; Teachers Plan Protest

The city of Chicago yesterday started paying its employés for the last half of April. Funds came from the sale of $1,900,000 in tax anticipation warrants, 1931 series, to four banks—the Continental Illinois, First National, Harris Trust, and Northern Trust.

City Controller Szymczak, who arranged the loan, ordered the pay checks released as soon as the funds were in city accounts.

Representatives of teachers' groups in the public schools complained of the "unfairness" of the city administration in paying its employés and forcing the board of education to finance itself. All the groups have been called to a special meeting in the Central Y. M. C. A. this morning to discuss a line of action—possibly some form of demand that school employés share in all distributions of city cash.

Supreme Court to Convene.

Another development having a bearing on teachers' pay was the announcement yesterday that the Illinois Supreme court will meet in Springfield next Monday and take up for consideration, among other things, the legality of "not sufficient funds" checks issued by school boards downstate as well as in Chicago.

Such pay checks, under the law, are full faith and credit obligations and a direct lien, it is held, on tax collections. As such they have destroyed the market for school tax anticipation warrants. If the law should be declared unconstitutional by the high court, it is believed that warrants can be sold by the board of education in large amounts.

A qualification to this last statement was made by Mr. Szymczak—"Assuming a proper regard for economy in the schools."

Try to Aid Schools.

"We are making every effort to sell school warrants," he added. "Should we be successful, or if we could find it possible to invest from our aggregate of funds in school tax warrants, the teachers will have another pay day, and we hope many more pay days."

Robert Keenan of the south side teachers' group declared the leaving of school teachers out of the money distribution was "particularly treacherous."

"The city waited until the schools were dismissed to repudiate a pledge that was kept for a while to keep the schools open for the regular term," he said.

Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union, said: "All should share alike. We contribute services, just as policemen and firemen do. It is false to say that the bankers are dictating to the city how to handle its funds."

Municipal employés are confident that they will have another pay day about Aug. 1 to cover the first half of May. Export opinion held that the school workers will get money only after the board of education has substantially reduced its budget.

GAMBLING BOAT BURNED; GUEST SAVED BY NAVY

San Pedro, Cal., July 21.—(AP)—Fire tonight destroyed the palatial gambling barge Johanna Smith off Long Beach, the flames signaling the second time this week the cards have fallen wrong on "gamblers' row."

Forty croupiers and members of the crew, and nearly fifty early dinner guests were removed from the Johanna Smith by four coast guard vessels and three navy shore boats.

The only casualty was two broken ribs by E. A. Odette, ship's carpenter, in the rush to the rails. Several, it was reported, became so panic stricken they were prepared to jump into the ocean when the rescue craft appeared.

Clarence Blazier of Long Beach, owner, left the ship with most of the cash of the games, which ordinarily runs between $50,000 and $100,000.

The cause of the fire was not learned.

HOOVER WRITES THE LAST MAN IN LAST MAN'S CLUB

Stillwater, Minn., July 21.—(AP)—President Hoover, in a letter to Charles Lockwood, honored guest of the annual Last Man's club banquet here tonight, expressed the hope that "you may long continue to be an inspiration to our country."

The President's letter follows:

"My dear Mr. Lockwood:

"You will have a solemn pride in celebrating this year the anniversary of your own and your comrades' valor at the battle of Bull Run. I share in spirit with your friends of the veterans of foreign wars and your neighbors of Minnesota in paying you honor on this occasion, and I do pray that you may long continue to be an inspiration to our country. Yours faithfully, HERBERT HOOVER."

I. C. C. APPROVES EASTERN LINES' CONSOLIDATION

57,000 Mi. of Track Are Allotted.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Consolidation of all eastern railroads, except those of New England, into four great systems was approved by the interstate commerce commission today in the most far-reaching decision ever handed down by the commission.

The four systems to be created, if the railroads agree to the commission plan, will be known as the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate. The four systems thus created will embrace 57,000 miles of rail lines—300 roads, though many of them are already operated by the large trunk lines.

How Lines Are Allotted.

The percentages of the lines allocated to the several systems are:

Pennsylvania .....31.5 per cent
C. and O.-Nickel Plate....24.5 per cent
New York Central.....23.7 per cent
Baltimore & Ohio.....20.3 per cent

The commissions' ruling caused an immediate reaction approaching jubilation in railroad circles, which hailed the plan as the most helpful factor in that industry in 12 years. In fact, as the report pointed out, the leading railroads have received virtually all that they have asked for 'in' order to work out a new plan of economies.

Commissioners Joseph B. Eastman and Frank McManamy dissented from the decision, particularly for two reasons: First, that in their opinion the four dominant lines already have put much of the plan into effect illegally and, second, that present changing conditions form an improper background for radical revision of railway systems.

Don't Need Cash for Mergers.

As to the expense involved in the consolidations, a point that Commissioner Eastman also raised, it was stated here that plans already are afoot to utilize in many cases an exchange of securities, thus avoiding transfer of cash at a time when railroads are particularly short of money.

The commission altered the plan it promulgated in 1929 by eliminating a proposed fifth system to be built around the Norfolk and Western, Wabash, Seaboard roads, leaving the Seaboard Airline railway company not allocated. The Wabash and the Norfolk and Western go into the Pennsylvania system. It also left out of its plan the Delaware & Hudson railroad corporation, controlled by Leonor F. Loree, who has bitterly fought the four system plan.

Makeup of Four Systems.

Terming the Delaware and Hudson "the most important of the New England bridge carriers," the commission's statement said that disposition of it would await a decision on whether one or two New England systems are to be recommended.

Under the commission's plan, issued today, the systems will be known as Nos. 3 to 6 inclusive, as follows:

System No. 3—New York Central: Including 75 long and short roads and trackage rights over six roads.

System No. 4 — Pennsylvania: Including 82 long and short roads and trackage rights over four roads.

System No. 5 — Baltimore & Ohio: Including 68 long and short roads and trackage rights over eight roads.

System No. 6—Chesapeake & Ohio: Nickel Plate: Including 70 long and short roads and trackage rights over seven roads.

Porter Presents Report.

The commission's report was presented by Chairman Claude R. Porter. It was concurred in without exception by Commissioner Ernest I. Lewis and with minor exceptions by Commissioners Ezra Brainerd Jr., William E. Lee, and Charles D. Mahaffie.

"Since the publication of our plan in 1929," Chairman Porter's report stated, "and more especially in the consideration of the evidence upon this record, it has become increasingly apparent that no workable plan of consolidation in conformity with the law can be devised which calls for more than four systems in eastern territory, excluding New England. . . Actual consolidation is voluntary and if the fruits of consolidation are to be realized within the not too distant future this condition must be taken into consideration in formulating a permanent plan."

Stating that the Pennsylvania and the New York Central already control in fairly equal proportions "almost one-half of the entire railroad mileage" in the eastern territory, the report added that of the 32,000 remaining miles of trackage some 20,000 is controlled by the Baltimore and Ohio and the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate.

"We believe that the public interest will best be served," the report continued, "by grouping the railways in eastern territory, excluding New England, into four systems, each having adequate main stems between the Atlantic seaboard and the middle west, reaching a majority of the large producing and consuming centers of the territory, having the necessary physical and financial strength to serve the public efficiently and economically, and to coördinate their services with other means of transportation, and which will be so constructed as to preserve healthful competition and maintain, as far as practicable, the existing routes and channels of trade and commerce."

Point Out Plan's Virtues.

The commission pointed out that under the plan each of the industrial centers in the eastern section of the country has two or more competing lines; that each of the four lines has access to two or more Atlantic ports, and that each of the four systems has direct access to its own fuel supply.

The commission recognized that its four system eastern plan raises a knotty problem to be untangled in the future, due to the Pennsylvania's transcendence over the other three systems and the fact that it now holds a large interest, directly or through holding companies, in such powerful New England lines as the New York, New Haven and Hartford and the Boston and Maine.

Fear Upset of Balance.

Chairman Porter wrote that New England interests appear to favor, in case "trunk line penetration should be later determined upon for New England," inclusion of the New Haven in system No. 4, or that dominated by the Pennsylvania, but added:

"If the New Haven with its 2,122 miles were added to the Pennsylvania system without any addition to the Baltimore and Ohio system, for example, as herein planned, its mileage would exceed that of the latter system by 74 per cent.

"These circumstances raise grave doubts, even if trunk line penetration is finally determined upon for New England, whether the Pennsylvania should be permitted to retain any of its holdings in the New Haven or in any other New England railway property."

Pennsylvania Must Sell Stock.

It was conceded in the report, however, that the four system consolidation plan may be consummated before a decision regarding New England is reached and that "in that event under the law as it now stands we might find ourselves powerless, even with the aid of the courts, to require the Pennsylvania to relinquish its holdings in New England railroads."

Therefore, the Pennsylvania and its subsidiaries was ordered to sell or place in hands of trustees its 22.79 per cent of the stock of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and its 19.25 per cent of the stock of the Boston & Maine.

The report also stipulated that in effecting the consolidations under this plan the railroads give "careful consideration" to the problem of avoiding undue hardships on their employés through the relocation and consolidation of shops and offices.

While the commission advocates consolidation into four systems instead of five, as recommended in its plan of 1929, the difference is more apparent than real because about 90 per cent of the mileage involved received the same allocation under both plans.

Kill Anti-Trust Ruling.

Two Clayton anti-trust decisions were abrogated in that the Pennsylvania was authorized to absorb the Wabash railroad and the Baltimore and Ohio the Western Maryland.

The decision took away from the B. & O. the one-half interest originally allocated to it in the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville railroad (the Monon) and left the line with its present owners, the Louisville and Nashville (part of the Atlantic Coast line system), and the Southern railway system. The Baltimore and Ohio had asked complete control.

The decision cuts off one branch of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and awards it to the Chesapeake and Ohio so that road can reach Syracuse and Oswego, N. Y. The New York Central is given all the rest of the line, but the Chesapeake and Ohio is granted trackage rights from Binghamton to Chenango Forks, N. Y.

New England Wins Victory.

The battle of the five New England governors and powerful business interests in the northeast brought part of the results desired. Some of the New England gateway bridge lines were left with New England companies and one—the Delaware and Hudson—was declared an independent system.

The Lehigh and New England was divided equally between the four systems. The New York, Ontario and Western was left with the New Haven system and the Lehigh and Hudson River allocated to the Baltimore and Ohio.

The Delaware and Hudson decision, though taking away from the Boston and Maine system a bridge line New England officials thought to hold, is a victory beth for New England officials and Loree, last of the old time railroad operators. Loree controls the Delaware and Hudson and the Kansas City Southern. Through his representatives he informed the commission that his railroad was not for sale. He seriously questioned the financial ability of the four big companies to swing the deal they had on. He insisted that his road should be let alone.

E. J. & E. Independent.

The four trunk lines sought allocation to them jointly of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railway, U. S. Steel company road serving the Chicago district. The commission decided that this independent terminal line should continue at this time in that relationship to other lines, and said that the "Jay," along with other purely terminal properties, would be left without specific allocation at this time.

The Virginian railway, a rich coal carrying line, which the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Pennsylvania sought to divide, was allocated by the commission to the New York Central system.

The consolidations would carry the four systems as far west as Kansas City and Omaha, as far south as St. Louis, Elkhorn City, W. Va., and Salem, N. C. It gains the Chesapeake and Ohio an entry into the Pennsylvania station in New York City and an outlet for car ferry service across the great lakes through Michigan.

Reasons for Objectors.

In his dissenting opinion Commissioner Eastman assailed the majority's decision on the ground that adoption of the four system plan in the east meant the junking of the consolidation plan for the country as a whole which was adopted in 1929.

The eastern rail executives, he asserted, had ignored the rest of the country and had left "several amputated and bleeding stumps without benefit of connecting systems." Among the lines he put in this category are the Seaboard Airline, the Mobile and Ohio, and the Chicago and North Western. He said the latter was left "in solitude in western territory." The other two, both in receivership, he said, were "left to shift for themselves."

Commissioner Eastman reiterated previous attacks on holding company acquisitions of railroads by the Pennsylvania and Van Sweringen interests, asserting that many of them were unlawful. As a condition of approval of the new plan he would have required the Van Sweringen interests to trustee their stock in the Missouri Pacific in the same manner as the Pennsylvania was ordered to trustee its New England stocks.

Fifth System Inefficient.

In reference to the fifth system the commission pointed out in explaining its decision to drop it that both the Seaboard Airline and the Wabash were now in the hands of receivers.

Aside from financial instability, said the commission, there had arisen grave doubts whether in other respects the proposed fifth system would fulfill the requirements of the law.

"The principal railroads included in the system," said Chairman Porter, "appear to lack desirable coördination. Important existing routes and channels of trade and commerce, particularly between the south and the north, would be quite certain to be displaced by circuitous and less efficient or desirable routes. The present plan leaves less than 7,000 miles of railway, most of which so lacks coördination it would be impossible to build a fifth system out of them which would have the necessary physical and financial strength to serve public efficiently and economically in competition with the other four systems."

2 RAIL OFFICIALS LOOK FAVORABLY ON RAIL MERGER

See Opportunities to Make Economies.

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—The four party consolidation plan for the eastern railroads as announced by the interstate commerce commission holds out promise for "many economies" and comes extremely timely to the pledge to reduce competitive wastes made public by the railroads on Wednesday, it was said tonight by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio.

Sees Chance for Savings.

Mr. Willard also pointed out that, while the commission's plan issued in 1929 for five trunk lines in the east, compared with the four suggested by the railroads themselves and recommended in the commission's plan issued yesterday, 90 per cent of the mileage involved received the same allocations under each plan.

"Although financial and business conditions make large merger operations rather difficult at the present time," said Mr. Willard, "if the plan is substantially accepted by the four principal carriers in the east I believe it will be possible to bring about, through cooperation, many economies in operation based in part on the elimination of certain competitive practices.

The commission's plan allocates, with one chief exception, practically all the properties for which the Baltimore and Ohio applied in the petition put forward by the railroads. The exception is the allocation of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville, or Monon, to the Southern railway and Atlantic Coast line.

"We had thought that the Monon should go to us," said Mr. Willard. "However, the Monon is not essential to the B. & O., although it would have fitted in our system if the owners had been willing to sell.

"The commission's revised plan gives us the Lehigh and Hudson, although the commission previously allocated this road to the New York, New Haven and Hartford. The commission evidently recognized that this line fits better with the B. & O. than with the New Haven, and, as it happens, the New Haven did not care for the property."

Central Official Comments.

R. D. Starbuck, executive vice president, said:

"While the plan as I understand it may not be entirely satisfactory to any of the companies, nevertheless and upon the whole I believe it measurably meets the spirit of the consolidation provisions of the transportation act and that, upon the whole, it will result in benefit to the public."

ALLOCATION OF ROADS AMONG 4 RAIL SYSTEMS

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—The consolidation plan announced by the interstate commerce commission calls for assembling the eastern railroads into four groups, based respectively, on the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate systems. Some lines allocated to each of the four trunk lines have been in their possession for many years. The most important additions:

NEW YORK CENTRAL.
Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.
Lehigh and New England [one-fourth interest].

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.
Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad.
Lehigh and New England [one-fourth interest].
Pittsburgh and West Virginia, east of Gould's tunnel [one-fourth interest].
Raritan River railroad [one-half interest].
Norfolk and Western.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO.
Reading company.
Central of New Jersey.
Western Maryland.
Alton railroad and Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, both already operated by the Baltimore and Ohio.
Pittsburgh and West Virginia, east of Gould's tunnel [one-fourth interest].
Raritan River railroad [one-half interest].

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO-NICKEL PLATE.
Bessemer and Lake Erie railroad.
Chicago and Eastern Illinois [already controlled by the Van Sweringens].
Lehigh Valley railroad.
Lehigh and New England [one-fourth interest].
Pittsburgh and West Virginia, east of Gould's tunnel [one-fourth interest].
Pittsburgh and West Virginia, west of Gould's tunnel.
Erie railroad [already controlled by the Van Sweringens].
Pere Marquette [already controlled by the Chesapeake and Ohio].

IDLE CLOSE 100 NORTH CAROLINA MILLS; 20 JAILED

High Point, N. C., July 21.—(AP)—Twenty leaders of "wrecking crews," which closed down virtually every manufacturing plant in five North Carolina towns Tuesday, were in jail tonight while the High Point area slowly recovered from one of the strangest strikes on record.

While a bona fide strike of 6,000 hosiery workers was at its height, the "wrecking crews," composed mainly of unemployed men, but with a sprinkling of strikers, marched from mill to mill, shutting off the power, and forcing the shutdown of more than 100 plants and the temporary idleness of between 5,000 and 10,000 operatives.

There was no disorder. Police, armed with tear bombs, stood on the sidelines and watched the men take control of factory after factory.

There were no complaints from mill owners. When the "wrecking crews" arrived and shut off the power the workers in the various plants left their posts rather than risk violence at the hands of the invaders.

Blizzard Drives Back Fifty Searching for Andes Plane

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 21.—A violent snowstorm reaching to the hills around Santiago today forced back 50 persons who had been searching by plane, motor, and land for the lost Pan-American Grace air liner San José. The plane and its nine occupants disappeared last Saturday.

EVANSTON HIGH MAY BE UNABLE TO OPEN SEPT. 12

Unless the Evanston township high school board is able to sell the major portion of $400,000 worth of 1931 tax warrants within the next month, the school will not be opened on Sept. 12, William Eastman, president of the board, announced yesterday.

A definite decision upon the reopening will be made when results of efforts to sell the tax warrants are reported at the next meeting of the school board on Aug. 17. Sales of the warrants to date have not been encouraging, it was said.

Most of the $400,000 would be necessary for expenses shortly after the reopening of the school. The 1932 budget of the district, approved at a meeting of the school board Wednesday evening, totals $862,700, a reduction of approximately 9 per cent below the 1931 total.

READY TO LEND $500,000 FOR NEEDY RAILWAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 21.—The Railroad Credit corporation authorized additional advances of $500,000 to needy railroads at its monthly meeting here today.

This organization collects revenues from the freight surcharges which took effect Jan. 4 and lends them to railroads to meet interest charges.

The $500,000 authorization brings the total of loans made or authorized since the corporation began operation in February from $29,588,000 to $30,088,008.

MATCH TRADITION OF CLARK ST. WITH 'BROADWAY' LURE

Aldermen Hear Plea to Retain Old Names.

A vigorous plea for sentiment and tradition was made at a city council hearing yesterday on the proposal to extend Broadway south from Diversey parkway to 138th street by changing the names of parts of Clark street and Archer, Wentworth, and Vincennes avenues, thoroughfares which are rich in the history of Chicago's growth. The subcommittee before which the hearing was held adjourned without taking any action.

PROF. JAMES.

James A. James, professor of American history at Northwestern university, who spent 25 years writing the life of the Revolutionary hero, George Rogers Clark, for whom Clark street was named, made a plea against the change.

"I've been hearing that we shouldn't put sentiment above business," he said. "But if we drop sentiment out of our lives what have we left? Was it sentiment or business that brought George Washington from his comfortable home at Mount Vernon into the Revolutionary war?

Sentiment or Business.

"Was it not sentiment that brought John Adams to the Continental congress and into the same war? It was sentiment, too, that led the young Virginia general, George Rogers Clark, under the greatest difficulties to sail down the Ohio and cross the plains of Illinois to capture Kaskaskia."

Representatives of business men's associations and others favoring the name Broadway, anxiously stated that they, too, were all for sentiment, but that "business was business."

Mrs. Louise N. Harvey, 1233 North Clark street, wiped a perspiring face and said that she was sure the professor had made a nice talk, but that there were other kinds of sentiment beside the historic—the sentiment "of home and business," for instance.

"Now, the name Broadway has a big sound," she said. "You must think of that. We have to earn our living and it means dollars and cents to us."

No Business Appeal.

Mrs. Arthur J. O'Neill, state president of the Daughters of 1812, said that she didn't see how there could be any business appeal in "Broadway." "What the buyer is looking for is bargains, not the name of a street," she said.

"And shall the name of 'Long John' Wentworth be wiped from memory also?" she asked.

John B. De Voney, real estate operator, member of the North Clark Street Improvement association, asserted that in his way he was a great one for sentiment, too, but added:

"Now, the Greater Broadway committee may be willing to receive suggestions for other names, but our association wants nothing but 'Broadway.' Think of the millions in advertising!"

William C. Calvert of the North Central association, speaking in favor of "Broadway," said that Clark street north of the river had fallen on evil days.

"Why, 32 years ago I watched private vehicles and coachmen drive into Clark street by the dozen," he said. "Try to find one now!"

"Bring Back Beer."

"Don't blame the name of Clark, blame the Volstead law," interrupted Ald. John Coughlin [1st], chairman of the subcommittee. "Prior to the Volstead law, was the name of Clark street a detriment to your business? No, it was a proud name. Bring back beer and you'll bring back your business."

2 GIRLS SLAIN; FIND BODIES ON BANK OF RIVER

Missing Since Leaving with Men Tuesday.

Lake City, Minn., July 21.—[Special.]—Two girls who had been missing since Tuesday night when they left home on a "date" with two strange men were found dead today on the banks of the Zumbro river west of Lake City. Both were scantily clad. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

The body of Louise Prigge, 22 year old Rochester farm girl, was found early in the day. That of her chum, Frances Polikowski, 21, Rochester, was found late this afternoon.

Discovery of the body of the second girl convinced Lake City officials that the girls had been slain, but first examination failed to reveal the cause of death. Neither body bore marks of violence. Miss Prigge's body was found in the water, but there was no water in her lungs.

Both bodies were taken to Rochester, where autopsies will be performed.

No Trace of Escorts.

Meanwhile officers were unable to find any trace of the two young men with whom the girls were last seen alive.

Miss Polikowski was visiting at the farm home of Miss Prigge, five miles from Rochester, Tuesday. At about 8:45 p. m. two young men called at the home. The girls drove off with them.

Mrs. Hugo Prigge, sister-in-law of the dead girl, said she believed one of the men lives at Plainview. She said she knows his first name. William H. Prigge, the father, said he caught a glimpse of the two men but did not recognize them.

Unable to Find Clothing.

A party of campers found Miss Prigge's body floating in Ryan's bay late today. A searching party was organized at once to hunt for Miss Polikowski. Her virtually unclad body soon was found on the river bank.

There were no automobile tracks or footprints near the bodies and there was no trace of the girls' clothing.

Schools Near Showdown on Cutting Running Costs

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Within a few days—probably next Tuesday—the school trustees will have to decide whether they will discharge several hundred of the 2,793 workers employed in the operation of the public school buildings. At the same time they must determine whether they will cut the wages of those remaining; and if so, how much.

If they refuse to curb the expense of plant operation, they will thereby decrease the prospect of borrowing money to pay $20,700,000 of back salaries and getting cash with which to operate the schools for the remainder of the year.

If they reduce the salaries of engineers and janitors, a fight will start to compel proportionate reductions for other school employes. If this includes an attempt to reduce teachers' pay they will fight back vigorously.

Recommend Severe Cut.

The pay cut recommended for school operating employes by Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university is severe. It is larger than has heretofore been represented. The text of Dr. Strayer's report on his survey of the school system urges a 21 per cent reduction in salaries of engineers. The maximum of the engineers' salary schedule is ordinarily $5,640 a year, but this year it is $5,170, the difference representin a month's work without compensation because of the necessity of retrenchment. The 21 per cent cut recommended by Dr. Strayer is from $5,170. In a word, for the engineers in this group the Strayer report recommends a reduction from the present scale of $5,640 to $4,059—a drop of 28 per cent.

Would Eliminate 502 Jobs.

Joe Spain, head of the Engineers' union, has told the trustees that the engineers will take any temporary cut in compensation which the board will exact from other board employes, provided the schools are kept in operation and the children educated. The city employes have been cut less than 22 per cent.

Before the salary reductions are made, Dr. Strayer recommends the complete elimination from the service of twenty assistant engineers at $300 a month each, thirty-one firemen whose scale is $225 a month, forty other firemen whose scale is $185, 269 janitors at $140 a month, 104 janitresses at $125 a month, and thirty-eight window washers at $160 a month.

Altogether, Dr. Strayer would eliminate 502 employes and reduce the salaries of the remainder to effect a total yearly saving of $1,626,157.

The revamping of this particular service, according to the advice of the Strayer experts, is shown in the following table prepared by them, which gives recommended cuts in salaries for the different classes of employes:

Positions	Present salary rate.	Proposed salary rate.
Engineers [A]	$5,170	$4,030
Engineer [B]	4,895	3,845
Engineer [C]	4,565	3,584
Engineer [D]	4,290	3,368
Engineer [E]	3,850	3,023
Engineer [F]	3,630	2,850
Engineer [G]	3,465	2,720
Engineer [H]	3,300	2,590
Asst. Eng. [A]	3,630	2,400
Asst. Eng. [B]	3,465	2,291
Asst. Eng. [C]	3,300	2,182
Firemen [A]	2,700	2,128
Firemen [B]	2,220	1,750
Janitors	1,540	1,440
Janitresses	1,375	1,080
Scrubwomen	1,045	900
Window Washers	1,920	....
Watchmen	1,485	1,440

By this Strayer compilation there are a total of 2,566 employes, but that is on the basis of annual employment. Some of the firemen are employed for only five months, janitresses for 11 months, and so on. The number of persons affected by the proposed wage scale is 2,798. The "present wage scale" as used by the Strayer report is for the 11 months' pay of this year, because the employes were required to donate one month's service to the schools.

The school board committee which is considering this table is composed of Trustees Carr, Buehler, Savage, Mrs. Hefferan and President Myers. They have asked Business Manager Howard P. Savage and School Engineer John Howatt to investigate and report their views on the Strayer recommendations.

Will Debate on Monday.

Messrs. Howatt and Savage have completed their inquiry and will have their figures correlated for their talk to the union heads Monday morning. It is understood they will recommend the discharge of several hundred employes. It is not their task to decide upon the wages to be paid; that is the problem of the trustees.

Relative to the cost of operating the school houses, the Strayer report says:

"It cannot be disputed that the Chicago schools are overmanned and that the salaries are out of line with the salary schedules that reasonably should be paid for the type of service rendered. From every angle of computation the operation-of-plant pay roll of the Chicago schools is too high. The individual school comparison of Chicago with a school in Boston and another in Minneapolis indicates that Chicago custodial service costs in these instances 47.6 and 54.3 per cent too much."

Curtailment of the school budget by more slashes in the building program is to be considered this morning at a joint meeting of a committee of school officials and the citizens' committee on public expenditures.

ADMIRAL BYRD'S SHIP ARRIVES; EXHIBIT AT FAIR

The City of New York, Admiral Richard E. Byrd's south polar ship, was towed along Chicago's lake front last night and anchored off 23d street as an exhibit for the World's Fair. Squalls and high winds prevented a welcoming celebration by yachts and other craft.

Three members of the Byrd expedition were aboard. They are Lieut. Harry Adams, U. S. N., retired, chief officer and navigator on the polar dash; John Bursey, dog driver and now first mate, and John Buys, acting second mate.

World's Fair officials will dedicate the Golden Pavilion of Jehol, example of Chinese Lama architecture, today at 16th street and Leif Eriksen drive.

BRITISH EMPIRE LAUNCHES WAR ON DEPRESSION

Economic Parley Opened with King's Message.

delegates except those from England joined in the demonstration. The English sat silent and glum while the Irishman was applauded.

Two Keynote Speeches.

The chief keynote speeches were made by Mr. Bennett and Mr. Baldwin.

It was quite evident that it will be extremely difficult to harmonize the conflicting interests of the nations composing the British empire and that good will, of which there seems to be plenty, alone is not enough.

Bennett has a definite plan of high tariffs and preferences, the details of which he did not disclose in his address. Presumably it is the same as that he proposed in London two years ago which was turned down by Great Britain because it favored Canada at the expense of the mother country.

Britain, as represented by Baldwin, is sitting on the fence, waiting to see what the other nations produce. She is willing to go a long way in the matter of concessions in her home market in return for a virtual monopoly of the dominion's markets. Other dominions, however, said frankly they had little to offer and expected little. There also seemed to be complete divergence on the important question of currency.

What Canada Proposes.

Bennett said he proposed to resubmit in principle his old proposals. He said that England should extend the principle of her present tariff preferences to natural products, which means taxing foreign food for the benefit of the dominion producers. Canada in turn, according to his plan, is willing to admit British manufactured goods. He intimated to Canadian manfacturers that if they did not like this they would have to put up with it for the sake of the Canadian farmer. In addition, he proposed free entry into Canada for such British products as did not affect Canadian industry.

Summarized, Bennett's proposals were, for Canada:

1. An extension of the free list.
2. Retention of existing preferences in favor of Britain.
3. Increased preferences on a selected list o farticles which are noncompetitive with Canadian manufacturers.

Canada in return, the premier indicated, expects from Britain practically the same privileges.

Attacks Soviet System.

An important part of Bennett's speech was a slashing attack on the soviet Russian system and an appeal to the conference to support private enterprise and western standards of living.

Baldwin, who followed, avoided committing himself except in so far as he indicated that British opinion was not against the quota method of restricting imports, and that it favored tariffs instead. He also indicated that Britain is not disposed to throw away the 70 per cent of her trade, which she now enjoys with foreign countries, in favor of the 30 per cent which she has with the dominions.

This viewpoint was also emphasized by N. C. Havenga of South Africa, who declared that his country could not subscribe to the idea of a self-contained and exclusive empire.

"No member of the British commonwealth, least of all Great Britain," he said, "can live on commonwealth trade alone."

Urges Return to Gold.

Switching to the currency question, Havenga attacked all ideas of superseding gold as a standard.

"What is wanted," he said, "is something more stable and not less stable than gold. Gold has proved that it is unassailable and the best any one can do is to get back to the gold as soon as possible."

Stanley Bruce of Australia said that at the last imperial conference the political relationships of the states of the commonwealth had been settled and that it now remained to settle the economic relationship. In each case there was only one principle on which it could be done and that was complete individual freedom.

Irish Demand Equality.

O'Kelly of the Free State began in lyrical accents concerning Canada's welcome and ended on an acid note concerning England by referring to the Anglo-Irish tariff war. He said that owing to recent events 85 per cent of Ireland's export trade might have to be changed in form and direction and the whole economic organization of the country reorganized. He wound up by claiming for the Free State equality with England.

Sir Atul Chatterjee spoke for India and Premier Moffat for Southern Rhodesia and the first public session ended after three hours.

At a private session tonight heads of delegations met to consider the methods of work. It was decided to appoint five committees: (1) Promotion of trade within the commonwealth, (2) customs administration, (3) commercial relations with foreign countries, (4) monetary and financial questions, and (5) methods of economic coöperation.

BRITISH GOODS POUR INTO DUBLIN IN ORDER TO BEAT IRISH TARIFF

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 21. — (AP) — English merchants were making frantic efforts today to beat the deadline of the Free State emergency tariffs which probably will become effective Saturday. These tariffs constitute a retaliatory measure against the recent duties imposed by the British parliament on Free State goods.

A flood of goods is pouring into the port of Dublin from England. This was made possible by the action of the Free State senate yesterday in making a minor alteration in the government's tariff measure, thus making it necessary for the bill to be sent back to the lower house. The dail meets in emergency session tomorrow and it is expected that the bill will be rushed through so that the tariffs may become operative Saturday.

The list of articles they will hit already has been prepared, but is being kept secret. It is predicted that among other things British coal imports will be killed.

LANDED GENTRY IN BRITAIN ARE NOW 'DISLANDED'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 21.—The landed gentry of Great Britain who are not that any more are to be officially recognized as the "dislanded gentry" in a special supplement to Burke's "Landed Gentry," which lists British aristocracy.

High taxation and death duties are responsible for the innovation, according to the editors of the publication. Formerly when a landowner sold his acres his name was automatically dropped from the register. But now, with one-third of the 2,500 names eligible for publication in 1921 failing to qualify, it was realized that it would be necessary to include them somehow or the book would be too small.

The new issue of "Landed Gentry" will have about 800 members of the "dislanded gentry" listed. The edition has been two years in preparation.

One liability listed is a judgment for $19,250 alimony due the former Mrs. Elise Bartlett Schildkraut, actress, who later became Mrs. Horace Liveright, wife of the publisher.

BRITAIN TO BUILD 22 WARSHIPS AT ONCE; AIDS IDLE

$48,000,000 Navy Program Is Launched.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 21.—Contracts for building twenty-two warships costing $48,000,000 and representing the 1931 program, are to be placed almost immediately, it was learned today.

The British admiralty is considering bids. Six vessels will be built in the royal dockyards and the remainder in private yards, chiefly at Clyde and Tyne.

The list includes three cruisers, four sloops, eight destroyers, one flotilla leader, three submarines, one torpedo school tender, one gunboat for China, and one smaller craft.

Delayed by Depression.

It is understood that the building program, which has been held up for nearly eighteen months for economy reasons, will be under way by October. Work will be spread over a period of years, employing thousands of men in industries which have suffered severely from the depression.

Next March another large batch of naval contracts, representing the 1932 program, will be placed, thus providing greater activity for British naval building and armament industries than in many years.

Air Chief Resigns.

Announcement was made tonight by the air ministry of the resignation of Sir John M. Salmond, chief of the air staff, and the appointment of his brother, Sir Geoffrey Salmond, air marshal, to succeed himself.

The official statement declares that Sir John retired "in order to accelerate promotions in the junior ranks." Sir John held the post two years and is popularly known as "Tails Up."

Russia and Italy Stage Big Show for Hoover Disarm Plan

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, July 21.—Soviet Russia and Fascist Italy, having come out for President Hoover's disarmament plan, stood by it today and at an acrimonious session of the conference's general commission denounced the resolution of "achievements" which the conference is struggling to adopt before its adjournment.

They insisted that the resolution is important and that it should be made to include the basic principles of the Hoover plan calling for a one-third arms cut. In so doing they placed Hugh S. Gibson, chief of the American delegation, in what might appear to be an odd situation, for Gibson, convinced that the Hoover plan had been given as much play as possible, supported the resolution.

Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar of foreign affairs, declared the resolution is a ridiculous attempt to pull the wool over the eyes of the world and said that unless its vague declarations are changed, he would vote against it.

Italy Springs Surprise.

This was to be expected, but Italo Balbo, Italian minister of aviation, loosed a bolt designed especially by Premier Mussolini. For today Italy repudiated the conference adjournment resolution after she had played a part right up until yesterday morning in its drafting.

Balbo flew down to Rome yesterday. Today he flew back. He told the delegates that their effort had been "a vain one and entirely inadequate when compared to the wishes and hopes of the world." Italy, he said, would abstain from voting.

Tomorrow Count Rudolf Nadolny of Germany will speak. He was promised today by the worried makers of the resolution—Great Britain, France, and the United States—that Germany's old claim for equality in the right to arm will be considered first when the conference meets again, and the most that is expected of him is that he will abstain from voting.

MAXIM LITVINOV.

Preamble Passes, 16 to 5.

In the face of the embarrassing loyalty of the Russians, Italians, and their satellites to the Hoover plan the preamble of the resolution was passed, 16 to 5. The same five had voted for the bolshevik amendment, which was, to all intents, the Hoover plan.

Thus Gibson, in voting for the preamble as it stood, was maneuvered by the Russian commissar into voting against the very plan which he himself had announced in the same room a month ago.

The sniping then began in earnest, aimed at the half-hearted ban on aerial bombardment and the allegedly loose promise of action on heavy land artillery. Tonight, however, after heavy going, the text was allowed to stand and there are hopes of refuge in adjournment tomorrow or at the latest Saturday.

Litvinov Attacks Resolution.

Litvinov said the resolution did nothing for chemical and bacteriological warfare. The principle of the ban on aerial bombardment is useless as long as bombing planes are allowed to exist, he said. He saw not a single decisive step in the resolution and found reduction of armaments barely dealt with.

"In six months' time the reply of the governments will be the same," he said, "so there is no use to wait. This resolution is not a reply; it is throwing a veil over a reply."

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, defended the bombardment clause, arguing that actual abolition of bombers must wait upon measures to prevent the misuse of large civilian planes and quick conversion of heavy military machines into bombers. Every friend of peace ought to rejoice on the principles set down, which shows, he said, that "we mean to liberate mankind from the haunting terror of assault from the air."

STRATOSPHERIC PLANE TESTED; SKIPS TREETOPS

Just Feels Way Along at Low Altitude.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 21.—The "stratospheric" airplane, secretly under construction for the last three years in the Farman hangars near Versailles, today made its bow to the world, for the first time publicly lifting its strange bulk into the air, over which it is expected to win for man a new empire.

HENRI FARMAN.
[Acme Photo.]

Before a crowd of newspaper men and officials the new ship rose clumsily and sailed like a great, unwieldy kite into the wind. The pilot was perched on a monkey seat high above the fuselage. The plane's slow, heavy, and uncertain progress recalled the dawn of aviation.

Trip Short and Slow.

The Farman chief testing pilot, Lucien Coupet, who took the ship up, contented himself with a long, straight flight into the wind, barely above the treetops, with a cautious mile long turn and easy lap back. Despite a tortuous struggle to keep aloft, the plane made a gentle landing, drifting down easily on its 70 square yards of wing surface. The whole flight only lasted 10 minutes and the plane didn't get within eight miles of the stratosphere.

Th inventors of the plane, the three Farman brothers, Maurice, Henri, and Dick, explained it would take another month of testing before the pilot would be allowed to risk his life in a prolonged flight in the upper reaches bordering on the present ceiling of heavier than air machines.

Air Friction Effective.

The inventors were not disappointed at the unwieldiness of their ship at low altitudes. The plane is designed to streak through rarefied atmosphere at unheard of speeds. The motor, until supercharges are turned on, functions like a perfectly commonplace 350 horse power affair, and the huge wing spread makes it impossible to develop high speed until air resistance is decreased.

The Farman brothers, who are among the pioneers of French aviation, abandoned the modern "bullet-type" plane with powerful motors and reduced wing spread and reverted to the kitelike types they were making around 1910. The whole problem for them boils down to two factors—giving the pilot enough air to live and the motor enough pressure to function at great heights.

COWBOY PEER AGED 18 IS WILLED $219,000 BY BRITISH COUNTESS

CALGARY, Alta., July 21.—(AP)—The Earl of Egmont, Alberta's cowboy peer, has received £40,000 (currently about $219,000) under the will of the countess of Egmont, who died June 1. The will has been published in England and the bulk of the fortune went to a niece of the countess.

The countess of Egmont was the widow of the ninth earl, whose death on Jan. 10, 1929, left the title dormant until his right to succession had been established by Frederick Perreval, an Alberta rancher.

The tenth earl, a widower, took up his residence at Avon castle, Ringwood, England, and died two months ago as the result of an auto accident. He was succeeded by his 18 year old son, who has just returned to Canada.

WARRANT SALE PROVIDES FUND FOR POOR RELIEF

Cash to Tide City Over Pending U. S. Loan.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Immediate federal relief for Chicago and Illinois was assured today when President Hoover signed the 2 billion 122 million dollar relief measure, releasing huge sums for loans to states for relief and self-liquidating construction projects.

Approval of Gov. L. L. Emmerson's application for an initial loan of $10,000,000 for Chicago and Illinois was regarded as certain to be the first act of the Reconstruction Finance corporation under the now completed legislation.

Expect Loan This Week.

Anticipating executive approval, the board of directors worked on Gov. Emmerson's application throughout the day in the expectation of making the loan this week to bring relief to Chicago without further delay.

President Hoover's signature automatically opened the resources of the $3,800,000,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation to loans for direct relief, nonfederal construction projects, such as the 220 million dollar Los Angeles aqueduct, the beginning of new road construction and the financing of agricultural exports abroad.

It was understood that the administration also was considering expanding the scope of the corporation to include loans to agencies for the purpose of stabilizing agricultural commodities to a limited extent.

Advance Chicago's Plea.

Fully acquainted with the seriousness of conditions in Chicago the board of the reconstruction corporation advanced Gov. Emmerson's application ahead of an avalanche of demands for loans from every authorized source.

C. B. Goodspeed of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission expressed confidence that the board would not wait upon its reorganization before going ahead with loans to states whose needs are as pressing as those of Illinois and Chicago.

A threatened delay, due to the requirement that all applications be accompanied by statements showing the need for a loan and how the money is to be used, was overcome when Mr. Goodspeed announced that all of this information with respect to Chicago and Illinois had been submitted to the board of directors.

Considerable prestige was given Chicago's case by the fact that Gov. Emmerson did not ask for the entire $45,000,000 Illinois is entitled to under the relief bill.

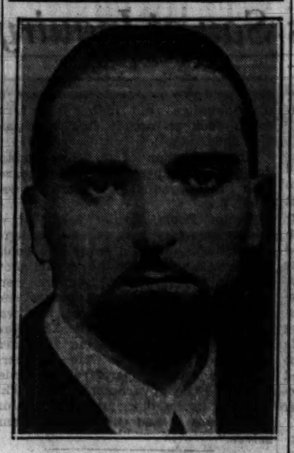
The Reconstruction Finance corporation has just begun to realize the extent of the job congress left it. From a modest start in offices occupying only three floors of the old department of commerce building the corporation has now taken over the entire nine floors of the building and quarters already show signs of crowding.

All Sorts of Loans Asked.

Demands for loans cover virtually every phase of activity provided for under the relief bill, from the establishment of live stock and agricultural credit associations and additional farm financing facilities to advances to states for urgently needed relief purposes under the direct relief feature of the legislation.

It has been determined definitely to remove Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve systm, and Paul Bestor, federal farm loan commissioner, as members of the board of directors and replace them with members who can devote themselves exclusively to the work of the corporation. Owen D. Young, head of the General Electric company, is understood to have been asked to accept one of the vacancies, but has declined.

MADE AMBASSADOR



SIGNOR DINO GRANDI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 21.—Dino Grandi, ousted as foreign minister yesterday, was today named Italian ambassador to Great Britain. The appointment came as an aftermath of Premier Mussolini's cabinet reorganization yesterday.

The London post has been vacant since the death of Ambassador Antonio Chiaramonte Bordonaro about six weeks ago.

Mussolini today took over the ministries of foreign affairs and corporations. He conferred with Grandi and then proceeded to the corporations ministries to repeat the ceremony with Gieuseppi Bottai, the retiring minister.

WARRANT SALE PROVIDES FUND FOR POOR RELIEF

Get Cash Pending Loan from U. S.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced last evening that he had completed the sale of $1,175,000 worth of state tax warrants, providing funds for the operation of relief stations throughout the state until Illinois can get the $10,000,000 loan it has asked of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Corporation Counsel Sexton, member of the relief commission and of the group which went to Washington to seek the federal loan, returned to Chicago earlier yesterday. He indicated that further steps toward granting of the loan will be largely formalities, stating that he would not have left Washington had he believed there was any doubt that the state will get the money.

Warrant Sale Timely.

President Hoover has signed the relief bill providing for the Reconstruction Finance corporation loans to states, but the tax warrant sale arranged yesterday by Mr. Ryerson was necessary to keep the relief work going until the federal money is available. Had the sale failed, it would have been necessary to close Chicago relief stations today.

The tax warrants which were sold were the last of the $18,750,000 issue which the legislature authorized the relief commission to sell for relief funds. This $18,750,000 will eventually be repaid out of counties' share of the state gasoline tax, the burden being distributed according to the county relief expenditures.

Will Repay U. S. Loan.

The federal loan for relief will also be reflected in decreased road building in Illinois, Mr. Sexton said yesterday. The loan will be repaid by deductions from the federal highway subsidies to Illinois, beginning in 1935.

The $10,000,000 loan is expected to finance relief work in Illinois for three months, beginning Aug. 1. The tax warrant sale yesterday gave money to carry on until that time.

PRUSSIA GIRDS TO BATTLE ARMY RULE WITH VOTES

Points to the Reichstag Election July 31.

(Picture on back page.)

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 21.—With Chancellor Franz von Papen's military dictatorship lid clamped down tight, a "surface quiet" pervaded Berlin and Prussia today.

Although two persons were killed and about twenty wounded in scattered demonstrations throughout the reich last night, today passed without reports of further casualties. About 150 communists, however, were arrested for distributing literature calling for a general strike.

GEN. KURT VON SCHLEICHER. (Assoc. Press Photo.)

Undoubtedly the decision of Social Democrat, Centrist and Democrat parties, whose members were forced out of Prussian ministries yesterday, to "fight it out" in the reichstag elections on July 31, and in the meantime submit peaceably to the dictatorial edict, contributed to the day's peace.

Hope for Injunction.

Some hope is held out, too, by Von Papen's opponents that the Leipsig Supreme court will grant a temporary injunction destroying the effect of the decrees, which were promulgated avowedly to end political bloodshed. The Prussian cabinet's appeal for an injunction was joined in by the state of Bavaria, while Baden has formally charged the reich government with violation of the constitution. A decision will be given by the court on Saturday, it was announced.

Developments today included the first meeting of the new interim Prussian cabinet named by Von Papen as commissioner of Prussia, a meeting of the ejected cabinet to formulate a protest to be delivered to President Paul von Hindenburg and action against the three Prussian police heads who were forced out.

These three men, Albert Grzesinski, president; Bernard Weiss, vice president, and Col. Hugo Heimannsberg, chief of police, will be tried for refusing to resign until threatened with force. They may incur prison sentences or fines up to $3,500, according to the military provisions now in effect.

Military the Real Power.

Gen. Gerd von Rundstedt, who has been placed in charge of all military forces in Berlin and Brandenburg by his superior, Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, Von Papen's minister of defense, stressed today that the actual power is in the hands of the military and that Von Papen is responsible only for administrative measures.

This seems to bear out the prevalent opinion that Von Schleicher is the real "power behind the throne" in Germany today, and that he is now choosing to come out partially into the open instead of moving behind the scenes.

Von Papen's interim cabinet which he formed with the assistance of Franze Bracht, Prussian minister of the interior, who replaced Karl Severing, Socialist, is composed mostly of officials gleaned from different departments of government service.

German republican comment today was that the new appointees are all men of "monocle mentality," who are willing to click heels to their superiors. They were not made full-fledged ministers, but rank as secretaries of state to their respective ministries.

All Socialists Ousted.

The new Prussian government in a statement issued tonight declared the "action" completed. Von Papen called a meeting of premiers of all German states for Saturday in Stuttgart.

Though Von Papen repeated that he is above all party hatred, his assistants spent the day ousting all officials and governors of districts who are Social Democrats.

The Centrist, Heinrich Hirtsiefer, in the name of the former Prussian cabinet, telegraphed President Paul von Hindenburg today appealing to him to prevent further "interference in the cabinet's constitutional rights and duties, at least until the Supreme court has ruled on the legality of Von Papen's action."

The former ministers also sent a strongly worded protest to Von Papen saying that they do not consider themselves relieved of the posts "entrusted to them by the people of Prussia" until the Supreme court has ruled on the question.

Urge Discipline.

The Social Democrats advised their followers "not to allow themselves to be provoked into rash action which authorities could use as a pretext to forbid the elections." The Social Democrats, Centrists, and Democrats are urging the masses to "keep discipline for the sake of the election, July 31, which will be a day of judgment for the maladministration of the junker barons and their Hitlerite helpers."

Communists, however, are preaching a general strike. Police today seized handbills and posters they had printed and occupied their printing shop and headquarters.

The labor leader, Peter Grassmann, said today that labor is "against violence and will resort to a general strike only in the last extremity."

Heinrich Bruening, former chancellor, interviewed in Bavaria today, expressed "regret that the constructive work done in thirteen hard years is endangered by the junkers' cabinet."

Wherever he appears, Bruening, who is touring south Germany now, is being greeted by more enthusiastic ovations than he ever received when he was in office.

BRITISH BEAUTY FREED OF MURDER FINED $180 FOR POSSESSING A GUN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 21.—The maximum fine of $180 and costs of $37 was assessed by the Westminster police court today against Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, society beauty, on a charge of unlawfully possessing a revolver.

Mrs. Barney was acquitted two weeks ago of a charge of murdering her lover, Thomas William Scott Stephen, in her fashionable west end apartment. The revolver in question is the one over which she said she and Stephen struggled before the fatal shot was fired.

The society beauty, daughter of Sir John and Lady Mullens, sat sobbing throughout the hearing. She admitted she had no license for the revolver.

Mrs. Barney collapsed as the judgment was given and had to be helped from the courtroom.

CATERER ADMITS OWNING LIQUOR AT SWEDISH CLUB

Henry Malgren, operator of the restaurant at the Swedish Club of Chicago, 1258 North La Salle street, yesterday accepted full responsibility for ownership of $50,000 worth of liquor seized during a prohibition raid on the club on June 26. He appeared before United States Commissioner Walker, waived examination, and was held to the grand jury in bond of $1,500 on charges of possession and sale of liquor.

Miss Hedwig Edlund, a waitress, and Nils E. Milton, cigar clerk, who were arrested in the raid, were freed on the prohibition charges but held in $500 bond each as material witnesses.

"Malgren was not the steward of the club," said Attorney William F. Waugh, representing all three defendants. "He was the owner by contract of the concession for catering. The club had no connection with the restaurant. He is the sole owner of the liquor, made all the sales, and took the profits. The government has been moaning over its inability to find owners. Here's one who comes in of his own accord and admits ownership."

RUSH TO RECORD TAX OBJECTIONS; DEADLINE TODAY

Delinquents in Edgewater Area Listed.

More than 10,000 objections to 1930 real estate taxes have been filed in the County court. Hundreds of property owners jammed the corridors of the court yesterday. The deadline for objections is 5 o'clock this afternoon under an order of County Judge Jarecki.

Court attaches estimate that the objections cover 300,000 of the 600,000 parcels of property on which taxes have not been paid. They estimate today's filings will bring the total to above 400,000 parcels. Many of the objections cover more than one property. One objection, filed in behalf of the Association of Real Estate Tax Payers of Illinois, includes 56,000 parcels.

132,108 Filed on 1929 Taxes.

On 1929 taxes objections on 132,108 parcels were filed, involving $54,059,860 in taxes. On 1928 taxes objections totaled 82,128 parcels for $19,000,000 in taxes, and on 1927 taxes 21,180 parcels for $2,000,000 in taxes were covered in objections.

Sale of properties on which taxes have not been paid is scheduled to begin July 25 with the entering of judgments against the properties. The filing of objections automatically stops sale proceedings pending trial of the objection.

List North Side Delinquents.

The subjoined list of properties on which, according to the records, less than half of the 1930 taxes have been paid, is taken from volume No. 453 of the county treasurer's office. It covers the area in the vicinity of the Edgewater Beach hotel. The names given are those to whom the tax bills are addressed, and these persons and corporations in many cases are merely the agents of or lessors to the persons who are actually liable for the bills.

The records give merely the item number and the legal description of the property taxed and the address of the person to whom the bill is sent. The address does not purport to be that of the property taxed. The list follows:

Eight cashier cages were opened in the treasurer's office to accommodate the rush of taxpayers making payments under the installment plan of tax payment. After July 25 no payments are to be accepted, as judgments are to be entered on that date against delinquents. Taxpayers must pay 25 per cent of their bills before or on July 25 and the balance in three similar installments at 60 day intervals. Thus far more than $1,000,000 has been collected under the plan.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday entered an order permitting Britton I. Budd and A. A. Sprague, receivers for the Chicago Rapid Transit company, to pay $425,000 to County Treasurer McDonough as the first of four payments of the 1930 tax assessed against the company. The money will come from the issuance of 6 per cent receivership certificates having a prior lien on the assets of the transit lines.

PROBE OF REALTY TAXPAYER GROUP ENDS TOMORROW

The state's attorney's investigation of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers of Illinois will be closed tomorrow with the questioning of Cornelius Teninga, former president of the organization, it was announced yesterday. Assistant Prosecutors William A. Rittenhouse and Grenville Beardsley have conducted the inquiry to determine if officials of the association are guilty of conspiracy to obstruct tax collections. They said they would make their report after questioning Teninga.

James E. Bistor, president of the association, and Henry Hedberg, another official, were questioned yesterday. They conceded that 23 per cent of the 1928 and 1929 realty taxes were justly assessed. The association feared that payment of this percentage would jeopardize the tax suits of the organization, Bistor said, and therefore did not urge its members to make such a payment.

The protest suits of the organization, one of which is in the State Supreme court, charge that the entire tax rolls of 1928 and 1929 are invalid because $20,000,000 in personal property was omitted. Bistor said that if the Supreme court rules against the association, members will be advised to pay their taxes. He told the investigators that the association represents $20,000,000 in unpaid taxes.

John M. Pratt, executive secretary, and the association attorney are the only paid officials of the organization, Bistor said.

Palmer House Sued in Effort to Collect Taxes

The Palmer house was made defendant yesterday in a suit brought by Edward Winston, special attorney for the county, who asked that a receiver be appointed to sequester rents and income to pay delinquent taxes totaling $555,695. The bill, filed in the Superior court, charged that the taxes for the years 1927 through 1930 have not been paid.

'32 FISCAL YEAR REVENUE SINKS TO $1,557,000,000

Decrease of 870 Millions from Previous Year.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Final figures made public by the treasury department today disclosed that total internal revenue receipts during the 1932 fiscal year amounted to one billion 557 million dollars, a decrease of 870 millions below collections for the previous twelve months' period. The income tax receipts were $1,056,756,697, compared to one billion 860 millions the previous year. Miscellaneous taxes were $500,972,345, compared with $568,188,256 in 1931.

With the exception of the taxes on cigaret papers and tubes and grape brandy used in fortifying sweet wines, all tax receipts tumbled to new lows during the year just passed. Estate taxes showed only a small drop, taxes on distilled spirits held up fairly well, and taxes on tobacco yielded much better than other imposts. Income taxes made the poorest showing. Miscellaneous taxes dropped off, but not nearly so much as the collections for corporation and individual incomes.

Some Comparisons.

The tax on the transfer of estates of decedents was $47,442,313 in 1932, compared to $48,078,326 in 1931. Distilled spirits taxes yielded $8,703,983, compared to $10,432,064 in the previous year, a drop of $1,728,101. The collections under the prohibition law were $490,773, compared to $586,149 in 1931.

Tobacco, documentary stamps, playing cards, futures sales, etc., brought $442,491,000 into the treasury. The total tobacco taxes were $398,578,618, compared with $444,276,502 the year before. The taxes on chewing and smoking tobacco stood up far better than the tax on cigars and cigarets. The tax on chewing and smoking tobacco was $58,030,155 in 1932, compared to $58,376,942 the previous year. Cigaret taxes dropped from $358,915,187 last year to $317,533,060 this year.

Where Totals Collapse.

The tax on playing cards dropped off $606,729 on a total collection of $4,336,830. Futures sales collapsed as the activities of the farm board continued to stagnate buying and selling on the board of trade. In 1931 the tax on futures was $1,682,680. This year these taxes amounted to $959,819. Capital stock sales took another drop falling from $25,519,972 last year to $17,696,129 in 1932. Club dues also fell off $2,273,136, amounting in all this year to $9,204,587.

Reclamation Racket Putting Government in Land Business, Witnesses Say at Inquiry

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Kansas City, Mo., July 21.—[Special.]—Uncle Sam was depicted as Mr. Facing-Both-Ways on farm relief, due to the reclamation racket, at today's hearings of the Shannon congressional inquiry into government in business. While the farm board since 1930 has been shrieking that farmers should reduce acreage, it was pointed out, other megaphones at Washington have been screaming for millions of dollars for reclamation projects to bring more land under cultivation.

Boulder dam was cited as the champion illustration of how the government in the land racket is entering into active competition with the ordinary farmer operating his own land, on which a bumper crop of taxes has been eating up the profits.

Potato growers in Kansas, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Nebraska were exhibited as one especial goat. Figures were introduced showing that potatoes raised in the Snake river valley of Idaho on land under federal irrigation during the last ten years decreased the national potato price until old line spud growers went broke. Completion of Boulder dam, it was figured, will open up a tremendous new potato area.

Lesson to Kaw Valley.

Meanwhile in the Kaw valley in Kansas, a great potato region, prices are so low that many farmers are letting them stay in the ground—not enough profits in sight to pay for burlap sacks and cost of digging. Up in Nebraska some growers are letting people in the towns dig up the spuds and carry them away. While unpaid taxes are piling up on the farms, and homesteads are going under the hammer because of low farm prices, the government is piling on more taxes to put under cultivation vast new areas which will serve to increase production and knock prices still further downward.

"It's the most astonishing spectacle in history," remarked E. W. Houx, oldest cattle salesman at the Kansas City yards, former president of the Kansas City Live Stock association. "Alice in Wonderland never saw anything stranger. Boulder dam, they say, will bring in seven million more bushels of potatoes. You can buy two bushels now for 60 cents, hardly enough to pay cost of producing. A year ago I paid a dime a sack. And still the government is taxing the farmer to bring in more land to compete with his acreage."

Counteracts Farm Loan.

While the reclamation racket, to give Los Angeles a new waterworks and make the desert blossom as the rose with various crops to increase the food surplus which the farm board has been seeking to get rid of without success, is tightening its squeeze on agriculture, witnesses brought out that the farmer himself is not getting the advantage of the cheap money which the government has loaned in almost unlimited volume to farm board agencies.

Producers, shippers, commission men representing Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma swarmed into the hearings today. Their arguments were that the setup of the farm board on live stock favors a "privileged few," and that if government competition keeps up the farmer, now driven to the wall by high taxes and low prices, will be pushed plumb through the brickwork.

Oklahomans Have Grievance.

A bunch of Oklahomans with blood in their eyes flew in by airplane from Lawton, Okla., and in language that sounded like Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray's best vintage socked the government for setting up what they called a department store at Fort Sill, four miles out of town. The Oklahomans, headed by H. W. Cottingham, president of the Lawton Chamber of Commerce, and Frank Schwartz, sporting and athletic goods, said Washington is now turning army officers into merchants, and is putting the infantry and artillery to work, as a peace time occupation in various forts, as counter jumpers.

The army, as a delicatessen, shopkeeper, laundryman, chop suey purveyor, and haberdasher, at Fort Sill, the Oklahoma crowd yelled, has taken $1,300,000 of business a year away from Lawton merchants, which is quite a sum for a town of 12,000 population.

"Take the soldiers out of the haberdashery and lingerie business," was their slogan. They argued that if things keep up as now, West Point would be putting in courses in merchandising, salesmanship, dry goods, and beauty parlor management as part of what every well trained officer should know.

County agents—some 5,000 of them in the U. S. A.—as the high pressure sales force on which the farm board has been relying to put over its venture into the realms of alleged monopolistic control, came in for a wholesale panning. Originally, as pointed out, they were established to advise the farmer on soils, crops and the production end of agriculture. Later, when the farmers had absorbed all this, the agents swung to the merchandising end and became peddlers of all sorts of theories, in some states even venturing to work on political questions, such as taxation.

County Agent Unpopular.

A delegation from Sioux City, Ia., headed by R. E. Whitlock, testified that in many Iowa counties the farm agents are now unpopular, and that they had been working to take business away from the taxpayers who paid their salaries.

"In Indiana, too, some counties are discontinuing their county agents," commented Congressman Samuel B. Pettingill of Indiana. He joined the committee today, sporting a pair of Gandhi sandals.

Discrimination against some coöperatives of old line type was charged against the farm board by several of the witnesses today in support of the contention that the board has cut loose from the idea of encouraging farmer owned coöperatives and is now headed smack towards the idea of a governmental food monopoly.

Two Kinds of Coöps.

At the yards in Kansas City, two coöperatives were spoken of. One, the Farmers union, was described as a pure coöp farmer owned, non-subsidized, which has paid back a million dollars to its members in this region in coöp rebates. The Producers Commission association, which is the Farm Board agency, was declared not to have paid any rebates. Old timers on the exchange said before the farm board took it up, it had not paid dividends.

The connection of C. W. Denman, live stock member of the farm board, with the producers' concern was dwelt on.

Bryant Poole, former president of the Kansas City Live Stock exchange, said: "If you could bring the books before you, we believe they would show that at the time Mr. Denman went on the farm board, the producers' concern was $18,000 in the red, and was never able to pay a dividend in Kansas City. It has become the farm board agency, while the Farmers' union, a real coöperative, is denied access to the government funds. This appears to be discrimination against the farmer owned coöperatives themselves."

SENATOR URGES 73 U. S. BUREAUS BE ELIMINATED

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Elimination of 73 independent bureaus and commissions which cost the government $47,722,000 a year was urged today by Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] in a public statement. At the same time he renewed his demand for abolition of the federal farm board, shipping board, and budget bureau.

Most of the commissions Senator McKellar wants abolished are of the order of advisory council for the national arboretum, alien property custodian, Arlington Memorial Amphitheater association, and Arlington Memorial Bridge association.

"The budget bureau is an outstanding example of insufficiency, waste, and extravagance," Senator McKellar said. "In all of its eleven years except one congress has appropriated much less than the budget recommended. That was in 1930, when the appropriations were apparently $8,000,000 above the budget estimate. In the 11 years of its life congress has reduced appropriations 750 millions under the bureau's estimates. In addition it cost $190,000 last year also to run the bureau. During 11 years it has cost $2,104,610. The bureau is simply another tax eater."

"The federal farm board ought to be eliminated," he added.

GET U. S. OUT OF NURSERY TRADE, CONVENTION PLEA

The government must get out of the nursery business, Congressman Fred S. Purnell [Rep., Ind.], declared in addressing the final session of the convention of the American Association of Nurserymen at the Stevens hotel yesterday.

Although the government ceased the wasteful free distribution of seeds several years ago, Congresman Purnell said, the giving away of 25,500,000 young trees last year was outside the government's field of operations and had worked an injustice upon men in the nursery business.

HOOVER DELIVERS HIS ACCEPTANCE ADDRESS AUG. 11

Leaders Discuss Campaign Plans with President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Following a day of political activity at the White House, Chairman Everett Sanders of the Republican national committee, today announced that President Hoover formally will be notified of his renomination for the presidency on the evening of Aug. 11. Republican leaders and officials from all sections of the country will be formally invited to Washington for notification ceremonies which will take place in Constitution hall.

EVERETT SANDERS [Moffett & Russell Photo.]

Prior to the Sanders call at the White House, Mr. Hoover conferred at length with James Francis Burke, general counsel for the Republican national committee, on details of the campaign. Both Mr. Burke and Chairman Sanders arrived in Washington today after holding a series of parleys on organization matters and the conduct of the campaign to reelect Hoover and Curtis with Republican leaders in New York, Chicago and other sections of the country.

Plans Prohibition Speech.

Developments today disclosed that while Chairman Sanders will have direct charge of the campaign organization with offices at Chicago, Mr. Hoover and his cabinet aids in Washington will largely plan and direct the fight to defeat Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee. Final decisions as to tactics and personnel matters as they affect the upper strata of the organization will come from Washington.

In addition to his speech of acceptance the President will make three and possibly five other addresses before the voters go to the polls in November. At least one of these speeches is to be devoted to the prohibition question.

All indications are that President Hoover will stick to the prohibition plank adopted by the Republican national convention and attack the Democratic prohibition plank as too extreme. There are the strongest indications that the President and party leaders intend to make every effort to subordinate the liquor issue to economies during the campaign.

Busy on R. F. C. Reorganization.

For the last several days Mr. Hoover has been devoting most of his time to the reorganization of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and to perfecting his campaign organization. Several senators and representatives have discussed local political conditions with the President and within the next three weeks Mr. Hoover hopes to have personal conferences with virtually all the national committeemen and key men in the campaign.

When he left the White House Mr. Burke expressed the belief that consideration of the world economic situation and means for bettering business conditions rather than prohibition will be the big issue. He attacked Gov. Roosevelt for departing from tradition by abandoning a formal notification ceremony.

"The big issue of the campaign," Mr. Burke said, "is to be the disordered condition of the world. There has been only one physician at the bedside of the patient. That is Dr. Hoover. He has been there constantly and he has not given them any quack remedies."

Mr. Burke said the President's speech of acceptance would be a "very deliberately and carefully planned statement, cloaked with dignity and tradition."

Chairman Sanders had little to say regarding the campaign. He said the notification ceremonies would begin at 9 o'clock.

BONUS ARMY IS TOLD TO VACATE PUBLIC PROPERTY

Vets Hamper Federal Construction Plans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—In a drastic move to rid the capital of the bonus expeditionary force the commissioners of the District of Columbia, in cooperation with the federal government, today ordered a complete evacuation of the bonus army from all public property in the city.

WALTER W. WATERS. [Acme Photo.]

Shortly after the eviction order was issued President Hoover signed the Bachrach bill making veterans whose certificates are not yet two years old eligible for loans up to 50 per cent of their face value and reducing the interest rate on all bonus loans from 4½ to 3½ per cent. Elimination of the two year clause will cost the government 100 million dollars. As many veterans in the bonus camps here may now borrow half of the value of their certificates, it was believed another exodus would begin shortly.

Must Find New Quarters.

Including, as it does, the main bonus camp at Anacostia, two large encampments at Camp Meigs and Camp Simms, and nearly a score of smaller billets throughout the city, the eviction order in effect ousts the bonus marchers from Washington unless private property is donated for their quarters. They will be permitted to remain then only if proper sanitary conditions are maintained.

The veterans were ordered to evacuate their billets in semi-demolished buildings in the southwest section of the city because, Superintendent of Police Pelham D. Glassford said, officials of the treasury department had requested him to do so in order that the government building program could go on.

Plans Rigid Enforcement of Edict.

Walter W. Waters, commander of the main body of the bonus force, met the edict with the tart statement that "they can issue orders but I don't know how they're going to enforce them."

Superintendent Glassford was directed by the commissioners to rigidly enforce the ouster order.

The commissioners' action creates the most serious problem that has arisen since the arrival of the bonus force more than two months ago. The marchers are now faced with the necessity of securing permission to camp on private property. Just what action the authorities will take in the event no private ground is offered was undetermined tonight.

VETERAN PHYSICIAN DIES.

Bloomington, Ill., July 21.—[Special.]—Dr. Henry Wellington Langstaff, a pioneer physician of McLean county, who for 47 years served the community of Colfax, Ill., died at the age of 76 years.

Ex-Senator Wadsworth Will Run for Congress

Rochester, N. Y., July 21.—[Special.]—James W. Wadsworth of Geneseo, former United States senator, today accepted the Republican nomination to run for congress in the fall elections to replace Congressman Archie D. Sanders in the 39th district. Mr. Wadsworth was designated at a meeting of district leaders here today who preferred his stand as an out and out foe of prohibition to that of Mr. Sanders, who has voted both wet and dry on congressional measures aimed at repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment, it was learned.

FARLEY PLEADS FOR PARTY UNITY; CHIDES AL SMITH

Urges All Factions to Get Behind Roosevelt.

Spring Lake, N. J., July 21.—[Special.]—James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee and campaign manager for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in an address to the New Jersey Democratic state committee today praised Mayor Frank Hague for his sportsmanship in pledging support to the national ticket and in the next breath issued a bold and pointed challenge to Al Smith to forget his soreness, abandon all feuds, and get in step with the Democracy.

Speaking frankly, almost to the point of bluntness, the new national chairman talked a new kind of politics when he appeared before the Jersey Democrats here today and called for a new deal which would wipe out all rancor and close up the ranks behind Roosevelt and Garner.

Startles His Listeners.

Accustomed to honeyed words on such occasions, the Democrats were startled by the nature of Mr. Farley's first address to a party organization since becoming head of the national committee. The "amateur" in national politics who nominated his man in Chicago evidently is going to try out a novel method of dealing in the open with party secrets.

Revealing for the first time the preconvention decision reached by the Roosevelt managers, Mr. Farley said it had been solemnly agreed long before there was any certainty that Roosevelt would be nominated that the entire strength of the Roosevelt organization would be pledged 100 per cent to the successful candidate, no matter whom he might be. Then Farley shot out this challenge:

"I mean exactly what I say. Everything we had would now be turned over to the successful nominee. Had the balloting given the nomination to Al Smith, Ritchie, Baker or any other candidate, Gov. Roosevelt and every member of the organization behind him would have been found in the ranks devoting himself whole heartedly to electing that nominee.

"We would have been chagrined had Roosevelt been defeated. Nobody can lose a political battle without disappointment and soreness, but we prepared to forget possible wounds, to bury possible grievances and to abandon all feuds begotten of the convention strife.

Directed at Smith.

"I know that in the heat of conflict a lot of harsh things were said. What of it? Did any of you ever know a convention where there have not been exaggerated statements, fiery denunciations and bitter recrimations?"

Public invitation from the chairman of the national committee to forgive and forget was made with the indorsement and approval of Gov. Roosevelt, following his conference with Mr. Farley in Albany this week. It was staged in "enemy territory" in Frank Hague's own organization. Throughout it was directed at Al Smith.

CONVICT SURRENDERS TWO GUNS USED IN THE COLORADO PRISON RIOT

Canon City, Colo., July 21.—(AP)—A long search for smuggled firearms and ammunition used in the Colorado prison riot of Oct. 3, 1929, led today to the surrender of two fully loaded automatic pistols and 20 steel nosed bullets by Danny Reardon, one of the chief figures in the riot.

Reardon told Deputy Warden Roy Best there are two more revolvers and additional ammunition inside the prison and promised to produce them soon.

2 MORE DEATHS MARK GANG WAR TO SEIZE UNIONS

Hunt "Fur" Sammons in New Labor Killings.

recting head. This group was affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Another group of teamsters, chauffeurs and truck drivers' unions, not affiliated with the city, state or national federations of labor, was and is still ostensibly headed by Michael Galvin.

Three months after the murder of Clay the massacre of the Moran gang occurred—Feb. 14, 1929. Because of Moran's feud with Capone there was some doubt whether the killing of the seven Moran gangsters was due to a bootleg feud or in reprisal for the Clay murder. Anyway, Moran and Willie Marks escaped the slaughter. They were five minutes late at the rendezvous in the North Clark street truck garage.

Ends Moran's Reign.

This St. Valentine's day crime ended Moran's reign. He fled and has never been in power since, although allowed to return to Chicago. But a new figure was looming in the public enemy field—George [Red] Barker, chief of a crew of young west side hoodlums.

Barker was a paroled convict with two service stripes. He shot and otherwise intimidated James "Lefty" Lynch out of office as business agent of the Coal Teamsters and Hikers' union, and he took the vacated chair. Soon independent coal dealers were complaining that Barker was calling unreasonable strikes against them.

Barker acquired control of other unions, and when he was returned to prison in 1930 for violating his parole, he was boss of more than thirty of these teamsters' union branches. He had become an ally of Capone who had ambitions of becoming the emperor of labor as well as bootleg monarch. They worked together politically, alcoholically, and socially.

His Pal Sammons.

"Fur" Sammons, once sentenced to death for murder but saved from the gallows by Gov. Richard Yates, who commuted his sentence to life imprisonment, gained his freedom when Gov. Len Small reduced the term to fifty years after which Fur was paroled. Discharged from parole in 1926 Sammons had become Barker's pal. Sammons was known to have an almost irresistible impulse to pull the trigger of a machine gun. He was useful in forcing beer sales, eliminating competition, scaring away rival labor and beer racketeers.

The Chicago Crime Commission began the drive which resulted in both Sammons and Barker being ordered returned to prison. It was held that the paroles of both were illegal and therefore invalid. Attorney General Carlstrom was in charge of the proceedings against both after the cases went to the Supreme court, which liberated Barker but refused to free Sammons.

The attorney who won freedom for Barker—W. W. Smith—kept up the fight for Sammons. Barker came out early in 1931 and took over his unions and sought more. It was his idea that if he could take over those legitimate unions of Berrell's he would control the delivery service on every commodity required to be hauled over the streets of Chicago, and he could make his own price.

Marked for Killing.

There is a story extant that Barker was known to be marked for killing, and a man remarked on the night of June 17 last:

"Barker will be killed very soon, and it will be the best thing that could happen for Chicago."

At 12 o'clock that night Barker was killed by machine gun fire as he stepped from an automobile in front of 1502 North Crawford avenue.

Meanwhile Attorney Smith kept to his job of working for Sammons, without any information ever reaching the public as to who was paying for his services. Smith went to Woodstock, in McHenry county, to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to bring Sammons from the prison.

Judge Edward D. Shurtleff, former speaker of the state house of representatives, accepted jurisdiction of the petition. Chauncey Jenkins, head of the state department of public welfare under Gov. Small at the time of Sammons' discharge from parole in 1926, testified in defense of the legality of that action.

Judge Shurtleff a few days ago ordered the forthwith release of Sammons, who walked out of the courtroom and out of sight, although there was another process calling for his arrest.

On a Vacation.

It appears that three weeks ago Berrell went to Shawano, Wis., for a vacation. This is a quiet resort country, northwest of Green Bay. Since the breakup of the Moran gang Willie Marks had become some kind of an associate of Berrell. Marks was a mercenary soldier whose gun was for sale to the highest bidder and from union foe he had become union defender.

Whatever the reason, Marks, with his brother-in-law, Clarence Gleason, drove to Shawano to visit Berrell on Wednesday. It is now believed he was followed by gangsters who knew his trail would soon lead to the Berrell resting camp. Berrell, Marks, and Gleason went to a roadhouse Wednesday night.

At 1 o'clock yesterday morning Berrell and Marks walked out together. A machine gun roared. They fell dead. An automobile sped away in the darkness. That was the end of Berrell's career. But Fur Sammons is still at large.

SEABURY INQUIRY FIGURE IS MADE POLICE CAPTAIN

New York Force Head Exonerates Him.

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—Police Lieutenant John W. Kenna, whose bank deposits and those of his mother, totaling $237,235 over a period of six years, figured in the Magistrates' court inquiry before Samuel Seabury, today won formal vindication from Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, who promoted him to a captain.

Commissioner Mulrooney placed special emphasis on the promotion, calling Chief Inspector John O'Brien, Deputy Commissioner Nelson Rutenburg and headquarters newspapermen into his office to witness the ceremony.

Capt. Kenna has pending in the Supreme court a suit for $500,000 damages against Mr. Seabury and several of his aids in the Magistrates' court inquiry, charging defamation of his character. Half the amount is claimed by his mother.

Kenna Makes Statement.

After Commissioner Mulrooney had read a long statement completely exonerating Kenna, the new captain made a little statement.

"Through no fault of my mother and myself, a public stigma was placed on our name because through thriftiness we have gathered a small competence," said the captain. "All those who know my record know that I am innocent of all wrongdoing."

He then expressed his gratitude to his chief.

Commissioner Mulrooney's statement asserts that in the damage suit pending in the Supreme court, in which there have been held one or two examinations before trial, it was shown "that as far back as October, 1931, information was in the possession of said investigators which clearly exonerated Lieut. Kenna."

Vindicated, He Says.

The commissioner declared that Kenna, following his examination in the Magistrates' court inquiry, had two separate firms of public accountants go over his accounts, that each report accounted for every item and that, subsequently, the department had another accounting firm check on the reports. That firm confirmed the reports of the other accountants as correct. The commissioner stated that the reports of the Kenna accountants were submitted to Mr. Seabury.

Referring to these reports and the memorandum which he says was made to Mr. Seabury by the inquiry accountants, Commissioner Mulrooney concluded his statement as follows:

"These various reports indicate that a grave injustice has been done to Lieut. Kenna. In order, therefore, that this injustice may be righted, the police commissioner has promoted Lieut. Kenna to the rank of captain, to which he is justly and legally entitled."

Appear at Festival

The Kiwanis and Lions clubs of the northwest part of Chicago tested their voices last night for the song battle which they will stage in Soldiers' field at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Chicagoland Music Festival on Saturday night, Aug. 20. They sang against each other at the Logan Square Festival and Circus at the Logan Square ball park, Kedzie and Elston avenues. The hundreds who heard them sing THE TRIBUNE'S contest number, "America, the Beautiful," said that the contest was a tie, but when they perform at Soldiers' field the judges are instructed to name a winner.

The circus, which will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night, is sponsored by the Logan Square Community Council for the benefit of the Northwestern University Settlement Fund. The Rev. Ernest A. Reese, pastor of the Fourth Congregational church, is general chairman of the circus executive committee. Harold Blomstrand is assistant general chairman, Urban J. Erhart, business manager, and Bert Gunderlock, treasurer and ticket manager.

Tonight American Legion drum corps from the 9th Legion district will be in competition and among the circus acts will be the Northwestern University Settlement Summer Camp pyramid team, the Imperial Cossacks, and many two-legged bears, lions and elephants. George Rhode is chairman of the drum corps contest.

SWANSON GETS NEW POLICEMEN FOR HIS STAFF

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday requested Police Commissioner Allman to transfer six policemen assigned to his office back to routine police duties and to assign a sergeant and five patrolmen in their places.

The men transferred away from the prosecutor's office are Michael Ahern, who was in charge of police in the racket bureau of the office; John Scherpling, Herbert Seyferlich, and Leo Anderson, who worked under Ahern, and William Nihill and Joseph Keating, assigned to special murder investigations. The transfers, it was learned, were made without the knowledge of Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, who directed the policemen's activities.

Asked for a reason for the transfers, State's Attorney Swanson said that he had received a number of requests that other city police be placed on his staff, and had to make the transfers to make room for the newcomers. The men transferred, he added, "are all good Democrats."

The police for whom the prosecutor asked are Sergt. Edward Hayes, now assigned to the Kensington station, and Patrolmen Frank McDermott, Sheffield avenue; Arnold Bloom, East Side; Richard Kenny, Englewood; Carl Olson, Kensington, and Francis J. Caraher, South Chicago.

DRY PADLOCKING DECISIONS CURB RAIDERS' POWER

Service on Bartenders Is Held Insufficient.

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—More than 1,000 pending padlock cases in which the federal government has served complaints on bartenders and employés of speakeasies and not on owners are likely to be voided as the result of a ruling handed down today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

GEORGE MEDALIE. [Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

The court, reversing its own ruling of last December, in which it upheld Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey in his theory that service of a complaint on an employé was valid decided that the proprietor or owner, and no other person, must be served if the action is to stand up.

Halts Padlock Campaign.

Unless the decision is reversed by the U. S. Supreme court, the judges of the United States District court must throw out every padlock action based on service of an employé that is pending in this district if the cases are not remade by service of complaints upon owners.

The decision, written by Judge Augustus N. Hand and concurred in by Judges Learned Hand and Thomas W. Swan, is admittedly a setback in the campaign recently begun by George Z. Medalie, United States attorney, to padlock practically all raided resorts.

About two months ago the government in this district began its experiment of dropping criminal actions against bartenders and other employés of speakeasies and instead of serving them with complaints in padlock actions as fast as defendants were brought to the federal building.

1,000 Cases Involved.

Arthur H. Schwartz, head of Mr. Medalie's prohibition division, declined to estimate the number of cases of this kind pending in federal court, but it was revealed unofficially that more than 1,000 persons describing themselves as employés of resorts had been served with complaints.

While the new court decision was being discussed tonight dry agents proceeded to make a raid on Park avenue, but they were careful to arrest the proprietor as well as two employés. The raided place was the Restaurant Marguery. Thirty diners were undisturbed.

SHOOTS HIMSELF TO DEATH.

Allen Ross Goodman, 41 years old, a commercial photographer, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in his home at 740 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park.

LESLIE SEEKS MINE TRUCE; TWO WOMEN AMONG BESIEGED

Dugger, Ind., July 21.—(AP)—Gov. Harry G. Leslie, making a personal effort to effect a truce between nonunion workmen marooned in the Tooster coal mine and more than a thousand organized miners maintaining a picket line around the shaft, tonight told the Associated Press that if peaceable methods prove unavailing "we'll simply have to declare martial law."

Gov. Leslie, however, went to Sullivan, the county seat, where he conferred with Sheriff Wesley Williams and citizens about the situation and prepared to spend the night in the effort to get the 27 men, two women, and a child out of the mine pit. The conference resulted in a decision to ask two of the besieged men and two of the pickets to attend another meeting to discuss a truce.

Sheriff Williams went into the mine shaft with permission of the pickets. He reported that those inside the mine refused to send out representatives until assured of protection.

Later, however, Williams and Adjt. Gen. Paul E. Tombaugh, accompanied by the wives of two of the men in the mine, went to the shaft, taking food, and succeeded in persuading two of the workers, Harry West and Nelson Houpt, to come out and join a conference.

The besieged men had been in the mine since early yesterday morning. Their wives said they took only light lunches when they went to work.

NEW WITNESS DISPUTES ALIBI IN CARL SLAYING

A new witness, whose name police refused to reveal, yesterday challenged the alibi of Ivan Grilec, brother-in-law of George Carl, whose death was predicted by a fortune teller three days before he was found shot to death in his grocery store at 2511 South Crawford avenue. Grilec had told police that he was in a gambling house at 4020 Ogden avenue at about the time of the murder last Saturday night. The new witness said that he had seen Grilec walking east in 25th street, near Crawford avenue, between 11 and 11:30 o'clock on the night of the murder.

"I'm sure this was a family affair," Police Captain John Ptacek said yesterday, "and I believe that Grilec knows a lot more than he has told us."

Grilec and the widow, Mrs. Vera Carl, both submitted to lie detector examination in th crime detection laboratory at Northwestern university on Wednesday. Operators said yesterday that further investigation would be necessary before definite conclus' s could be reached.

Bank Robber Murderers Given Life Imprisonment

Tallulah, La., July 21.—(AP)—Walter Bearden and John V. Thomas of Chicago were convicted here today of murdering a deputy sheriff after a bank robbery and were sentenced to life imprisonment. A recommendation for mercy saved them from the gallows.

MAY UNIONIZE DAM WORKERS AT SCENE OF RIOT

Marseilles, Ill., July 21.—[Special.]—Negotiations looking towards unionizing the laborers employed here on the Illinois waterway dam were reported under way here tonight as feeling subsided following the riot Tuesday, in which one man was killed and a score wounded.

The workings are still shut down, but confidence was entertained that violence would not recur. If union labor is employed nonunion men now on the pay roll would be permitted to hold their jobs by taking union cards, it was said.

Officials of the contracting companies who armed their employés before the riot in anticipation of a clash announced that legal counsel would be retained to seek the release of eight of their men held in connection with the shooting.

Among the eight is James Collins of Mesa, Ariz., named in a coroner's jury verdict early today as the man who shot and killed Steve Sutton, unemployed union steel worker from Joliet who had been brought here allegedly to intimidate the foreman and nonunion workers.

At a noon massmeeting the union men stood in prayer for Sutton, adopted resolutions favoring the six hour day, and heard R. G. Soderstrom of Streator criticise the arming of the nonunion men.

A committee headed by Soderstrom was delegated to meet W. H. Miller, representative of the contractors, to discuss unionizing the dam employés.

State's Attorney Russell C. Hanson intimated he must sign compiaints against other alleged participants in the riot as well as the eight now held.

Only three rooms of this eight-room house could be kept warm all winter if he spent the $161.53 on gas

Now that economy counts so much, coal's savings count more. Coal heat's higher B. T. U. content per dollar makes its heating costs much lower. These three renderings of the same building show you graphically just how much less it costs to heat with coal than to heat with oil or gas. CHINESE ARMY MOVES TO JEHOL TO CHECK JAPAN

Nipponese Troops Also Leave for "Front."

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, July 22.—[Friday.]—It was reported today that most of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang's army of 170,000 was moving toward Jehol province, western Manchuria, from Peiping, while a large detachment of Japanese troops left Mukden, Manchuria, for a secret destination.

CHANG HSUEH-LIANG.

The 144 mile highway from Peiping to Jehol City was glutted with troops in automobiles and carts and on camels and horses commandeered throughout the entire Peiping area, according to censored dispatches from Peiping.

VOTE ARMED POLICY

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 22 (Friday).—A Japanese threat to launch a drive in the Peiping area in the event that Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian war lord, moves to oppose Japanese forces in Jehol province, western Manchuria, produced a quick response from the Chinese national government yesterday.

The government's central political council voted to adopt a policy of armed resistance, and Wang Ching-wei, president of the executive yuan (department), ordered Chang to mobilize his forces. Chang Kai-shek, virtual Chinese dictator, is reported on his way to the capital from Hankow.

Japs Accused of Trickery.

The council's official statement accused the Japanese of "resorting to further aggression in Jehol to aggravate the situation in the far east and make it impossible for the league of nations to cope with the situation."

The statement declared the Ishimoto incident was only used as a pretext for renewed Japanese military aggression.

(Col. Gonsiro Ishimoto, a Japanese staff officer, is reported to be a prisoner of Chinese troops after having been sent into Jehol province to negotiate with Tang Yu-ling, the Chinese governor.)

"Chinese forces in Jehol and elsewhere are determined to offer a stiff resistance," the statement continued, "and it is hoped the entire nation will mobilize all available forces to oppose the Japanese."

Japs Disavow Invasion.

Japanese statements say that Tang Yu-ling agreed to settle for the Ishimoto incident to avoid complications, but they charge that Chang Hsueh-liang sent two brigades to the Jehol border to prevent Tang Yu-ling from compromising with Manchoukuo.

The Japanese today disavow any intention of invading Jehol. They claim that Chinese troops fired yesterday on Japanese planes at Chaoyang, making retaliation necessary. Forty casualties were reported as a result of bombing. Chinese advices are that large forces of Japanese are advancing on Chaoyang, in Jehol, and that severe fighting has already occurred.

Meanwhile, Chinese organizations in the Yangtze valley are circulating literature to the effect that the Japanese are planning an invasion of north China with 250,000 troops.

WOMAN CHARGES LINCOLN PARKCOP WITH RAPING HER

William Gruber, 33 years old, 1212 Otto street, a member of the Lincoln park police force, was arraigned yesterday in the Felony court on a charge of rape. The case was continued until July 28. The complainant was Mrs. Evelyn Nolter, 2822 Warsaw avenue, who alleged that she was attacked by Gruber in the park.

Police from the Chicago avenue station arrested the park policeman after Mrs. Nolter had sworn out a warrant and pointed him out to them. James U. Sammis, head of the park police force, said that no suspension had been declared against Gruber.

SPAIN PROHIBITS POSSESSION OF FOREIGN MONEY

MADRID, July 21.—(AP)—An order prohibiting possession of foreign money by citizens and foreign residents of Spain was issued today by the government banking council.

All persons who receive foreign money, whether as salaries or otherwise, must hereafter take it to the bank and exchange it for pesetas at the day's rate. The regulation provides fines for violation up to ten times the value of the money involved.

The ruling was intended to prevent manipulation of the exchange.

BEAUTY DIES

MISS MARGARET EKDAHL.
[Acme Photo.]

Orlando, Fla., July 21.—[Special.]—Miss Margaret Ekdahl, who was declared "Miss America" by officials of the Miami International Beauty Pageant association in 1930 after two other young women had been disqualified on technical grounds, died here today of acute peritonitis. She was 20 years old.

FEAR BILLBOARDS WILL MAR MANY ROUTES TO FAIR

Gaudy Signs Spring Up Everywhere.

The outdoor advertising companies of Chicago are working overtime these days in preparation for the hundreds of thousands of visitors expected for the World's Fair next year. Any one driving into this city in 1933 will be greeted by the spectable of thousands of glaring billboards along the principal highways.

A survey yesterday revealed that the billboard business is thriving and untouched by the depression. Strings of screaming signboards, hundreds of feet long in many instances, lend a festive, if somewhat vulgar, air to many of the principal drives in Chicago.

To be sure, these billboards often obscure a view of the blue waters of the lake or the cool wooded areas of the parks. But such Chicago beauties have become hackneyed, the outdoor advertising companies apparently have reasoned.

Hides Residential Section.

A reporter in an automobile drove into Chicago from the south. Once past the steel mill region the visitor would ordinarily get a glimpse of a pleasing residential section along South Shore drive.

At 52d street and the drive a string of billboards blocks off air and light from a house at 5206 South Shore drive. From here on the drive becomes a billboard alley. On every corner, in every vacant lot, stand these billboards effectually barring a view of the lake until Jackson park is reached.

The visitor from the west will drive to the Century of Progress along Jackson, Warren, or Washington boulevards. The billboards here also will confront him at every possible point.

If the tourist comes in from the north or northwest, the same situation exists. Lake Shore drive and Sheridan road have been afflicted by the funguslike growth of signboards. In the city's front yard, on Lake Shore drive between Chestnut street and Delaware place, a gaudy display of the signs stretches for 400 feet.

Still More Signboards.

Driving north on Michigan boulevard from the south side, the tourist sees the famous drive lined by billboards. Grant park has not yet been obscured by the boards, but the motorist whose eye drifts northward for a glimpse of the Wrigley building, Tribune Tower, or the Palmolive building has his attention distracted by a display at Randolph street and Michigan boulevard.

Of the more than 1,000 billboards noted by the reporter in a short drive 99 per cent had been erected by the General Outdoor Advertising company.

Find Body of Chicagoan Drowned in Rescue Effort

The body of Frank O'Toole, 29 years old, a physical director in the Chicago high schools, was recovered yesterday from Lake Superior at Eagle River, Mich. O'Toole was drowned Wednesday when he tried to rescue a Michigan youth from the lake.

STATE TO CLOSE ITS CASE AGAINST JOHN BAIN TODAY

Defense to Take 3 Weeks, Attorney Reveals.

Most of the state's testimony in the trial of John Bain and three members of his family for conspiracy to loot the twelve Bain banks had been presented at the close of yesterday's session of the trial before Judge John M. O'Connor. Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber said the state would probably close its case this morning, the 28th day of the trial. One hundred and ninety witnesses have testified so far and 2,964 exhibits have been introduced.

EDWIN J. RABER.

The last days of the Bain banks—the acceptance of deposits, refusals to cash checks, discouragement of withdrawals, personal borrowings and check cashing—were related yesterday.

Then Raber told Attorney Francis X. Busch, counsel for the four bankers, that if the Bains should be acquitted in this trial, or a court of review should set aside a possible verdict of guilty, he would immediately proceed against them on charges of accepting deposits while knowing the banks to be insolvent.

Tries to Cash Check.

Thomas Ryan, police sergeant, 7915 South Paulina street, told of trying to cash a $3,605 check on a Bain bank on June 8, 1931, the day before the twelve were closed. His brother, a director of the West Englewood bank, a Bain institution, had sold some mortgages for him and had given him a $3,605 check on that bank. W. Merle Fisher, cashier, son-in-law of Bain and one of the defendants in the present trial, refused to cash it, he said. He then tried at another Bain bank and was turned down. Eventually he cashed it and there has been litigation over it ever since, he testified.

Replace Collateral.

Another witness, Victor Davidson, 8222 Champlain avenue, said he owed the Chatham State bank $9,500, secured by mortgages. He learned after the banks closed that his mortgages had been replaced by inferior collateral, he testified, and he denied he had ever authorized the substitution.

Defense Attorney Busch said presentation of his side of the case—testimony intended to show the defendants had no criminal intent in the transactions that caused a $12,000,000 loss to depositors—will take about three weeks. All the defendants will testify, he added.

EIGHT RECEIVERS NAMED

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday appointed the following officials to handle, respectively, the affairs of eight closed banks in Cook county:

W. R. Crennan, receiver, and Clyde E. Pettit, attorney, for the South Shore State bank, 2634 East 75th street; deposits when closed $715,386.

N. W. Wiersema, receiver, and John R. Nicholson, attorney, for the First Englewood State bank, 235 West 63d street; deposits $1,015,293.

Frank C. Mayne Jr., receiver, and Luther D. Swanstrom, attorney, for the Cottage Grove State bank, 7527 Cottage Grove avenue; deposits $1,584,958.

C. E. Herrod, receiver, and Litsinger, Healy & Reid, attorneys, for the Universal State bank, 3252 South Halsted street; deposits $1,022,067.

W. R. Davis, receiver, and Joel C. Carlson, attorney, for the West Irving State bank, 6005 Irving Park boulevard; deposits $476,471.

M. L. Munie, receiver, and F. H. Chetlain, attorney, for the Empire Trust and Savings bank, 3256 North Crawford avenue; deposits $190,787.

Clement A. Nance, receiver, and Glenn, Schwartz, Real & Browning, attorneys, for the Congress Trust and Savings bank, 510 South Wabash avenue; deposits $1,574,251.

David Dillman, receiver, and Goldstein & Goldstein, attorneys, for the Adams State bank, 3951 West 26th street; deposits $603,754.

Harding Memorial Tomb Is Scene of a Robbery

Marion, O., July 21.—(AP)—The Harding memorial, tomb of President and Mrs. Harding, was the scene of a holdup today. Mrs. Paul D. Michel, operator of a souvenir concession at the memorial, was robbed of $55 by two men who locked her in a small compartment and fled.

COOLIDGE AND BYRD WARN AGAINST HIGH COST OF GOVERNMENT

Boston, Mass., July 21.—[Special.]—"The greatest burden our system carries today is that of taxation and it is greater than the load carried when our economic system was in robust health. Along with other fundamental mistakes, this burden has undoubtedly contributed much toward causing the present distress."

With these words, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, chairman of the New England organization committee of the National Economy league, sounded the keynote of the meeting of representative New England citizens today for the purpose of presenting a united front against extravagance in government.

Letters from former President Calvin Coolidge and Owen D. Young were read. In his letter Mr. Coolidge said:

"There can be at this time no greater public service than leadership in arousing public opinion in favor of constructive economy in government. Wage earners and business men must combine on a nonpartisan basis for their mutual protection."

ADDS 10 MILLION TO THE COST OF GULF WATERWAY

St. Lawrence Treaty Will Double Expenditure.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty as now written will make necessary the complete canalization of the Illinois waterway and the placing of one or two dams in the Mississippi river near Grafton, it became known today. The increased cost to the United States of such a step would amount to close to $10,000,000, virtually doubling the original cost to the federal government of the cost of the waterway.

That added expenditures would be necessitated in the lakes to the gulf route to make up for the loss of Lake Michigan water was disclosed during a checkup on the President's statement of Monday, to the effect that he had been assured by the war department that the St. Lawrence treaty would not interfere with the successful operation of the Illinois waterway. In his statement the President quoted Gen. Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, as stating that the treaty would provide for the maintenance of a nine foot channel from Chicago to the Mississippi.

Partly Old and Partly New.

It now transpires that the war department was talking about a slack-water, completely canalized canal using only 1,500 cubic second feet of water. The war department report to the President was based partly on old studies made by the chief of engineers of the effect of various diversions on the Illinois water and partly on new studies made in compliance with orders from congress.

The present construction project for the Illinois waterway includes seven dams, two below Utica and five above. With the entire waterway canalized, as will be necessary under a 1,500 cubic second feet diversion, the old state dams on the lower Illinois river would have to be replaced with modern structures. An additional two or three dams and at least that many locks also would have to be built in the Illinois river to maintain the nine foot levels. Engineers are also studying the possibility of placing one or two locks in the Mississippi river to maintain channel depths.

In 1930, when the federal government took over the state end of the Illinois waterway, the engineers were directed by congress to make a study after the waterway was completed to determine the average annual amount of diversion required to meet navigation needs. Some studies had been completed when the treaty negotiations reached a point where the state department desired information as to the diversion requirements at Chicago. As the study asked by congress had not been completed, the department fell back on the 1920 engineers' report and advised the White House it would be possible to operate a canal with a 1,500 foot diversion. Later a report on the diversion matter will be filed in congress.

Installation of a new group of locks and dams will increase traffic delays on the waterway to a point where barge operations would be imperiled, in the opinion of experienced barge line executives. It takes from an hour to an hour and a quarter for a power boat and a string of seven barges to go through a lock of the type used on the Illinois river.

Spoils Early Ratification.

Administration prospects for winning an early ratification of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada were dimmed by several developments indicating that the controversies over the Chicago water diversion, the power question and the proration of construction costs are likely to be long drawn out affairs.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CITY FUNDS AND THE TEACHERS.

The decision of the city officials is now that it will not be possible to use the city corporate credit for the payment of school salaries. The city has made its anticipation warrants acceptable at the banks. The board of education has not. The school tax levies anticipate a revenue which cannot be had. The board members know this. They did not require the information given them by the city officials and by citizens who have been devoting their time to the troubles of Chicago. Nevertheless the information has not only been given but has been urged upon them for months.

The city has put itself in financial position to pay something on the deferred city pay rolls and it is the opinion of the responsible city authorities that they cannot sacrifice equally needy firemen, policemen and other city employés to needy school teachers. The equity seems apparent, although the failure to pay the school employés becomes more deplorable every month.

Unfortunately the school employés have been influenced by two factors against their best interests. One has been a board of education notorious for its misconduct of school funds, its indifference to waste and its resistance of correction. With the school system a wreck about it the school board has stubbornly adhered to its program of sacrificing city interests to other advantages. Years ago it should have had the attention of the state's attorney's office. The welfare and indeed the livelihood of the teachers and other employés were involved in this maladministration, but the employés, although highly organized and very active, have seldom, if ever, directed their activities at the cause of their injury. The board of education in its conduct has relied upon the support of the people on its pay rolls, and now there are no pay rolls.

Another factor has been a radical element in school leadership which believes that the citizens of Chicago are shirking their duties to the school system. If there is honesty in this belief it is nevertheless most foolish. The city as a whole has supplied school money without stint. That is one of the troubles. It has invited in the plunderers and now that the revenue has dried up in hard times they resolutely refuse to drop the practices by which they squandered. The present members of the board have been advised to cut their levies to their expectations and bring the expenses of the schools within the tax returns. Some of them are willing to do this. Some of them have been contending as hard within the board as other citizens have been struggling outside to rescue the schools. But the board as a board has not done so.

Until it does it cannot borrow money, and until it can borrow money it cannot pay wages. It is a curious thing that teachers, asserting their public spirit, should directly or indirectly assist what has always heretofore been regarded as a cardinal public sin, the waste of public funds, but a new philosophy is in the air, and it attaches some virtue to even the corrupt use of revenue if only it be punitive upon taxpaying citizens.

Out of such an unbalance ruinous consequences will come and have.

JAPANESE REALISM.

The Chinese government at Nanking charges the Japanese government with preparations for an invasion of Jehol, the huge Chinese province lying west of Manchuria outside the wall. The facts alleged are that the Japanese commander in Manchuria, Gen. Honju, has been conspiring for months in southern Jehol and also in inner Mongolia and now has a pretext for resorting to military action in the recent disappearance of a Japanese colonel, who was one of his secret emissaries.

Nanking declares that it will use all methods of resistance, which seems less pathetic perhaps since the repulse of the Japanese at Shanghai. Nevertheless Jehol is not Shanghai and dispatches from Shanghai Tuesday report that Japanese troops have entered Jehol province and driven Chinese forces back. If this opens a new Japanese military advance there no doubt will have been a diplomatic preparation in the form of provocations, which are easy to find in the disturbed conditions of the north. These will include the murder of the staff officer sent into northern Jehol last February and the disappearance of Col. Ishimoto, now alleged to be another murder.

Thus it begins to appear that the tide of Japanese advance, turned back at Shanghai, flows on again in the north in spite of international committees and the more or less Pickwickian protests of chancelleries. Japanese statecraft is real politik. It has given every indication that it is not to be deterred from taking all possible advantage of the actual situation in China and the world, through any exaggerated estimate of our recent experiments in international restraints. As we are to live in the world as neighbor to Japan, we hope in durable peace, it would be well for both peoples if American policy and American diplomacy took full account of this fact. If we base our diplomacy upon false assumptions conflict is certain. Understanding is essential to its avoidance as well as to our self-protection in case it proves unavoidable.

SENATOR GLENN FOR RE-ELECTION.

Senator Glenn's campaign for reelection to the United States senate presents a good record. In a congress whose acts were too frequently subject to just criticism for docility to subversive suggestion or coercive demand, for hypocrisies, almost unaccountable weakness or extreme wildness, Senator Glenn took the course of intelligence, independence and fairness.

When the moralists rode herd on congress to enact the Jones five and ten law, the high water mark of prohibition dictatorship, Mr. Glenn voted no. Those were pioneer days for the opponent of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. The national administration showed nothing but sympathy for the program of the prohibitionists, the Republican party was backing the extremists and an independent in congress could expect to be selected for attack.

Later it became easier for timid men to preserve their self-respect, when constituencies began to show that prohibition control was resented and its consequences were deplored. Mr. Glenn was not a convert who required safe election returns as a guaranty for his conduct. It was natural for a man who had perceived the injuries done by prohibition bureaucracy with its extensions into private life to take a comprehensive view of the whole bureaucracy with its tax impositions and its restriction of private enterprise. The endeavor to reduce this federal establishment before it absorbed all the resources of the country and extinguished all the hope of the productive American citizen had Glenn's uncompromising support.

Satisfactory headway has not yet been made because Glenn and his associates in the effort are still a minority in congress just as they were on the other question when the Jones law was passed. Constituencies are with them, but again they will not require the danger of elections to act upon their own intelligence and self-respect.

The largest issue of many years has been disclosed by the refusal of congress to recognize the true functions of the federal government and return to them before the nature of the American union has undergone a change from which there cannot be any turning back. With a few more accretions of power the commissars cannot be unseated. It is important to Illinois that the state meet these prospects by returning to Washington one of the few men in the senate who already has taken his position.

THE GERMANS FOR THE GOLDEN GLOVES.

Last year the Golden Gloves had the French amateur boxers as guests in an international tournament at Soldiers' field and it was then announced that in '32 a German team would be invited. That team is now in Chicago polishing off its training for the bouts of Tuesday night. The Germans have had an enthusiastic welcome which is only preliminary to the cordiality which will be extended to them as they enter the ring.

The French boys had a good time, boxed gallantly, made a better showing than they expected and left a fine impression. The Germans have drawn their team from a much larger boxing population than the French. The boys who have come to Chicago this year at THE TRIBUNE'S invitation are the champions of scores of fights in a land which has more amateur boxing than the United States and which has produced a champion professional heavyweight. The local boys must be very good to hold their own against the champions selected from thousands of well trained and enthusiastic amateurs. It will be a great show and the fair play and good sportsmanship of the amateur ring can be guaranteed.

THE BIG TRUCK GOES.

It is good news for motorists in Illinois that automobile transfer trucks or trains more than 35 feet long will henceforth be barred from our highways. The statute of 1931 has finally been upheld and the state highway police have been directed to begin enforcement at once. A truck and trailer will be considered one vehicle.

The huge trucks which have been riding the highways are not only an incovenience and menace to the individual motorist but an injustice to the public taxed heavily to build and maintain our thoroughfares. Our roads are not built to carry such heavy loads and the trucks are not taxed to offset the rapid deterioration they are responsible for. But even if they were they do not belong on roads intended for general public use.

Editorial of the Day

WITH THE COMFORTS OF HOME.

[Battle Creek Enquirer-News.]

Get yourself a pitcher of ice cold lemonade, a fan of goodly proportions, and draw up a chair beside the radio.

The campaign is on!

How much more fortunate we of this generation are as regards political campaigns.

In the days past a political campaign was something of a physical as well as mental hardship on the conscientious citizen. He wanted to judge fairly, and in order to do this he had to hear the candidates speak. To hear them speak, he suffered much; and he suffered much while hearing them speak.

In the days of oratory from the stump, when the only way to hear a man was to get within shouting distance of his voice, the citizen attended political rallies. Sometimes these were held in halls, sometimes outdoors, but in either event there was a big crowd and the citizen had to become one of the crowd, be tramped on by the crowd, be breathed upon by the crowd, and breathe in of the crowd.

But the objections of crowds and crowding were not all. Frequently the conscientious citizen who wanted to hear so that he could judge found it necessary to drive a considerable distance to the scene of the rally. And afterward he had to drive home, of course, and the trip often was wasted time and energy because what he heard wasn't worth walking across the street to hear.

Think of the improvement of this day. With a glass of something cold to cool his throat, an easy chair to soothe his body, and in the quiet of his own home, the conscientious voter who wants to hear so that he may judge can do so with no more exertion and no more inconvenience than the turn of a wrist. His radio transports him swiftly to within hearing distance of the speaker no matter where the speaker is.

No crowds to suffer, no long trip to make, no annoyance to be undergone. And if the speech isn't worth listening to all the citizen has to do is to turn the dial to something else.

Get your lemonade, bring on the campaign. The citizen nowadays can take it sitting down.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By Bo.

BACHELORS who are always looking for some excuse for not marrying are chortling over Horace Hart, who has just celebrated his 104th birthday and has explained to his friends that his longevity is due to the fact he never married and that no woman ever told him what to eat and drink, and he hadn't had to shorten his life to gratify some woman's whims. But because Horace has never married and has lived to the ripe old age of 104 doesn't necessarily prove that if a man doesn't marry he'll invariably live to be 104. Now, there was Methuselah, he lived to be 969, but he was married. Or, at least, we hope he was, for Genesis says, "And Methuselah lived an hundred eighty and seven years and begat Lamech. And Methuselah lived after he begat Lamech seven hundred eighty and two years and begat sons and daughters." So, after all, this bachelor, Horace Hart, and his 104 years is just a piker compared to old married Methuselah, aged 969.

LINE LYRICS.

Just plain mine-run of minor verse
That might be better, might be worse;
For delving Liners bring to light
Soft coal and slack and anthracite,
So many are the veins they find
Deep in the dim subconscious mind,
Where, fossilized and petrified,
The eons' secrets yet abide.

Toss on your grate a lump of coal—
Straightway the resurrected soul
Of flower, or fern, or tree ascends,
Faint essence, flaming, fleet, that lends
The passing moment all the glow
And warmth it gathered long ago.
Or let the alchemist distill
The dusky fragment, if you will,
And, by his art, he will unclose
Its tomb and re-create the rose
In hue and fragrance as it grew
When earth and sea and sky were new.

The master poets bring forth gold
In yellow nuggets, bright and bold,—
Ours a more human, humbler quest:
You needs must use the alkahest
Of sympathy, or light the fires
Of your own vague, half-dreamed desires
Ere you shall sense the soul that clings
About our earth-born offerings—
Earth-born, yet starry as they rise
To join the all embracing skies.

PERMANENT CURE OF DRUG HABITS.

IN the treatment of addiction to opium and all of its derivatives, except possibly codein, there is a quality that must be taken into consideration, and that need not be reckoned with in other forms of drug addiction. It is known as drug hunger. Specialists in the action of drugs say that drug hunger is not present in cocaine addiction. It is probably not present in addiction to bromides and the barbaturic drugs such as veronal.

Alcohol seems to stand in between. The man who must have his morning bracer before he is fit to start the day suffers from drug hunger. With the exception of the man who must have his drink to stop his hands from trembling, drug hunger is not particularly a factor in alcohol addiction.

Probably tobacco addiction is about on the same plane. Drug hunger is responsible for the habit only among a certain group, and probably they are much in the minority. About the same conclusions are true of the coffee and tea users. Those who have headache if they eat breakfast but do not get the morning cup have a certain amount of drug hunger, but with the ordinary run of beverage drinkers this is not true.

The impulse to use any drug where drug hunger is not a factor lies in habit, custom, or some other mental or social urge. When the effort is made to break a drug habit it is all important that consideration should be given to whether or not there is drug hunger.

If it is not a factor treatment consists in stopping the supply, policing the patient to see that he does not get a surreptitious supply in his period of weakness, making him as comfortable as possible during the period of withdrawal, and sustaining his physical and moral strength. In some treatments of drug habit purgation for the purpose of elimination occupies a prominent place. If drug hunger is present the difficulties of this acute period of treatment are far greater.

In recent years there has been study of this drug hunger in the hope of finding a remedy for it. More than one such study has been reported on. The most promising method of treatment that has come out of these studies is the use of insulin in the treatment of drug hunger. Many physicians have reported favorably on insulin as a remedy to meet this emergency. Insulin in some way regenerates the storage of glycogen in the body cells and it is in this way that it is supposed to benefit drug hunger. Another method is the use of drugs which regulate the storage of water in the brain cells. Certain physiologists have reported on this method and, presumably, within a year we should have reports on cases sufficient in number and detail for opinion as to its practical use.

Whatever the nature of the drug to which there is addiction, what is called the acute treatment to break the habit must be followed up by months and years of character training. Unless there is some character on which to build, cures never work. That is, the cure never sticks unless there is something in the man that makes him a sticker.

CAN'T RUN AWAY.

Mother writes: My daughter is what the doctors call a highly neurotic person. She suffers a great deal with stomach trouble, which seems much worse in cold weather. She is a person of high ideals and the position she holds throws her in contact with very unkind people. She has been lied about a lot and misrepresented. However, she has had two nervous breakdowns and is practically an invalid now. She is also being treated for thyroid trouble. She has been offered an increase in salary if she returns to her position, but she does not want to. Would a change to a warmer climate help her?

REPLY.

Probably not, although some climates are more soothing than others. A diseased thyroid could cause all of her troubles. If so, proper treatment should improve matters greatly. If not thyroid, then she has a poorly controlled nervous system and her need is for training in poise and balance.

It does not pay to run away from trouble. This is especially true if one has an unstable nervous system.

CAUSE OF BOILS.

L. E. writes: What causes boils?

REPLY.

Boils result from infection of the deeper parts of the skin and the tissues just below. The infecting microbe is staphylococcus. Among the contributing causes of boils are diabetes, eating too much sugar and starch, lack of cleanliness of the skin, dirty grease on the skin, local irritation from any cause, blackheads.

DANDRUFF MAY BE CATCHING.

Mrs. D. D. K. writes:

1. I have heard that dandruff is catching. Is that so?
2. What can I do for dandruff?
3. Should I wash my scalp very often? Is once a week enough?

REPLY.

1. It is thought that at least one scalp trouble that causes dandruff is catching. The proof is not conclusive. Nevertheless, it is advisable to stick to one's own comb and brush.
2. Wash the scalp well and often. Use a little grease after washing. Spend much time brushing your hair daily. You may need the services of a skin specialist.
3. Once a week is not often enough.

EFFECTS OF FLUORIN.

V. A. writes: Will you please explain what fluorin is and what part of the body it affects which causes crumbling of the teeth that you wrote about recently.

REPLY.

Fluorin is one of the elements, just as are iron, gold, sulphur, and oxygen. It is not as abundant in nature as is iron. It is present in some soils and, being somewhat soluble, it is found in some waters that come out of these soils.

Opinion is divided as to how much it has to do with crumbling teeth. A dentist who lives in a place where there is more than the average amount of fluorin in the water thinks it hardens the teeth in certain circumstances. A state health officer once advocated that idea. It could easily be that a certain amount of fluorin in the drinking water hardened the teeth and another amount caused them to crumble.

LEASE IS BINDING.

Maywood, Ill., July 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In May, 1931, I signed a lease for one year. The following May the owner wanted to know if I would stay at a reduced rent. I agreed to stay. There was no new lease drawn up. The agreement was verbal. After I had paid the rent for May I received notice the place had changed owners and I presume the building was taken over by the mortgage holder. 1. Does the old lease bind the tenant in any way to the present owner? 2. Is a verbal agreement good in law? 3. How much time is a tenant required to give when he wishes to move? 4. Can I give the new landlord the required notice and move?

F. O. F.

1. Yes. In our opinion there would be a renewal by implication at a reduced rent.
2. Yes, except as to certain types of agreements listed in the statute of frauds.
3. Depends on the nature of his tenancy.
4. Not until the end of your renewal term.

LEGAL DIVORCE.

Chicago, July 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—May I have the correct information as to the following: 1. If a person divorced in California remarries before the year has expired and moves to another city or state, [2] is this marriage legal?

1. If by "divorce" you mean that he has merely secured the interlocutory decree, then the answer is that his divorce is not complete and he is not in a position to contract a valid marriage.
2. No.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE.

Chicago, July 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a home which was purchased in 1926 from a local bank and trust company who were trustees under trust agreement. The mortgage of $3,450 has been entirely paid up and all tax assessments have likewise been paid. There is now a first mortgage dated Jan. 1, 1931 of $4,500, three notes of $250 each being due Jan. 1, 1933, 1934 and 1935 and the balance of $3,750 due on Jan. 1, 1936. At the present time there is interest due July 1 past to the amount of $146.25. The people who own the property are unemployed. Can a foreclosure be accomplished? If not, can the owners live on the premises without paying interest and for how long?

M. J. R.

Subsection 2 of section 5 of the forcible detainer act authorizes a suit at law for possession "when a vendee, having obtained possession under a written or verbal agreement to purchase lands or tenements and having failed to comply with his agreement, withholds possession after demand in writing." Section 3, as amended in 1931, requires 30 days' notice before suit. While in a mortgage foreclosure the defendant is sometimes permitted to enjoy the use of the premises during the fifteen months allowed for redemption from the foreclosure sale, there is no such delay on these contract cases. The foregoing relates only to possession. To clear the title, the vender may have to file a bill in equity if the contract has been recorded, and the court, before entering a decree, may order the refund of an equitable portion of the purchase money. If the contract has not been recorded, the vender may resell clear of the vendee's equity. If the vendee, within a reasonable time and before court proceedings, tenders the amount due he can in most cases reinstate the contract.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 22, 1916.

BERLIN.—An attack by British forces against the Germans at Fromelles, north of La Bassee, on July 19 resulted in the loss by the British of more than 2,000 men killed and nearly 500 taken prisoners, according to the war office statement, which admits that the German line along a front of about two miles east of Hardecourt was driven from its first trenches into its second trenches. Some idea of the huge forces now engaged in the battle of the Somme is given in the statement, which says that more than 200,000 French and British troops attacked the German lines north and south of the Somme on July 20 on a front of 27 miles.

PARIS.—Positions captured by the French south of the Somme were subjected to a vigorous counter attack. The Germans charged the French lines south of Soyecourt, but suffered heavy losses and were driven back in disorder.

LONDON.—The left wing of the Russian army along the lower Lipa river swung forward and the second great gain of the month was accomplished. The troops of Gen. Brussiloff swept through the enemy's defenses for an advance of nearly fifteen miles. The Teutonic forces under Gen. von Linsingen were thrust away from the Lipa and the Styr, their most powerful means of defense between the Lutsk region and the northern Galician frontier.

LONDON.—The British steamer Yzer has been sunk, according to a dispatch from Lloyd's. The fate of three Americans aboard is unknown.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson spent most of the day with his pen in hand writing notes to the rulers of the various belligerent nations and instructions to his ambassadors at various courts to furnish him with additional information in order that he might write more notes. He asked the British embassy in Washington and the American ambassador in London to furnish him promptly all information available concerning the British blacklist order against American firms. He also demands a prompt reply from the British to the American protest against seizures of mail on the high seas.

CHICAGO.—Col. Charles Rudolph Edward Koch, past adjutant general of the G. A. R., builder of the First Regiment armory, and secretary of the Northwestern university dental school, died on July 20 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Josephine Crane, in Newtonville, Mass. He was 75 years old and was engaged in the practice of dentistry in Chicago until 1898.

CHICAGO.—An immediate distribution of $1,500,000 to the direct heirs, $500,000 to charity, according to the judgment of the majority of the heirs, and the payment of semi-annual installments of annuities of $9,900 to seven different charitable institutions, while the bulk of the estate is left to Albert W. Harris, the eldest son, and the Harris Trust and Savings bank as trustees, are features of the will of the late Norman W. Harris. The widow is given the home at Lake Geneva, Wis., which cost $200,000.

Industry: "We've been to the bank to borrow some money."

Industry: "One-half of one per cent."

FREEDOM OF SPEECH FOR CONSERVATIVES.

Chicago, July 18.—Your nicely discriminating editorial of this date on academic freedom contains more good sense on what is usually treated as a theme for declamation than any of the too numerous academic essays on the subject that I have read. There is undoubtedly, as you say, a strong but rebuttable presumption in favor of tolerance. But the principle of freedom of speech does not require any institution or individual to lend or rent a hall to a propaganda that would put men on the opposite side of a barricade. It is a generous measure of tolerance to allow revolutionists to declaim in their own halls, at their own risk, if their counsels are immediately put into practice by their hearers. Your surprise and regret that the established and American order is too rarely and ineffectively defended is justified and natural. There is one explanation of the fact that is more likely to occur to one who has taught or lectured in several American universities for nearly fifty years than to you. In most of the larger universities a radical may, with entire freedom and immunity, preach militant atheism, ethical nihilism, or Russian communism; he may teach that the constitution of the United States is an obsolete eighteenth century document created for their own ends by designing plutocrats; and he may denounce intemperately by name leaders of business and of the two chief American parties. But a conservative thinker is practically not free to criticize—I do not mean the personalities, but the published and public utterances of radicals in the faculty of his own university. He may, of course, utter a few soothing and edifying commonplaces, but if he permits himself specific criticisms of chapter and verse he will be sent to Coventry by both his colleagues and the administration. Until this form of senatorial or academic courtesy is abolished there will be no real freedom of speech for conservatives in American universities, and no effective defense of the conservative and the older American tradition in politics, ethics, literature, economics, or why should I fear to add philosophy and religion. P. S.

HAY FEVER RELIEF.

Chicago, July 17.—As a matter of suggestion to the Emmerson relief commission, would it not be a good policy to ask assistance from the thousands of men they feed each day—to lend their help in beautifying the city and saving 130,000 men and women that suffer annually from that dreaded sickness, hay fever?

Now is the time, when the weeds are ready for seed, to cut them down and burn them so that there would be no regrowth and also prevent hundreds of minor accidents each day by automobile collisions at intersections and corners due to high weeds.

With 15,000 men working in shifts of four hours each day for one week, we could have our city take on the appearance of a great big public park that would be both inviting and inspiring to the people in it instead of an eyesore such as we now have and see. I am sure the health department would cooperate.

WALTER F. LOVELL.

IT SEEMS VOCAL TO VOX POP.

Chicago, July 15.—The article by Prof. Dodd titled "Academic Freedom," although the "Right of Free Speech" would have been better, is pertinent and timely. I hope Prof. Dodd will continue to write upon this subject. This is one of our most vital rights under our constitution and should be defended to our last breath. If the voices of our teachers are stilled through gratitude to beneficial endowers we in the workaday world are badly off indeed, as we have no one to speak for us; no one, that is, who has leisure to study and reflect and the basic education and training to make his ultimate conclusions of value. The groping "man in the street," anxious and uncertain, knowing all is wrong but not knowing why or how to mend it, is one of the most pathetic sights in our so-called civilized world. Perhaps the "beneficial endowers" are not quite as altruistic as they seem and are well aware of the "silencing" effect of their liberal gifts. There is an old saying, "Beware the silent man." Perhaps we should go further and say, "Beware the silenced nation."

PIONEER STOCK.

EMERGENCY RELIEF VACATIONS.

Chicago, July 19.—In this morning's TRIBUNE there is a letter from Mr. E. J. Whittleton, protesting against the granting of vacations to employés of agencies cooperating with the Joint Emergency Relief Fund.

For your information, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission is approving vacations on the basis of one day per month of continuous service with an agency cooperating with it. The maximum vacation allowed is twelve days. There is further provision that no one is entitled to a vacation who has not been in continuous employment with a relief agency for at least six months. This general plan is in use by most business organizations.

Mr. Whittleton refers to the employés of relief organizations as a "well paid class." As a matter of fact, the average salary paid by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission is less than $100 per month. Incidentally, it should be noted here that the members of the commission, the members of its county committees, and several of its staff members are working without compensation.

EDWARD L. RYERSON JR.,
Chairman.

ORCHIDS.

Chicago, July 6.—The letter written by William A. Hansen, "Saying It with Flowers," is true in the poetic sense of the word, but, biologically speaking, his article offers no proof.

In the tropics, where the real orchids are found growing, there is every evidence offered to justify calling orchids cold flowers, even if the temperature is torrid. These epiphytes grow alone on branches of trees—there is no community life, with the exception of a few mosses. Since these flowers grow as they do, they certainly suggest coldness. To me they are as cold as the lichens growing up in cold northern regions.

Even the anatomy of orchids suggests coldness. The leaves and root systems [constructed to absorb moisture] are usually quite wet with moisture. A flower or a plant that is saturated with water certainly puts forth a feeling of coolness.

There is no one that could say that orchids lack beauty; perhaps they hold so much beauty that to some they throw out warmth. In my estimation Genevieve Forbes Herrick was absolutely flawless in her statement, "The lady from the east, decorative and chilly as the orchids she wore."

LORAINE OLSON.

THE SOCIALIST PROGRAM.

Oak Park, Ill., July 18.—Mr. Arthur B. Hewson in his letter of July 18 makes the complaint that Norman Thomas and the Socialist party have failed to present a definite program in relation to the major problems of our economic and political life.

May I suggest that Mr. Hewson read a copy of the Socialist party platform? I think he will discover that the Socialist platform can very easily stand alongside of the Democratic and Republican platforms.

For example, the Socialist platform provides for the six hour day and the five day week, unemployment compensation, old age pensions, direct election of the President and Vice President, cancellation of war debts, withdrawal of military forces from Haiti, Nicaragua and China, and the prohibition of sales of munitions to foreign powers.

The Socialist platform, indeed, is a surprisingly sane one, even if it is the work of a party and a candidate which are pledged to fundamental economic reform.

THE THORN.

Chicago, July 16.—That nice editorial rose you passed to President Chase of our state university has a very sharp thorn for some of us. From one-third to one-half of that $600,000 taken off the taxpayers has been placed on the students and their parents. The tuition in this state supported "tuition free" school has been raised from $50 per year to $70 per year. You are welcome to this information concerning this extra $20 added in the fall of 1931.

STORM ABATES. HEAT; COOL WIND TO BLOW TODAY

Lightning Kills Bather at North Side Beach.

The four day heat wave which has parched Chicago and the greater portion of the central and western states since last Monday morning was definitely in the wane last night.

In midafternoon thunder clouds scudded down over lower Lake Michigan and Chicago and environs had a brief but cooling shower, which marked the first break here in the protracted torrid spell.

The Chicago forecaster, C. A. Donnel, last night predicted that, although further rain was doubtful, the hot winds which have been blowing steadily from the southwest would shift to the northwest.

Cool Weather for Today.

By morning, he said, thermometer readings would be back in the lower seventies, bringing comfort such as the city has not experienced since Monday morning. Today's maximum, according to Mr. Donnel, probably will not exceed 80 degrees.

Eighty degrees was a minimum rather than a maximum yesterday. This low point was reached at 6 a. m., after which the July sun and southwest wind drove the mercury upwards steadily until, at 1 p. m., it attained an official maximum of 95 at the University of Chicago observatory. The street reading in the loop, meanwhile, was 102.

Rain Showers City.

About this time the thunder clouds reared on the horizon, at least affording shade. Shortly before 3 o'clock the rain began, sprinkling the south side briskly for twenty minutes and spreading north over the loop and north side.

The shower brought quick but brief relief. At 3 o'clock the University of Chicago reading was 91. At 4 o'clock it had fallen to 84, and by 5 o'clock it was back again to 90. However, in the next hour the temperature dropped to 75 degrees and readings in the seventies prevailed after that. At midnight the unofficial temperature reading was 76.

A violent windstorm swept through the township of Lemont at 5:15 p. m., blew down a huge elm tree and eleven telegraph poles along the Chicago and Joliet electric railway, halting service on the line.

Lightning Kills Bather.

The thundershower brought sudden death at one of the numerous lake beaches, where hundreds of thousands were seeking comfort. Peter Kemblowski, 28 years old, 3030 Allen avenue, and Benjamin Novak, 28 years old, 4144 Henderson avenue, were lolling on the sand at Montrose beach when a thunderbolt struck.

Bathers in the water felt the shock, but escaped injury. Kemblowski was killed instantly. Novak, burned on the left arm, wrist and leg, was revived by members of rescue squad 3 of the fire department, who took him to the Lake View hospital.

One drowning also occurred. Seven year old Ely Wisel, bounding along on his toes in the deep end of the swimming pool at California avenue and Irving Park boulevard, lost his footing and sank. Lifeguards Joseph Ritter and Ernest Schmidhofer brought up the body, but could not revive the boy.

Injured by Live Wire.

In another accident attributed to the storm, Edward Wiebke, 32 years old, a draughtsman, and his wife, Mary, also 32, were brushed by a loosened electric wire, which fell from a pole as the couple alighted from their car at their home at 625 West 115th street. Their 6 year old son, Edward Jr., was untouched but Wiebke was severely burned and his wife also was burned. A neighbor took them to the Roseland Community hospital.

East and west coast cities suffered equally with those in the middle west. A maximum of 87 degrees was attained in New York. Fresno, Cal., had a maximum of 104 degrees and Walla Walla, Wash., 100.

PARROT FEVER KILLS WOMAN; 2 OTHERS ILL

The death of one Chicago woman and the serious illness of two others from psittacosis, or parrot fever, was disclosed yesterday by the board of health.

The woman who died, on July 6, was Mrs. Eva Marbach, 3702 North Damen avenue, widow of a policeman. She bought a pair of parrakeets, or love birds, from a peddler on June 13. Shortly before she became ill she was visited by two friends, Mrs. A. Lenters, 3842 North Damen avenue, and Mrs. Helen Dietz, 4642 North Ashland avenue. They both contracted the disease, but are now convalescing.

Psittacosis is transmitted to humans only by birds of the parrot family, and not from one human to another, investigations have indicated. It is an epidemic disease among South American parrots, and newly imported birds are the only ones believed to be responsible for the infection of humans.

Arrest 17 as They Picket Nonunion Typesetters

Seventeen men were arrested yesterday while picketing the United Typesetting company, 537 South Dearborn street. All were released on cash bonds of $100 each after being booked to appear before Judge Thomas A. Green in South State street court this morning on charges of disorderly conduct. According to Edward T. Miller, president of the company, the plant has been operated on an open shop basis for sixteen years.

GIRL OVERCOME BY HEAT; AUTO CRASHES; INJURED

Miss Rose Zaffrano, 26 years old, 914 Armitage avenue, was prostrated by the heat while driving her automobile at Kenosha, Wis., yesterday afternoon. Her unguided car struck the machine of Jay Morey, 111 North Canal street, and continued to crash into the car of John Senowski of Kenosha. Miss Zaffrano was the only one hurt. She was taken to St. Catherine's hospital in Kenosha and treated for prostration and several fractured ribs.

Carlos Lallano, 43 years old, 824 Lathrop avenue, Forest Park, died at the county hospital yesterday, the fourth victim of an accident at Roosevelt road and the Indiana Harbor Belt line railroad crossing in Broadview last Nov. 24. The automobile in which he was riding with two women and another man was demolished by a train. The others were instantly killed.

This death increased the automobile toll for Cook county since Jan. 1 to 610.

COMPANY FIGHTS COURT'S RULING FOR INVENTOR

Attorneys for S. N. Shure and S. J. Shure, brothers, who head the Ellis Electrical Laboratories Sales corporation, announced yesterday that they would appeal the ruling of Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel, who last Tuesday refused to grant an injunction restraining Hugh J. Ellis, 67 year old inventor of a radio microphone, from violating the terms of a contract giving the brothers exclusive sales rights to his product.

The attorneys asserted that the ruling of the judge was based purely upon a technical ground that the contract, under which they agreed to purchase at least 100 microphones a year from Ellis in return for the exclusive rights, was unenforceable through lack of mutual benefits. They asserted that Ellis had insisted that the contract contain an agreement for 100 microphones although they urged that the minimum be placed at 300. They also charged that Ellis had accepted benefits of the contract for two years.

The attorneys for the Shure brothers denied that a merger discussed with Ellis in 1930 would have given them a lien upon his patents, saying that Ellis was to have received profits equal to those under the sales contract while they took control of manufacturing. They added that their clients had expended large sums of money in creating a market for the microphone.

INJURIES KEEP YOUNG STILLMAN IN THE HOSPITAL

The injuries he suffered when his airplane nosed over near Gary will keep Alexander Stillman a patient in Mercy hospital at Gary for two or three more days. A cut beneath one eye required eight stitches yesterday. This was caused by glass which broke when the wheels of his ship sank into swampy ground. The youth also was weakened by the long hike to a highway before he was picked up and driven to the hospital.

Mrs. Fifi Stillman McCormick, mother of the 20 year old patient, was released yesterday afternoon from Mercy hospital. Mrs. McCormick was slightly injured when a plane she and her husband, Fowler McCormick, chartered to fly to Alexander's bedside also nosed over at the Ford airport in Lansing. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick spent the afternoon yesterday in their Chicago apartment at the Drake towers.

DANIEL ORTH JR. IS MARRIED BY J. P. IN WAUKEGAN

Daniel A. Orth Jr., son of Dr. Orth, of 5639 Sheridan road, was married to Marion E. Thompson, of Chicago, in Waukegan yesterday. The ceremony was performed in the Lake county courthouse by Justice of the Peace Charles E. Mason. Orth was reported to have asked that the marriage be "kept quiet." He gave his age as 26 and Miss Thompson's as 23.

Miss Thompson said that she was a stenographer, and Orth said that he was not employed now. The mother of the bridegroom was reached by telephone at the Orth home in Wheaton.

"It is quite sudden," she said, "but we know the girl and approved the marriage. We expected the wedding to take place a little later, however."

J. W. BECKWITH, ATTORNEY, DIES AT THE AGE OF 65

John W. Beckwith, 65 years old, 37 East Elm street, a former corporation counsel, died yesterday in the Speedway hospital after a long illness. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the home, with burial in Rosehill cemetery.

J. W. BECKWITH.

Mr. Beckwith was born in Chicago, the son of Justice Corydon Beckwith of the Illinois Supreme court. He was graduated from Yale university in 1889, and after completing a course at the Union College of Law was admitted to the bar in 1892.

William H. Sexton, the present corporation counsel, resigned as corporation counsel in 1914 under Mayor Carter Harrison Jr., and Mr. Beckwith was appointed to succeed him. Two years later, when the elevation of Judge Joseph Sabath to the Superior court left vacant a place on the municipal bench, Mr. Beckwith succeeded to the vacancy. In 1917 he was appointed an assistant state's attorney. During the world war Mr. Beckwith served as a colonel in the judge advocate general's department.

He is survived by his widow, Mary Stuart, and one daughter, Mrs. Charles Dyer Helle Jr. of Oak Park. Mr. Beckwith started his law practice in Chicago in the law department of the Chicago and Alton railroad. Later he was a member of the law firm of Felsenthal & Beckwith, and since 1922 had been a member of the firm of Schein & Beckwith.

DRIVER FATALLY HURT IN QUARREL AFTER COLLISION

Frank Buh, 45 years old, 3245 Walnut street, was fatally injured yesterday in a fight that developed at Augusta boulevard and Kilbourn avenue after his car and another had collided.

Buh, a plastering contractor, was eastbound in the boulevard and had started to make a left turn when the accident occurred. The driver of the second car was Howard O. Bancroft, 31 years old, 2729 North 75th avenue, Elmwood Park, who was westbound.

No one was injured in the collision. The two men stepped from their cars and began to quarrel. Bancroft struck Buh with his fist and felled him. As he toppled Buh's head struck the cement curbing and fractured his skull.

He was taken to St. Anne's hospital by Bancroft and Policeman John Hardina of the west parks. His death occurred several hours later. Bancroft was held by the police pending an inquest. The fight was witnessed by Bancroft's wife and a small boy who accompanied Buh.

DROP CHARGES AGAINST THREE IN DURAND CASE

The case growing from the supposed $50,000 kidnaping plot directed against Patricia Durand, 3 year old daughter of Jack Durand of Lake Bluff, was wiped off the records at Waukegan yesterday when Assistant State's Attorney Wilfred E. Hall of Lake county went before Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt and nol prossed charges of conspiracy against three prisoners in the case.

The prisoners were Pete Cunniff, Chicago labor racketeer and bombing suspect; Joseph Verdico and Max Kraske. Mr. Hall said that it was impossible to go on with the case because young Durand, an ex-convict and the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Durand, refused to identify the suspects or otherwise assist authorities in the prosecution.

Chicago detectives arrested the prisoners, catching Cunniff and Verdico on the porch of Mrs. Scott Durand's Crab Tree farm near Lake Bluff. They had the gang under surveillance for a month, they stated, and they said at the time of the arrests that young Durand had been carrying on negotiations with the suspects during that period.

SAYS HIGH TAXES DRY UP SOURCES OF U. S. REVENUE

Auto Official Holds Rates Are Confiscatory.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—[Special.]—B. E. Hutchinson, vice president of the Chrysler corporation, cited the records of his own firm this afternoon to illustrate that governments, national and local, by throttling private industry with high taxes, are killing the sources of public revenues.

B. E. HUTCHINSON.

"Confiscatory tax rates," he said, "are reducing private wealth assessable for public expenses. This trend is leading directly toward bankruptcy for the governments as well as for private industries.

"The Chrysler corporation, a relatively prosperous automobile manufacturer, will not pay any income tax on its operations during the first six months of 1932. Although it was the only corporation in the motor car business that increased sales over the total for the first half of last year, Chrysler has not made a profit this year to date.

Pays $36,000,000 Taxes.

"In the last seven years, the corporation has paid $36,000,000 in taxes. Last year alone, the taxes were almost twice as great as net profits. Its tax bill was almost two-thirds as much as dividend payments.

"If it were conceded merely for the sake of argument that the $36,000,000 taxes paid by Chrysler during the last seven years were wisely and economically spent, still there would be some doubt whether society would not have benefited more had this money, or at least a great portion of it, been put to work for private industry with redistribution in payrolls and dividends. However, no one familiar with governmental operations is going to concede that office holders are more economical with public funds than is private industry with its own money.

"If governmental expenses had been limited to necessities during the last seven years, today there would have been many millions of dollars of the corporation's tax bill available for expansion and promotion of industry, furnishing jobs to thousands of men.

Purchasing Power Cut.

"The payments made to government, federal, state, and local by this corporation don't tell all of the story. The purchasing power has been reduced by taxes so that new car registrations in the United States for the twelve months ending June 1 were but 53.7 per cent of the average for the last five years, which includes two and a half years of depression as well as the boom years.

"In addition to the heavy taxes on the public at large, automobile ownership and operation was taxed last year 500 million dollars in gasoline excises, $56 millions in state license fees, and 130 millions in personal property assessments against the cars. State and local governments are collecting a billion dollars a year from automobile owners, and now Washington has added 250 million dollars a year in federal taxes on automobiles, trucks, gasoline, oil, tires, accessories, and parts.

Improves 1931 Showing.

"Chrysler corporation has been fortunate in being able to increase consistently its share of the available automobile business. The corporation sold 8.7 per cent of cars purchased in the first six months of 1931 and 17.7 per of the cars purchased in the first half of 1932.

"The growth of Chrysler in the automobile industry emphasizes the significance of the corporation's failure to show a taxable report so far in 1932. The corporation is willing and anxious to contribute its just portion in supporting necessary governmental activities, but we are urging our stockholders and members of our organization to use their full influence, civicly and politically, toward a readjustment of public finance and towards sound governmental economy."

LOSES JEWEL

MRS. PAYNE WHITNEY.

WHITNEY JEWEL DISAPPEARS AT CHARITY EVENT

Advertisement Offers $7,000 Reward.

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—A platinum brooch with emeralds and a diamond border disappeared, it became known today, at the charity benefit at the Marshall Field estate at Huntington, L. I., Saturday. The brooch was the property of Mrs. Payne Whitney.

Published reports today set the value of the piece at $25,000. Mrs Whitney's representatives said, however, that it is worth less than half of that amount.

No formal announcement of the loss was made to the newspapers, but this morning an advertisement offered $1,000 reward for the return of a piece of jewelry lost at the Marshall Field home and answering to the description of Mrs. Whitney's brooch.

Insurance Company Notified.

The brooch was insured, according to the Whitney offices, and the insurance company was notified of its disappearance. So far as the Whitney representatives knew, Noel Scaffa, a detective famous for his recovery of stolen jewelry through private channels, had not, it was reported this morning, been called into the case.

The advertisements notified claimants to the reward to communicate with H. L. Smith of A. R. Lee & Co., 116 John street, and gave the telephone number.

Mr. Lee could not be reached this afternoon. Mrs. Whitney is understood to be cruising on her yacht. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field sailed for Europe immediately after the fête at their estate.

A published version of the disappearance of the gem said that it vanished despite the presence of detectives circulating among the guests at the entertainment.

Two Other Victims Announced.

Two other gem robberies, totaling $45,000, became known today to confront police with the cleverest jewel thief of the decade—who spots his loot with discriminating taste and takes it with ease when society is too preoccupied to be cautious. One of the other victims was Mrs. Maxine H. Furland of Park avenue and Princeton, N. J. After a gay party at the River club she was on a liner well out at sea before she missed a diamond set platinum brooch valued at $10,000. That was on June 22. Two weeks later Mrs. David Dows of Brookville, L. I., and her husband, the millionaire sheriff of Nassau county, were leaving for Europe on the Ile de France. After sailing Mrs. Dows discovered that her $35,000 bracelet had disappeared. She had had the clasp repaired only a few days before.

VILLAGE LOSING ITS REPUTATION AS SPEED TRAP

Four More Defendants Freed at Wooddale.

Wooddale, population 230, on Irving Park boulevard, 22 miles west of Chicago, is speedily losing its recently acquired reputation as a speed trap.

A week ago four Chicagoans, one of them James P. Haynes, executive vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, were accused of speeding in the village and went to trial before a neutral magistrate, George A. Sim of Bloomingdale township. All were freed.

Last evening four others who had been taken into custody by J. L. Carroll, the chief of the Wooddale one man police force, were arraigned on traffic charges before the resident magistrate, W. C. Nielsen. As in the previous trials, the defendants were represented by Attorney Joseph H. Braun of the Chicago Motor club, and all were dismissed.

When the case of Dr. N. A. Linstedt of Rockford was called Mr. Braun showed that Chief Carroll's complaint had no mention of the fact that the speeding occurred in Du Page county and argued that for lack of venue the doctor should be allowed to go.

As for Harry Freeman, 1251 Melrose street, Chief Carroll couldn't remember whether he was in a car or on a motorcycle when he made the arrest. He wasn't able to pick out John Prehler, 5708 North Natoma avenue, another arrestee, from the crowd in the courtroom.

The fourth defendant, Robert Redfield, 1000 Linden avenue, Oak Park, was dismissed without prosecution.

When the Haynes case was called on July 14 Magistrate Nielsen had suggested that it be given to a neighboring magistrate. Attorney Cornelius Lynde, personal counsel for Mr. Haynes, objected. He insisted that Magistrate Nielsen pass on the charge. Attorney Braun said he had heard a speed trap was being conducted in the village and wanted to get the facts.

Magistrate Sim then took the bench at Magistrate Nielsen's request and, after criticizing Chief Carroll for arresting all persons driving over 25 miles an hour, announced he would drive 45 miles an hour himself when he was leaving.

Haessler, Radical Lecturer, Talks on 'Soaking the Rich'

Carl Haessler, the radical lecturer whose remarks recently stirred up some excitement among Ravinia club women and whose home in Highland Park was the setting for a fiery cross, was the speaker last night in science hall, University of Chicago, before the Socialists' club.

"Soaking the Rich to Save Them" was the title of his lecture. He asserted that if the money of the rich is taken from them by taxation and given to the poor, buying power will be created, prosperity built up, and the rich will be enabled to make another pile so that they can again be soaked with taxes, etc., etc.

350 STRICKEN WITH PTOMAINE POISON ON SHIP

Washington, D. C., July 21.—(AP)—Approximately 350 persons were stricken with ptomaine poisoning today while on an outing down the Potomac river. Only one—a 76 year old man—was in a serious condition, which was complicated by a heart ailment.

Washington hospitals were swamped with the victims, rushed there in ambulances, fire apparatus, taxis, and private automobiles as soon as the Charles MacAlester, an excursion boat, docked late this afternoon. Doctors estimated at least 150 would need to remain in the hospitals overnight.

About 1,200 persons were on the excursion, organized by two Washington dairies. Nearly half of them became ill from eating the ordinary picnic fare of salads, sandwiches and the like.

Twenty or thirty were unconscious when the boat docked. About 150 of the less seriously sick went directly to their homes. A second boat load carrying 75 to 100 persons came in later tonight. Some of these also had become ill.

Girl Wins $25,000 for Bald Spot from Exploding Comb

New York, July 21.—(AP)—Louise Squire, former actress, who said the explosion of celluloid water waving combs caused a permanent bald spot on her blonde head, was awarded a $25,000 judgment today. She sued the F. W. Woolworth company, from whom she bought the combs, for $200,000. In its defense the Woolworth company said Miss Squire was guilty of contributory negligence.

REPORT BERWYN BRIBE DEFENDANT WILL AID STATE

Rife Bauder, former Berwyn alderman and one of 11 men charged with accepting $10,000 in bribes in a true bill reported voted by the grand jury Wednesday, testified yesterday before the jury. He will be granted immunity and his name left out of the indictment in return for his testimony, it was said.

Three Berwyn aldermen, seven former aldermen and a former city attorney were reported named in the true bill. They were charged with accepting the bribes in return for passing an ordinance which bound the city to rent the closed First National Bank of Berwyn as a city hall at an allegedly exorbitant rental. Francis Karel, president of the closed First American National Bank of Berwyn, in whose name the title of the old First National Bank of Berwyn was vested, was reported named in an additional true bill which charged him with paying the $10,000 bribes.

Attorney Byron C. Thorpe, former mayor of Berwyn, demanded the investigation which led to the grand jury action. Albert Kunel, one of the aldermen said to be named, said yesterday that he "never got a dime in such a deal." He said that he had asked the advice of Thorpe before signing the ordinance and that the former mayor told him that it was a good thing for Berwyn.

The Battle of Words is On But PHILLIPS 66 is still

"HIGHEST TEST" at the price of ordinary gasoline

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Motorist:—

The Summer fight for your patronage is on. The big advertising guns have unlimbered a thundering barrage of claims and counter-claims.

But your motor won't run on words. So we present these facts to clear the confusion.

Phillips was FIRST to offer a gasoline with Controlled Volatility. That is, a motor fuel matched to changes in climate, and seasonally adjusted. Phillips pioneered this great principle and predicted that others would try to imitate it. They have tried!

Phillips was FIRST to offer a high gravity gasoline of premium quality without the usual extra charge of 3¢ more per gallon. Being the world's largest producer of natural high gravity gasoline, Phillips could afford to do so. And did! Because we were convinced that the quickest way to win your good will was to provide sensational value.

Phillips was FIRST to publish the actual, definite gravity figures of its gasoline, month by month. When we say "high test," we tell you how high. Not in percentages or comparisons. But with authentic gravity figures.

Right now, Phillips 66 gravity ranges from 62.1° to 67.9°.

These figures earn the respect of all technical experts in the oil industry. And rightly so, since Phillips 66 costs not a penny extra.

It is an amazing motor fuel, self-demonstrating on every count from power and pick-up to sustained pep and longer mileage. As you click off the miles, you constantly add to your conviction that it delivers far finer performance and greater value.

We realize that these statements, despite our sincerity, are only "words" to you. That is why we suggest that you get the truth from your motor, by trying just one tankful of Phillips 66 the greater gasoline.

The more experienced a driver you are, the more you will appreciate the all 'round improvement in performance and saving in money.

Don't forget—you get extra high test gasoline, without paying anything extra, when you Phill-up with Phillips at the Orange and Black 66 shield.

BOWL OF PUNCH HAPPY ITEM FOR SUMMER PARTY

Considered a Necessity in Good Old Days.

BY ROE FOWLER.

Why not add punch to the summer with a bowl of punch? 'Way back when I was just a nuisance to a couple of big sisters I remember that no summer party—and they did have some swell ones—was complete without its bowl of punch. Fresh fruit punch, I mean. And without anything in it that the minister couldn't drink if he happened in.

Of course, rum punch is an asset to a winter gathering, and even the minister wouldn't have minded it then—but alcoholic punch was considered "fast" at a summer party. Those were the good old days when temperance was accounted a virtue and no girl wanted to be considered "fast." We've changed all that—but I still think the punch was mighty good.

These Are the Preliminaries.

As soon as the Japanese lanterns and crêpe paper were in place on the afternoon before the evening of the party the old family water cooler—an earthen affair holding about five gallons—would be resurrected from the basement and a specially ordered cake of ice (which had been reposing in a burlap sack since the morning) would be divided into two pieces weighing about 25 and 75 pounds, respectively. The 75 pound piece would then be subdivided into fairly smallish chips by a small boy wielding the flat of an ax against the burlap bag, into which it had been returned. And while the small boy puts all his shoulder and heart into his work let us journey upstairs to the kitchen.

There the women are busy with the berries, cherries, apples, watermelon, pineapple, oranges, lemons, and whatever else is available. There are several kinds of berries—red raspberries, blackberries, blueberries, loganberries, huckleberries, ripe red gooseberries, currants, and the like. There are two kinds of cherries—fresh and maraschino. The pineapple has been sliced and diced and standing in sugar since the night before. Another pineapple is sliced and diced and mixed in with the first to give a tart flavor occasionally. The oranges are cut up and the juice of several others squeezed out and added. The juice of the lemons is added to this juice to make it sweet-sour. The apples and watermelon hearts are diced.

Ready for the Critics.

By this time the young feller in the basement will have completed demolishing the ice. The women mix the fruits together impartially and repair to the basement, where a layer of chipped ice is laid in the cooler, then a layer of fruit, another layer of ice, another layer of fruit, and so on until the cooler is filled.

After the ice has melted somewhat and can be slushed around in the cooler, sample draughts are drawn. Everybody has a glass of punch and criticisms are offered. Sugar is added. There, that's better, as every one agrees except dad. He likes his lemonade sour, though, so no wonder he thinks the punch is too sweet.

And All Is Well.

Now, room having been made in the cooler for the large hunk of ice, it is put in and slushed around. The berries are so cold that they pop when you bite into them. The sides of the cooler grow beautifully beady. My mother, being slightly on the prim side, remarks that the cooler is "perspiring" and all's well with the punch.

Shining and magnificent, the punch bowl is brought out of the ice box, where it has been chilling. It's a wedding present, so we handle it gently. Another hunk of ice is laid into it and punch is ladled over this hunk until the bowl is full. The boys and girls—and some of their parents—are arriving. The Japanese lanterns are lighted, making a swaying fairyland of our lawn, our garden, and even the familiar house. And in the basement a couple of youngsters are drinking the coldest punch you ever saw—out of a dipper!

PRICE OF CASHEW NUTS CUT WITH INCREASED SALE

5,000,000 Lbs. Consumed Here Yearly.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

With the great increase in the sale of the cashew nut in the last three years the price of this product has been cut in half.

The cashew really is not a nut, being the seed of the mango tree. Millions of acres along the coast of India as well as large areas in the West Indies and in eastern Africa are covered by wild growths of the mango. The trees average ten feet, but many are 25 to 30 feet in height.

Natives consume the cashew in tremendous quantities. The seed provides a concentrated food, having some of the minerals and proteins essential to health.

Shipping Once Difficult.

Three years ago some cashews were being imported from India for consumption in the United States. The quantity was negligible, for they were hard to handle so as to prevent spoilage, the trip was long and the cost was high. Retail prices were from 75 cents a pound up. An increasing popularity was answered by developing better handling methods.

Now the cashews are picked in clusters by the natives. Plants in India soften the shell and peel and blanch the seed. Then they are ready for sale. If they are to be exported the cashews are packed in tins containing 25 pounds, carbon dioxide is forced into the can and it is sealed for shipment.

The Cochel and Quilion cashews are classed by brokers as the finest produced, having uniformity of size, good flavor, and a white exterior.

5,000,000 Pounds a Year.

Chicago consumes nearly five million pounds of the cashews in a year and brokers here handle for adjacent markets enough more to make a total of almost 23 million pounds, or about 1,000 carloads annually. The retail price for good quality nutmeats of this type is 40 to 50 cents a pound.

The cashews come in cases containing two of the 25 pound tins. The tops of the tins are taken off and the contents poured into a sieve to take out broken pieces and small crumbs. Then the sieveful is put in a wire container which is immersed in a kettle of hot oil for a number of minutes. This boiling in oil has the same purpose as roasting. Salt is applied immediately after the nutmeats are taken out of the oil so that sufficient salt is drawn into the nutmeat to add to the flavor.

The cashew may be eaten raw, but most people prefer those subjected to the oil treatment, because the process emphasizes the flavor.

Cashews Good Raw or Roasted

Comparison of the roasted cashews, held in a tray, with the imported raw cashews, dumped into a sieve, is being made by Louis Franceschi of Ricci & Co., West Superior street importers and salters. The roasted nut meats are brown in color, while the blanched raw cashews are, preferably, snow white.

Japanese Brides Change Gowns 15 Times at Wedding Feast

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

How would you like to wear fifteen different gowns at your own wedding dinner?

No doubt most of us would take the plunge just to see how it felt to own that many cunningly calculated outfits all at once. But to any almond eyed bride of Japan, such a barrage of quick changes is quite the expected thing, according to Mr. Chara Harada, manager of the New Grand hotel of Yokohama, receiving guests at the Palmer house. Mr. Harada, accompanied by his Swiss chef, Mr. S. Well, breezed into town last week on a tour of the leading hotels of the United States, and paused long enough in his studies of the Palmer House cuisine enthusiastically to vouch for the delights of Japanese cookery—and to explain to us about those wedding gowns.

Most Pleasant Arrangement.

In Japan, it seems, the wedding feast resolves itself into simply a most pleasant arrangement for displaying the trousseau. Little Miss Newly Wed and her guests—of which there may be 25 to 500, depending on how papa's business ventures have been going—embark on the soup course. Half way through, in response to some signal we missed, the bride exits in gorgeous kimono No. 1, and reappears two minutes later in sumptuous kimono No. 2—and finishes her soup.

Conversation is just going well again, and the course of cold lobster and mayonnaise and of hot tai fish is nicely under way, when we miss the bride—who arrives immediately in charming kimmy No. 3. This in turn holds its own only until the arrival of the fillet of beef.

More kimonos—turkey.

More kimonos—vegetable salad.

More kimonos—ice cream, served in startling red and white and molded in the form of the sacrificial mountain, Fuji. This last note has its touching side. But for such an hour of sortorial triumph, woman will sacrifice much.

Gesture Toward Good Cheer.

Tea and saké [the Japanese gesture toward good cheer] call for the final flourish and the most devastating kimono—and the charming parade is ended among the gallant remarks of the gentlemen and the emerald envy of the ladies.

"But what is it the Japanese eat of an ordinary day? Something the American housewife can serve? Ah—Sukiyaki, most certainly! It is a most elegant dish—like this." And with a practiced pencil Mr. Harada drew a round table, while Mr. Well prompted.

"In the Japanese custom most foods they eat on tables not a foot high. Big round. But for Sukiyaki party use 'nother table . . . one with hole in the middle. In hole sits charcoal burner and kettle. Americans use grill or chafing dish as good. Everybody sits around table with bowl of rice, little cup of raw egg, little cup of pickles and cup of tea by him. In kettle is hot soy [a typical Japanese highly flavored sauce.]

"Around the kettle—dishes. One of beef, chicken or fish sliced very thin and large, others of onions, celery, turnips and more vegetables all sliced and cooked. The one who serves puts meat, onions . . . all kinds of vegetables . . . into the pan of soy. Cook three . . . four minutes. Everybody help himself with chopsticks . . . onto his plate. Sometimes each piece goes into raw egg before eating. Ah—what a dish!

Chaplin Likes Sukiyaki.

"One Sukiyaki party you will find on shipboard when you go to Europe. Your Charlie Chaplin thinks Sukiyaki is great stuff. Lots American ladies now have Sukiyaki parties for friends in this country."

"Sushi," prompted the smiling chef. And then we heard about another popular Japanese dish which starts from the bottom and builds up. First comes a thin layer of "nori," a sea plant . . . next a layer of dry rice . . . then an omelet browned to perfection and finally a layer of your choice of cut fish or vegetables.

Another Soup Favorite.

Another after soup favorite—and our host assured us that soup was the correct opening for each meal of the day—is Hamayaki, or literally, sea baked. The practiced Japanese cook cleans a good husky fish and lays it upon a one-inch layer of salt in a good sized baking pan. On top goes another inch blanket of salt, and the whole goes into a good hot oven to cook through and take on what we were assured would be a perfect crusty brown in less than half an hour.

"Tell the ladies to try it—this salt baking for fish." Mr. Harada advised as he ushered us out. "The salt you can use again and again. And the fish tastes—ah, you should know!"

NOW IS TIME TO CAN VEGETABLES FOR NEXT WINTER

Vegetables for soups and stews for next winter's menus may be canned to advantage in the next few weeks while garden foods are plentiful and low in cost.

Carrots, string beans, corn, okra and peas may be canned together, says Miss Helen Swinney, Iowa State college nutrition expert. If tomato juice is used for the liquid to cover these products they should be processed for only two hours. Otherwise the processing time is three hours.

If onion, cabbage, kohlrabi, or turnips are desired in the soup or stew, they should be added when the dish is prepared for serving. After preparing the vegetables for canning, bring them to a boil, place them in hot sterilized jars which are standing in hot water, add one teaspoonful of salt to each quart and allow the containers to stand a few minutes in boiling water to drive out air. A tight seal is then made, except in the case of the boil top jar, which is only partially sealed.

A combination of corn and tomatoes may be canned and used in a variety of ways.

Household Hints

Apple meringue is a pleasing substitute for whipped cream. Grate an apple, add two or three tablespoons of sugar, and beat with the white of one egg until it is light.

Oilcloth wears much longer if the table is first padded smoothly with newspapers.

The darkness of closets that have no windows is greatly relieved by painting walls and woodwork white. The same method used with bureau drawers also saves white paper and makes cleaning easy.

FARMERS GROW LESS POPCORN, SURVEY SHOWS

Can it be that popcorn is losing its popularity among those who gather about for an enjoyable evening's entertainment? Or has the street vendor found ice cream bars more to the liking of the populace?

At any rate the very low returns which farmers have received for their popcorn in recent years have caused a marked decline in the amount of this crop being grown, according to surveys made in Iowa, which produces more popcorn than any other state.

In 1930 assessors reported 41,186 acres in popcorn in the "tall corn" state. Last year this was reduced to but 19,351 acres, only 47 per cent of the 1930 acreage. This year early estimates place the 1932 acreage at 10,000 acres, almost another 50 per cent reduction. In two years the popcorn growers have returned to about their 1922 production in Iowa, which was 9,798 acres.

From the 10,000 acres in Iowa this year it is estimated that popcorn growers still will find ample eating material in a total yield of 14 million pounds. The yield in 1931 was 23,850,389 pounds.

SING LUN'S SOUP SOMETHING NEW; HERE'S HIS RECIPE

His Fresh Fruit Dessert Also Has Lure.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

It is a potent power the little sweet scented winds of the summertime have—drifting in through the windows of his kitchen sanctum—to fan into flame the spark of artistry in the soul of Sing Lun, the cook.

An island of impregnable calm in the midst of a noisy young bedlam is Lun's kitchen, as inaccessible to the uninvited as ever a feudal stronghold was. But though the force of the unwritten law that guards Lun's domain from invasion is great, a neat green and white sign suspended above the doorway makes assurance doubly sure.

Lun Works His Magic.

It was appropriated, if the hilarious testimony of an amateur young sleuth guilty of shameless snoopery is accepted, in the dark of the moon from the lawn of a neighboring parkway. Be that as it may, certainly Lun's sign commands attention, and no more solemn and appreciative could be the little blinks and nods of approval it elicits from him who hung it were its legend—requesting all and sundry to "Keep Off the Grass"—golden words of wisdom from an ancient oracle of the Flowery kingdom.

Three times daily, with unfailing regularity, a white-coated, pigtailed, beaming embodiment of naïve self-satisfaction emerges from Lun's kitchen to serve correct and irreproachably executed breakfasts, luncheons and dinners. A flawless technique has Sing Lun.

But there comes a time in the course of the seasons when the excellence of Lun's craftsmanship blossoms into high art. Laden with inspiration for Sing Lun are the breezes that beat through the air like perfumed wings sweet with the fragrance of sunny snapdragon and rush bordered streams, willowy glades, and flowering hedges. Then it is that Sing Lun, most bland and equanimous Lun, the magician, who can pour glamour into a consommé cup and into a tall glass, enchantment.

Here's How He Does It.

Out of the realm of prosaic concoctions, one of the first to emerge is soup, transformed, cool and intriguing. With fruit juices substituted for cabbages and carrots, this is the way Lun works soup witchery:

Two tablespoons of cornstarch in a cup of water—these are boiled until the starch is tender; water is added from time to time to compensate for evaporation. Into the soup pot, to be boiled for 10 or 15 minutes, pour four cups of cider [or strawberry, currant, raspberry or grape juice], an equal amount of water, a cup of claret [or orange or lemon juice], and a half cup of sugar.

When they have cooked sufficiently the cornstarch is added, and the mixture is permitted to boil up again. Then very carefully, very gradually, the soup is pored over a well beaten egg yolk. The soup must be chilled before serving.

Something to contemplate with pleasurable anticipation and to think back upon with deep and abiding satisfaction is Lun's cheese salad, frozen in the tray of the mechanical refrigerator. To make it, soften a tablespoon of gelatine in half a cup of cold water. Add a fourth of a teaspoon of salt and a cup of boiling water. When partially congealed, beat the mixture to a froth. Then fold in a half pound of finely grated cheese, chopped nut meats, sliced stuffed olives, two tablespoons of minced green peppers, four tablespoons of thinly cut pimientos, and lastly fold in a cup and a half of whipped cream. When frozen, serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Fresh Fruit Dessert.

An unfailing lure for languishing appetites is a fresh fruit dessert which Lun makes by halving chilled cantaloupes and filling the seeded centers with cubes of fresh pineapple and orange. Over the pineapple and orange fresh raspberries, crushed and sweetened, are poured.

One of his favorite drinks is a combination of coffee and raspberry juice. A cup of cream, two eggs, and a pinch of salt are beaten together. Into these are poured a cup of raspberry juice, the juices of half an orange and half a lemon, and four cups of sweetened strong coffee. When strained, iced and ready to serve, a spoon of whipped cream mixed with crushed berries tops each glass.

THERE ARE MANY WAYS TO PREPARE COTTAGE CHEESE

It's Good in Sandwich, Salad or Loaf.

The housewife seeking tasty and nutritious warm weather luncheon or supper ideas will find cottage cheese a readily adaptable food for salads, sandwiches or to be cooked into a loaf as a more sizable entrée.

In salads cottage cheese, which is made from skim milk and therefore has most of the fat removed, may be used with fresh sliced or canned pears, peaches, prunes, pineapple, apricots, or tomatoes. Green peppers stuffed with cottage cheese and served on crisp lettuce with sliced tomatoes make an attractive and nourishing salad combination.

Among the popular sandwich fillings made with cottage cheese are those made with chopped parsley, celery, pickles, or olives. A tart conserve or jelly on a layer of cheese also is tasty.

Cottage cheese loaf, used for the main dish, is made by mixing one cup of cooked kidney beans, one cup cottage cheese, one-half cup ground peanuts, one cup bread crumbs, one cup boiled rice, one tablespoon chopped onion, one tablespoon of savory fat or drippings.

Form this mixture into a roll, brush it over with one cup tomato sauce, salt and pepper and melted fat. Bake in a slow oven for 35 minutes and serve with a medium thick white sauce to which has been added two tablespoons of minced sweet red pepper.

Pork Chops and Roasts Economical Buys Now

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers the committee on marketing information of the meat council of Chicago states: "The fresh cuts of pork represent the most economical meat buys over the coming week-end. Pork chops which can be prepared in a short time in the kitchen, loin and shoulder roasts, which can be served cold attractively, and spare ribs are selling at unusually low prices in Chicago retail meat stores."

BAR-LE-DUCS ARE TOPIC OF FOOD EDITOR TODAY

BY MARY MEADE.

Do you remember—a good many years ago—watching, fascinated, as your grandmother, armed with a pair of embroidery scissors and a sharp needle, picked seeds one by one out of big fat gooseberries in preparation for a wonderful concoction she said would be gooseberry bar-le-duc?

Some of you do, for I've already had requests for this delicious but time consuming berry conserve. And in hunting through my files I discover that there are bar-le-ducs and bar-le-ducs—and not all gooseberry ones or de-seeded ones, either. For the name refers to an elegant variety of conserve in which each fruit is preserved intact and floats in all its plump self-sufficiency in clear, jellied sugar sirup, honey, or heavy fruit juice. Both gooseberries and currants may be prepared in this way. This first recipe is typically grandmother's. Personally, as to the embroidery scissors and sharp needle—pray have me excused!

Gooseberry Bar-le-Duc.

With the aid of fine embroidery scissors, slit large gooseberries, one by one, making a one-fourth inch cut on one side of each. Now, with a sharp needle carefully remove the seeds one at a time, avoiding injuring the shape of the berries. Weigh the seeded fruit, take that weight in liquid honey and heat. When hot, add the gooseberries and cook gently five minutes. Remove the berries carefully and slowly cook the honey sirup until heavy as desired. Place the berries in small jelly glasses and pour the honey over them. Seal with hot paraffin and store in a cool, dry place.

Or nimble currants may take on airs and give us a bar-le-duc with a combination of whole fruit and fruit juice.

Currant Bar-le-Duc.

Simmer two quarts of crushed red currants until soft. Place in a jelly bag and drip to extract juice. Measure the juice and take an equal amount of whole, large currants, either red or white. Slit each with a needle down one side and extract the seeds. Boil the juice eight minutes and add the same measure of sugar as there was originally of juice. Cook six minutes, then drop in the prepared currants and cook six minutes longer. Now add the same amount of sugar as was added before and bring quickly to a boil. As soon as the sugar is dissolved test for jelly. This is shown if a few drops sheet or break from the edge of the spoon when slightly cooled, or if they set when dropped on a cold saucer. When this point is reached, pour at once into jelly glass and seal with melted paraffin.

And now we cease extractions and discover a simple bar-le-duc that lets the eater, not the cook, worry about seeds.

Gooseberry Jam.

But if you are more wedded to jams than preserves, a combination gooseberry and currant jam should hit the right spot. This calls for two pounds of ripe gooseberries. Crush thoroughly and place in a large kettle with one-half cup of water. Heat, stirring constantly, until the mixture boils, then lower the heat, cover and simmer twenty minutes. Add seven and one-half cups of sugar and stir till dissolved. Bring to a full boil over a hot flame and cook one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire and stir in quickly one-half cup of commercial fruit pectin. Skim and pour at once into jelly glasses. Seal with hot paraffin.

"Ivory For All Soap Purposes" Say Women Now

Stores Report Country-Wide Record-Breaking Sales of Ivory at New Low Prices

(Special Dispatch)

CINCINNATI, O., July 20—Recent reduction of prices for Ivory Soap to the 1915 level has brought a flood of letters and telegrams from every state in the Union to the Procter & Gamble offices here, giving sensational evidence that Ivory sales are beating all records.

From Syracuse comes word that women are no longer buying Ivory one or two cakes at a time, but by the dozen and half dozen. New York says stores with the largest stocks of Ivory two weeks ago are pressing for new supplies. In Omaha, Ivory Soap is beating every previous record ten to one. A wire from Boston says, "Customers who formerly used Ivory only for toilet and bath now using it for all laundry work and dishes because of its economy at new low prices." San Francisco sends word that the use of Ivory for all soap purposes is spreading up and down the coast.

Now priced so low you can use IVORY for EVERYTHING

Birth Rate in America Falls to Record Low

But Fewer Babies Die During First Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—The birth rate in the United States dropped during 1931 to the lowest point it has reached since the establishment of birth registration in this country nearly seventeen years ago, according to statistics made public today by the bureau of the census.

At the same time, the bureau reported, the infant mortality rate showed a continued decline in the year, dropping to its lowest level since such statistics have been systematically compiled. During the year the infant death rate was 61.7 for every 1,000 live births, as compared with a rate of 64.7 in 1930.

The birth rate for the country in 1931 was 17.8 for every 1,000 of population, according to the bureau's report. In 1930 the rate was 18.9. The 1931 birth rate in Illinois was 15.4, compared with 16.7 in 1930.

The total number of children born in this country during last year was 2,084,443, as compared with 2,191,012 in the preceding year.

Of the more than two million born in 1931, 126,645 died in their first year of life, while in 1930 the number reached 141,670.

The registration area on which the bureau's report was based includes all except two states and comprises 94.7 per cent of the total population of the country.

In the rural part of this registration area the birth rate and infant mortality rates were higher than in the urban section, the report showed, while the still birth rate was lower. The rural section had a population of 59,338,000, while the urban section had a population of 57,560,000.

In the city area the birth rate was 17.5 per 1,000 of population; the infant mortality rate was 60.8 per 1,000 births, and the still birth rate was 4 for every 100 live births.

In the rural area the birth rate was 18.2; the infant mortality rate 62.0; and the still birth rate 3.7.

The highest infant mortality rates were reported in New Mexico with a rate of 125.8 and in Arizona, where the rate was 111.3. They were the only states in which the rate was higher than 100. Four states, Colorado, Delaware, Maryland and South Carolina, had infant death rates between 80 and 90 and five states reported rates between 70 and 80.

The lowest infant death rate was reported in Iowa, 40.4. Four other states had rates from 44 to 50, while the remaining rates ranged from 50 to 70.

"The greatest number of births," the census bureau said, "naturally occurred in the most populous states of New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Ohio, but the highest birth rates were in New Mexico [28.4], North Carolina [23.0], and Alabama [22.9]. The fewest number of birth occurred in Nevada [1,215], and this state also had the lowest birth rate of 13.2."

The infant death rate in Illinois increased during the year to 58.6 per 1,000 of population, as compared with a 1930 rate of 55.8. During the year there were 118,788 children born in the state.

In the Chicago registration area the infant mortality rate likewise increased while the birth rate decreased. In 1931 the death rate was 56.3, as compared with 53.6 in the preceding year, while the birth rate was 15.3, as against 17.1 in 1930.

Sara Levee Presents an Attractive Piano Recital Despite Heat

Sara Levee defied heat yesterday morning to put on a bright, alert, and altogether attractive piano recital at the Punch and Judy theater, one of the attractions in the Chicago Musical college summer artist series.

Miss Levee has good pianistic hands and a good pianistic brain. Whether she confronted the broad dignity of the Franck Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue, or the brilliant, tricky traceries of Moritz Rosenthal's "Papillons," she was equally at home, equally logical and persuasive. Other works by Bach, Brahms, and Debussy made up the first part of her recital, and she closed with another work of large proportions, Chopin's Sonata in B minor.

The second concert by Cavallo's band, postponed because of rain from last week, will be played in the shell in Grant park this evening with the program announced for last week. At this time 25,000 cards will be distributed by George F. Carroll, secretary of the organization, to initiate a permanent group of sponsors to provide free music for Chicago. Representatives of seventy-five musical organizations will be present to coöperate in forming an organization to continue the concerts through the summer and fall. E. M.

Gifts to Free Ice Fund Set Season Record

Some of Checks Sent from Distant Cities.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Despite the hot weather and the resultant urgent demands for ice, cheer abounded at the office of THE TRIBUNE Free Ice fund yesterday, following receipt of donations totaling $137—the largest the fund has received in a day in this most trying season.

There was one gift of $25, several for $10, and numerous smaller ones. It was significant that they were not all from Chicago, for the Free Ice fund has long attracted friends and contributors from far places as well as near. One check arrived from Marion, Mass. Another as postmarked Granville, O.

A 75 year old grandmother poured out her troubles in a letter arriving in the same mail as the generous checks. Her only son lost his position because of heart trouble months ago. They receive food from a relief station, but the invalid, who must take medicine in milk, suffers when lack of ice sours the milk, and his son, 12 years old, is unable to help.

This is the sort of home to which the Free Ice fund carries relief and encouragement.

One of the checks yesterday was for $3. It represented the income from the "Mickey Mouse lemonade stand." The small proprietors are Barbara and Connie Torque, Frances McFarland, Robert Caine, and Ruth Barquist. They hope to send another donation later. That's why the ice fund staff was happy yesterday. Here are the donors:

$25—A. E. Trun, Ashland, Wis.
$10—Mrs. Norman S. Florsheim, Evelyn D. Posey, David B. and Carl W. Stern, anonymous, Patsy Wildes.
$5—Virginia D. Jeffery, Marion, Mass.; Mrs. Julia Grant Miller, Geneva L. Wood, Mrs. S. M. Lederer, S. M. R., Ida E. Fisher, Mrs. W. G. Jameson, Esther Marhoefer.
$3—Marie L. Straub, Mickey Mouse lemonade stand.

Total $137.00
Previously acknowledged 770.59

Grand total $907.59

Another fine record was made by the Camp Algonquin fund, which received several large checks, as follows:

$50—A. E. Trun, Ashland, Wis.
$20—Anonymous, Milwaukee, Wis.
$10—Mrs. Norman S. Florsheim.
$ 5—Esther Marhoefer.
$ 2—S. A. Goldman.

Total ..... $ 87.00
Previously acknowledged 1,674.58

Grand total $1,761.58

Checks or money orders intended for either fund should be addressed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE. All donations are listed in these columns.

A contingent of mothers and children left for Camp Algonquin, on the Fox river, yesterday to enjoy the free outing provided by the camp fund.

You can fool a hen with a white doorknob.

You can fool a mallard with a wooden duck.

But you can't fool a want advertiser about results.

Either he gets them or he does not, and he governs his advertising according to experience.

Chicago want advertisers have found that the Tribune gets results for them better than any other newspaper.

When they want to sell a house or a motor car, rent an apartment or an office, trade a building lot for a diamond ring, they depend on the Tribune to do it.

For more than twenty years they have bought more want advertising in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

During the first six months of this year they bought 77.9% more want advertising in the Tribune than in any other newspaper.

They wouldn't invest their money in the Tribune unless they knew it paid out better.

With more circulation than the News and Examiner combined, with more than the American, Post and Times combined, the Chicago Daily Tribune produces results for want advertisers as no other Chicago newspaper can!

Critics Acclaim 'Tale of Genji' as Masterpiece

Fourth Volume Ends Story; Sequel Awaited.

"Lady of the Boat," by Lady Murasaki. [Houghton-Mifflin.]

WITH the fourth volume, "Blue Trousers," Lady Murasaki's famous Japanese novel, "The Tale of Genji," came to an end. The other three sections in order were "The Tale of Genji," "The Sacred Tree," and "The Wreath of Cloud." This novel of medieval Japan has been universally acclaimed by critics and is considered one of the literary masterpieces of the world. The main character in these volumes is Genji, an imaginary prince living about the time of the author's childhood, 980 A. D. His various adventures, his love affairs, his exile and his return, his gay, enchanting personality furnished Lady Murasaki with the opportunity of creating not only a vivid and real character but a memorable and historical interpretation of an era in which she lived and about which she was remarkably disinterested.

"The Lady of the Boat" continues the story after the death of Genji, though his death is neither described in this volume nor in the last, "Blue Trousers." The two main characters are Kaoru, supposedly the son of Genji but actually the son of Genji's wife by her lover, and Niou, Genji's legitimate grandson. These two young men, between 14 and 16 years of age at the opening of the story, are not at all similar in either ambition or temperament. Niou is more like his famous grandfather, gay, lighthearted, and the despair of his adoring women. Kaoru, on the other hand, scorns the frivolous court life, evades all the plans of eager dowagers, turns his thoughts to the other world and anxiously contemplates the possibility of retiring to a monastery.

Prince Hachi, a half-brother of Genji and a defeated pretender to the throne, has retired to a desolate and primitive country house where he lives with his two motherless daughters. In Kaoru's eagerness to pursue the holy life he meets Prince Hachi, who is himself a serious student of the scriptures. After many months of friendship he meets the Prince's talented and beautiful daughters. So eager is Kaoru to win Agemaki, the elder, that he introduces his friend and rival, Niou, to the younger daughter, Kozeri.

This introduction is the beginning of complications, confusion and genuine tragedy that are not resolved even at the end of the book. When Niou treats Kozeri in the way a man of his character and position is forced to treat her, when Kaoru is deprived of his dream of love and slowly shifts his vision to another who loves Niou, when, in other words, the story is changing one set of complications for another and when the last page is reached, the author introduces Ukifune by name and by tantalizing description. It is evident that she and her half sister, Kozeri, will in the sequel be as important in the action as Niou and Kaoru.

"The Lady of the Boat" has a magic about it that cannot be adequately described. The quaintness of the characters, the curious customs of court life, the exquisite finished style [which is made obvious to the reader by the superb translation of Arthur Waley], the fantastic and almost fairylike delicacy of the scenes, the penetrating transcription of the psychology of the times, all are elements in this magic. Kaoru, who has a natural fragrance about him that is the envy of all the court dandies who spray themselves with the most costly perfumes and still smell less sweet than Kaoru, the young maidens who chat with their loved ones only when protected from their daring gaze by partitions and screens, the charming custom, which was the real test of refinement and breeding, of reciting impromptu poetry to one another, no matter what the occasion or who the friends, the "next morning" letter which every beau sent to his beloved after he had called on her the night before, the lavishness of the court ceremonies, the laxity in morals in the circles where money and leisure dominate, these flashes of life and love in medieval Japan are among many others equally enchanting, imprinted upon the reader's imagination in much the same manner that a beautiful Japanese print defies forgetfulness, with precision, graciousness, and exquisite sureness.

Behind what might seem to the reader a finished but superficial picture of medieval Japan, wherein much time and attention are devoted to a delicate perception and understanding of the outer aspects of life in a fascinating imperial court, lies a real flesh and blood story. Each character on closer examination is individualized and extremely real, and each one acts in accordance with his characterization. As far as it is possible to determine there is not a false psychological note in the whole book. The sequel will be awaited with eagerness, as it will probably possess the same qualities of reality and romance, shrewd psychology, and masterful technique.

Laflins Visit Marine Who Became King

Wedding Trip Leads to Romantic Island Domain.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

When Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ellsworth Laflin return to Lake Forest some time next month from a wedding trip to Haiti, a king or at least an ex-king may be enumerated among their several hosts and hostesses.

News that Mr. and Mrs. Laflin [the former June Kennedy of Pittsburgh] are spending several weeks on the island in the Caribbean recalls Mr. Laflin's interesting acquaintance with Faustin Wirkus, better known, perhaps, as "The White King of La Gonave," the title given his novel. It also brings to mind the fact that Mr. Wirkus left the United States the middle of June to spend another indefinite period in his island kingdom.

The report is that he has sold the rights to his book to one of Hollywood's large motion picture producers and is to be on hand for the filming of a picture that will be seen at some later date. But however this may be, he is in the West Indies now to give Mr. and Mrs. Laflin a personal introduction to the enchanting island of La Gonave.

It scarcely seems necessary to repeat the story of Faustin Wirkus, the blond Yankee who outside his kingdom was known as a corking good sergeant of the marines, within his coral reefs an emperor ruling imperially over 10,000 black men. Yet there are those who have missed it.

Faustin II., to give him his royal title, was born in a little mining town in Pennsylvania. His Polish mother christened him Faustin after one of her favorite saints. At the age of 17, tired of picking slate out of the Wilkesbarre coal chutes, he ran away, joined the marines, and set out to see the world.

He was sent to Haiti with a detachment of rookie marines and it was as he was steaming into the harbor of Point-au-Prince that he first became conscious of the little tropical island of La Gonave. The sergeant he questioned did not give it an alluring description. "That's a place you'll never get closer to than you are now, if you're lucky," he said.

But Faustin was interested in La Gonave. Whenever possible in the years that followed, he visited the island. Then, finally when his chance came, he asked to be transferred there as a subdistrict commander. Thus the drama unfolded to fulfill a prophecy—a prophecy that Emperor Faustin I. would be miraculously restored to his people. For in this young sergeant the black Queen Ti Memenne recognized the reincarnation of the first Faustin and crowned him king of La Gonave.

Here Faustin II. ruled, dictating in matters of crop cultivation and community health, even offering advice in the care of children. But there was one difficulty. He became famous and somehow it just doesn't behoove a sergeant of the marines to become famous. After three years as the ruling monarch, he was transferred back to Haiti "for the good of the service." This was followed a year ago last spring by his retirement from the marines and return to the United States—not, however, without a promise to Queen Ti Memenne that he would some day return to La Gonave.

It was last November that Mr. Laflin met King Faustin after a correspondence extending over several months, showed him Chicago's sights, and entertained him at his Lake Forest home.

Best of all the stories he told, friends who were privileged to meet him still agree, was the description of the crown that made him king.

The most unusual crown no doubt a king has ever borne. King Faustin wore it only once, and that for his coronation. But he may don it again on this visit at the request of Queen Ti Memenne or the Laflins. Who can tell?

Thos. Taylors Fly in Storm to California

Friends Here Learn of Their Adventures on Way.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FLYING to the Pacific coast still is uncommon enough to be exciting, most of us think, and when the trip is enlivened by a storm bad enough to prevent a regular landing for provisions, and by the loss of a pocketbook, the trip really becomes a thrilling adventure, something "to write home about," doesn't it? The Hubbard Carpenters and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Noyes and a few other friends said good-by and "God-speed" to the Thomas Taylors the other day at the municipal airport here, and off the Taylors flew for San Francisco.

Elko, Nev., is the regular landing place for provisions, but a howling storm made it unwise to attempt a landing there, so on to Reno the plane flew. After a successful landing and takeoff at Reno, Mrs. Taylor discovered that her pocketbook was missing and so the search was on. When it was certain that it had not been mislaid in the airplane, a radiogram was sent back to Reno and in a short time the reassuring answer came, "Purse found in station restaurant."

In spite of the time lost in trying to make a landing at Elko, the trip was made in 45 minutes less than scheduled time, the Taylors having left here at 5:30 one afternoon and having reached San Francisco at 1 p. m. the next day. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor visited her sister, Mrs. Harold O. Crane, in San Francisco, and then went on to their own California residence at Carmel-by-the-sea for the rest of the summer.

Two Crashes Upset Party for Stillman.

An airplane mishap, or rather two such mishaps, caused an upset in the plans of the group of young people in Barrington and Lake Forest who were planning to entertain Alexander Stillman last night and the party of the Samuel N. Rinakers and their daughter, Miss Marjorie Horton, were giving for him had to be called off. Young Mr. Stillman and his mother, Mrs. Fowler McCormick, both received minor injuries Wednesday night. Alexander's airplane crashed near Gary, and the airplane in which she was rushing to her son crashed on land at Lansing, Ill., not far from Gary. Young Stillman still is in Mercy hospital at Gary and will be there for several days more, which probably will mean that some of his friends will be motoring down to see h' . if the doctor's orders aren't "no visitors." He had expected to leave the first of the week for California, where he is going for the Olympic games, but the accident will delay his departure a bit. Mrs. McCormick spent Wednesday night in the hospital, but left there yesterday and is in town at her Drake Towers apartment now, to be within easier motoring distance of Gary than her Barrington residence. Alexander Stillman spent the Christmas holidays from Harvard in Chicago last winter and was one of the popular beaux at all the parties given for the debutantes during the two or three weeks he was here.

High Temperatures Make Swimming Pools Popular.

There may be something that gives more pleasure to every member of a household or a club than a swimming pool, but in this weather I cannot think what it is. Old and young alike enjoy a cooling dip and wherever there is a pool you may be sure it is filled with swimmers all day and part of the night when the mercury reaches such heights as it has reached lately.

Out at the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest, where the club members and their children are in the pool from early morning until late at night, some of the "regulars" are the Leslie Wheelers, the "Jeff" Davies, the John Colemans, the "Billy" Watkins, the Lithgow Mitchells, the John Broeksmits, Mr. and Mrs. "Tom" Wells, just back from California by the way; the Robert McCrearys, the Philip Swifts, the Edward Bennetts, Rossmund Baker, Elizabeth Bunting, Betty Smith, Nancy Forgan, Mrs. Floyd Evans, Mrs. "Tom" Kelly, and Mrs. Hammond Sturgis.

Some of those who have pools on their own estates in Lake Forest and who are most generous and hospitable about inviting their friends to make use of them are the Arthur T. Aldises, the Walter S. Brewsters, the Robert J. Thornes, the Charles H. Schweppes, Mrs. Kersey C. Reed, and Mrs. John R. Thompson.

It will be just too bad for any man who is planning a game of golf at the Barrington Country club today, for the ladies take possession of the links to play in the club's annual women's invitation golf tournament. Between 12 and 20 of the best players from the Skokie, Evanston, North Shore, Glenview, Exmoor, Indian Hill, Briargate, and Knollwood clubs will ge out to Barrington for luncheon and a fine golfing contest.

Chicago Golf Club's Wheaton Pool Popular.

A popular club pool west of Chicago is the one at the Chicago Golf club in Wheaton, and among those who frequently are seen there these warm days are Mr. and Mrs. John Jay Abbott, the Niblack Thornes, Jarvis Hunt Jr., Miss Betty Offield, the Allan Jacksons, Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Couch, the junior Edward N. Hurleys, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III. Yesterday Mrs. Harold N. Scott, Mrs. John D. Black, Mrs. John D. Cady and Mrs. Henry R. Gross were at the pool, but they were not swimming, only enjoying a game of bridge beside the pool.

About 150 reservations have been made for the dinner dance the Tavern is giving this evening for its summer guest members. There will be dancing on the boat deck, where, to quote Secretary Charles Collins, "the lake breeze flirts coolly with the stars, and the moon, more or less full, will stand over the Mather tower like a lustrous dot over a cyclopean i." Magic Thrills 100 Winners at Uptown Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Yesterday afternoon might have been sizzling, sweltering, and all the other adjectives that go to describe the kind of weather we've been having, but my hundred young guests didn't mind it a bit. We were enjoying ourselves to the nth degree in the cool of the Publix-Balaban & Katz Uptown theater, where we had our regular Thursday party.

It was a party to be long remembered, too, for the program was one of those in which there wasn't a dull moment. From the time that irresistible Jimmy Cagney appeared in the ring of Madison Square Garden in his picture, "Winner Take All," until the great Thurston performed his last feat of magic we were simply spellbound.

Mr. Cagney, as the prize fighter who just couldn't keep out of trouble, was excellently cast. His fights in the ring might have been news reel shots of a championship bout so real were they, and those of us who are prize fight fans enjoyed them thoroughly. We were provoked at a number of things he did as Jimmy Kane, the lightweight, but everything turned out all right in the last reel, even to winning the championship, which he did in a very few minutes.

There were so many other features on the program that we thought Howard Thurston's act would never begin. It did, though, and lasted for almost sixty of the grandest minutes we've ever spent in the theater. Umbrellas and hats and birds and flowers were picked out of the official top hat at the magic touch of the conjurer. Women floated through space . . . women were sawed in halves and quarters . . . women were made to vanish in thin air. Magic fountains appeared in the most impossible places—at the tip of someone's finger, at the toe of a boot, on a toy dog's back, here, there, everywhere on the broad stage of the Uptown.

A large cage, occupied by another of Mr. Thurston's company, was suspended from the dome of the theater. The magician fired a gun and, presto! —the occupant disappears. Where she went no one except Thurston himself knows, for the cage was many feet from any of the walls, the ceiling or the floor of the theater. And so, this maze of magic continued until we were almost dizzy, and although we watched as closely as it is possible to watch and listened as intently as human ears would permit, we weren't able to fathom a single trick.

We were delighted, though, and when we filed out of the theater at the end of the program we decided unanimously that there's more fun in magic than anything else we could call to mind. You would have agreed with us, too, if you had been a guest at my party with the hundred boys and girls who had won invitations to it.

All-in-One That Covers Coolly Here at Last!

Singlette Takes Place of Numerous Garments.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

It takes, according to the best authorities, just one trial, just one wearing, so to speak, of the famous glove silk 1932 summer underlayers, to convince a skeptical shopper that it is all and lots more than it has been advertised. But it takes a delightfully long interlude in a shopping tour to look and approve all the many ingenious new ideas for summer coolness that these glove silk unmentionables assure.

If your usual supply of lingerie seems to stick tighter than ever before, and if too many underlayers ruin your disposition as well as slim silhouette, the first destination of a sensible buying expedition will be the shops where these cool things are displayed. Everything has been done for airiness and piu-perfect body comford. A terribly efficient model that with one well designed garment does away with three or even four pieces, depending upon your flair for discarding, is most appropriately called a singlette.

It cleverly takes the place of brassiere, corsets, shorts, and even a slip. The newest singlettes are fashioned of silk mesh, a mesh that certainly assures plenty of ventilation, with holes that are at least a quarter of an inch in diameter. This last word in meshed coolness adds a new feature—it has attached garters. What a find for wilting, weary, perspiring shoppers! Buy it, for the very modest sum printed on the pink tag, wear it in place of all the numerous layers that have been stifling you, and you'll be cool, and look it, for perhaps the first time this summer.

Look for the lovely lingerie made of that new hot weather material, called Milanese chiffon. Outward bound vacationists will swoop down on the displays of this silk with thankful gasps of pleasure.

Unusually attractive shorts are edged with lace, appliqued with satin circles, contrasted with bands of colored satin and some fetching laced effects achieved with narrow flesh tinted satin, ribbon laced over the hips. You can find models with fitted bands to wear under your most clinging gowns, you will see shorts with an elastic at the waist line, and others with an elastic just is back.

Besides being the world's coolest ideas for sticky shoppers, glove silk lingerie is or should be famous for the ease and skill it achieves in withstanding the usual disastrous effects of frequent soap and water. An appreciative owner tubs it casually and often, hangs it up to dry, and retrieves it the next morning as unwrinkled and fresh as when it left the shop. Such obliging stuff should be the choice of every fashion-wise and well groomed shopper. This lingerie that coolly covers but never clings is the answer to the panting thousands that are wailing for cool clothes.

Camera Clubs' Exhibit Opens at Art Institute

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Fourth Chicago International Photographic salon opened yesterday at the Art institute and is showing in the three last rooms in the east wing galleries. The exhibit is under the auspices of the Chicago Camera club, an organization which has done a great deal to promote the development of photography as a fine art. The Fort Dearborn Camera club is another society motivated by a similar purpose.

For one reason or another it is the Chicago Camera club of which the most is heard, and it is this club which has brought to the institute a progressively larger exhibition for the last four years. Starting with one room, it now embraces three. The time is not far distant when the merits of the camera will have banished paints from all approach to the institute while the photographic salon reigns.

In this summer's show there are a number of interesting pictures. The study of a woman's head in color is pointed out with pride by those in charge with the information that the young man who made it was paid $600 for the first print. That is the height of something, bringing color photography, for instance, immediately into the field of water color, where similar values are not fantastic.

It is the other prints, however, those in the customary limpid tones of sepia or gray, that claim our chief attention. Here are many worth while pictures. "Through the Screen," by Gordon Ludwig, has great charm. Godfrey Lundberg of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE staff shows a characteristic study in "River Traffic." George Henry High offers a superb interpretation of "A Genial Friend." W. Glenn Rider has a fascinating composition in "Hen House Blues." "The Ascetic," by Dr. Alfred E. Banks, is unusually delicate in treatment.

There are 210 prints exhibited and photographers from all over the world are represented. Fewer prints would have strengthened the character of the show. Too many are either pictures already seen or not particularly unusual in theme or treatment. The thrill of last year is missing, but one can say this is a meticulous, laborious, and honest recital of the development of photography and not be far wrong.

The exhibit will continue to Oct. 9.

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty young creature who summoned the doctor. Both men determine to help the plucky orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow, friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself. On the boat Doria meets David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal. Doria asks Gold to dine with her. They are joined by Pierce and Dorrance. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, stows away on the boat and threatens to disclose his identity unless Gold does as he bids. Pierce, who overhears Gip's threats, unknown to Gold, arranges to get him third class passage on condition he doesn't bother Gold. Dorrance offers Gold a position as his secretary on the Havana trip, which she gladly accepts.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

A MOOD OF MISCHIEF.

Doria Hathaway had needed all Dorrance's tact and diplomacy that afternoon. For it was plain to him what she intended him to do. He was to make Pierce jealous. All Dorrance's good humored sense vetoed this plan. He exchanged his usual air of homage for a pretty woman to one much more matter of fact; he was blank, if bland. And finding her a good place beside the boxing ring he was quite relieved to see the thin intent face of the ship's doctor near them in the throng.

"Elverton!"

Elverton lost no time in placing himself on the other side of Doria, as Dorrance observed.

"You like boxing?" Elverton asked her.

"I love it if it's good."

"I wonder why."

"I like sensation," she flung back.

She was in a mood of mischief, but not gayety. She wanted to dare, to taunt, to quarrell, to fling down some gage. Elverton took it up gently and composedly.

She saw a very slim, very young man executing an Argentine tango with remarkable perfection, solo, in a corner of the deck, while he clicked his fingers, castanet fashion; and a few giggling girls looked on.

"Are you indeed one of those women who live for sensations?"

"Why not? A series of sensations—that's life. That's all it is. The intervals between are just boredom."

"That's making a pretty poor thing of life."

"O, you say so, do you?" she laughed. "And what do you think life is?"

"Achievement."

"What are your achievements?" she mocked.

"Very little, according to your accounting," he answered equably. People came pushing in from behind and she felt an arm taut about her; not Dorrance's, but Elverton's. She did not know why, but the feel of his arm and his uniformed shoulder close against her, sobered her hectic humor for the time. For a moment she was like a cross child suddenly at peace. Then, maneuvering her into a comfortable vantage point, the doctor withdrew his arm.

"Here are the boxers," said Dorrance heartily.

The colored boy and the ship's steward faced each other in the ring and the easily pleased crowd of travelers roared encouragement.

Doria was not easily pleased; she was quickly bored, and could not share the two men's joyous interest in the bout. What she said about her liking for boxing was true; but she liked only the big exciting fights, to which she must be escorted, after a good dinner, by a creditable male, and in her most creditable clothes. She had little attention for the two men now sparring. And soon she plucked Dorrance's sleeve. "I don't care for this. It's dull. I'm going."

"O, I say!" He hesitated. "There's a better fight next; one of the stokers, and a fellow who is a professional. Shan't you wait?"

"No. I want to go back to have some tea."

"Will you—er—be all right?"

"Perfectly," she said slowly, understanding with real anger now that Dorrance wished to stay; that boxing—and such boxing!—was more to him at the moment than tete-a-tete tea with her. And her mood, that had been michievous before, flamed up again in her like tinder. "I'm going to have tea," she said to Elverton, and paused an instant to see what he would say.

He, too, had been intent on the boxing. His face looked younger, smiling, and it was not she who had brought the smile there! "O, are you?" he murmured. And for a moment his smile died as he looked down into her bright brown eyes. His look was scrutinizing and in it he revealed that he was making a decision. He was making a decision that this spoiled lady should go unspoiled just now as far as he was concerned. This decision cost him something, for unlike Dorrance, he would have given a good deal for a tete-a-tete tea with her. Doria knew that he was making this decision, and her heart faltered in its beating, absurdly. Then he said only: "Let me get you out," and she was out of the surging onlookers, alone; and very angry, indeed.

First and bitterest, Barney; then Dorrance; then Elverton. All these men, wittingly and unwittingly, had made her see, this afternoon, that he whims were not commands to be undeviatingly obeyed. And as she made her way across the third class deck she had a sudden unaccountable pang over Elverton. Barney mattered most, of course—of course!—but all the same, if Elverton were with her now she would gain once more that mysterious sense of peace that his protecting arm had given her a few minutes ago; that peace at the need of which no one would have scoffed more heartily than herself. "When have I ever wanted peace?" she would have cried scornfully and gayly.

But now there were tears in her eyes, and had she been asked which man had brought them there, she would hardly have known.

The tears angered her more. "Gosh! I'm a fool?" she thought.

Then it happened very suddenly, her first sight of Gip Alen. She saw a very slim, very young man executing an Argentine tango with remarkable perfection, solo, in a corner of the deck, while he clicked his fingers, castanet fashion, and a few giggling girls looked on.

Doria stopped.

He was a beautiful young man, bareheaded; his hair was a bright gold; his profile, she said to herself, "a dream." His dancing was a dream, too. And in that very first moment Doria conceived the idea of "showing" Barney Pierce, Dorrance, and yes, Elverton. "I'll show them?" she thought. Then she saw that the young man, while still dancing, watched her.

She waited till he had finished—which he did quickly—when she knew that he would leave his admiring girls, and come to her. When he stood before her, graceless and debonair, languid and rather girlish, she said:

"I must dance with you. It's one of those things that just can't be helped. What's your name?"

"Gip Alen."

"'Gip Alen'," she echoed. His voice was fastidious, pleasing. She looked him over; gray flannels, old and shabby and not too clean, but worn with what a grace!

"I'm Mrs. Hathaway," she stated, "I dine up in the gallery of the Louis Quinze restaurant. Come and dine with me tonight, and I'll order a table for two. Afterwards we'll dance! We'll give an exhibition!"

"It would be wonderful."

He looked so young and gay, reckless and beautiful, that—apart from the wish to "show" Barney Pierce, Dorrance, and the doctor—Doria was in love with the mere idea of dancing with him that night. She had told Elverton that she liked sensation; they would make one!

"I suppose they'll let you through, or shall I try to arrange?" she asked.

"Just tell me where to be, and I shall be there."

He said this with a slight swagger that she found charming. And she thought swiftly of the exact moment; exact entry that she wished to make. She would tell Gold to let the men know that she would be late for dinner; they were to go in. Then, Gip Alen in tow, she would sail by!

And, instructing the young man rather hurriedly, for it would spoil the dénouement were Dorrance or Elverton, returning from the boxing match, to find her talking here, she left him.

When she had had tea leisurely she went to her stateroom, where the Franklyn girl was putting out her silver clothes. Doria sank upon her bed, lay there, smiling at her thoughts, her eyes pure topaz.

If she could rouse Barney, even to fury rather than love, she would be nearer her desire. When he saw her with the boy, Alen, when he understood, found her withdrawn from himself, how would he look, speak? But as she lay there conjuring up the vision of Barney furious, it was Elverton's face that swept before her! Elverton, steady, furious . . . Elverton furious, too.

She sat up suddenly to shake the unexpected vision from her. What did the doctor matter; the "poor" doctor?

Mental Graces Necessary to Lasting Union

Cultivate Your Minds Is Advice to Wives.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A half dozen recent articles penned by analysts of modern life and marriage point to the need of modern wives for fortifying themselves with such mental graces as to be interesting companions. Not only is the young wife adjured to take cognizance of this phase of companionable union, the older woman has been the point of attack if she finds herself at middle age without interesting mental equipment.

Whether you argue that a married woman has done enough in rearing her children well, conducting her home well, or whether you don't so argue, the fact remains that in these modern times interesting companionship is being recognized as an imperative need in marriage.

John Erskine, noted author, commented recently on the more difficult job successful marriage is today compared with pioneer days. It is harder today, he affirms, because wives have to go to the bother of consciously developing personalities in order to make themselves interesting companions. In the pioneer days, the everyday terms of life made companions of a man and his wife.

We believe that many more women during our present political campaign have read and talked, and talked interestingly, of politics than ever before. The economic crisis may have set them to thinking and asking why thus-and-so could have happened. Anyway, women are thinking more in interests outside their domestic walls, which is a good omen for this modern need of mental companionship.

More of it could still be done. More intelligent reading of newspapers would help. While the advertisements are interesting copy and copy planned to reach women's eyes, reading the ads only does not supply the male mate with that intelligent response being demanded of the modern woman. And there are just countless numbers of women whose reading is confined to the advertising sections and to editorial departments of purely feminine appeal.

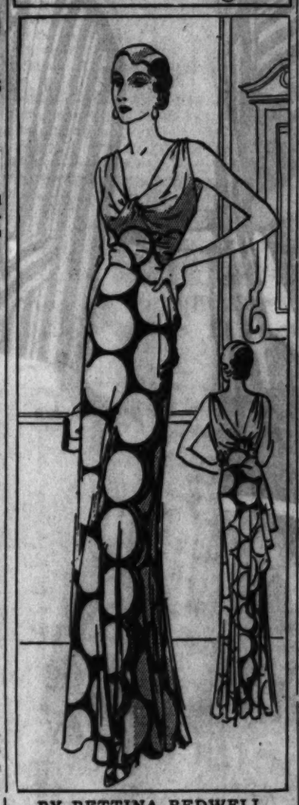
Printed Frock of Large White Moons for Paris Nights



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Many are the battles that are waged over the innocent designs of printed fabrics. Each season the experts get together and decide that prints are to be or not to be. And through it all printed fabrics go serenely on, because, experts or no experts, their success depends mostly upon weather conditions. As soon as the temperature goes up above 80 there is a grand rush for cool-looking and cool-giving prints.

Chic Parisiennes about town are wearing little velvet jackets in the predominant color of the print over their printed evening dresses. They wear shoes in the same color as the jacket.

In the sketch today you see a printed evening dress that is different from the ordinary kind. It is in chiffon and had a sapphire blue background, printed with large white moons. The bodice is in plain white chiffon and has a draped décolleté which is knotted at the front and back. This frock is unbelted and the printed section of the dress begins just under the bosom in front and at the normal waistline in back.

The skirt has two cascading panels with scalloped borders that descend diagonally down the front and back, from the side of the waistline to the center of the hem. It is fitted at the hips and flares gently from this point to the hem.

This model is from Vera Borea.

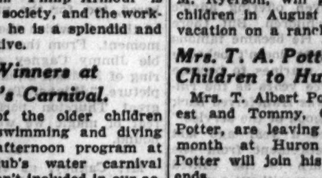
AGED FLAVOR is



... Time's gift to CLICQUOT

Doesn't it seem reasonable that slow, careful blending will produce better flavor than hurried mixing? Of course, it does! Clicquot Club is noted for its rare mellowness. Fine flavor ingredients are AGED 6 MONTHS to mature before the blend is sweetened and before the sparkling water is added. It is aged flavor that makes the difference.

That Extra Something

Your money's worth! Full pints—16 ounces instead of 12. Look at the label.

Eye Shadows Becoming More Varied, Subtle

New Tones Designed for Colored Frocks.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

With the thinned out line of brow the eyelid is thrown into sharp relief, calling as it hasn't in years for eyelid dressing of some flattering kind. To offset that nude effect of brow lent by the fine hairline the eye must be on the alert for an effective shadowing for its lid. And so there has developed an eye cosmetic interest of late that has women experimenting with pastes of green, blue, blue-green, green-blue, gray-blue, golden and bronze and darkish browns to dress the eyelid.

You don't have to listen to any such ruling as "Dark brown for the brunette, blue for the blonde, light brown for the redhead." The gown you are going to wear your eye makeup with has to be heard from. At cosmetic counters you'll find instructive charts on which you turn a dial to the dress color and learn what complementary shades of rouge, lipstick, and eye shadow are recommended. The information may not always satisfy the individual taste, but it serves as guide to the average woman.

Not all of us are endowed with that sixth sense that dictates the right and clever color under all circumstances. Too, as help to the average girl or woman, saleswomen at cosmetic counters often may be interviewed with good results. More and more they are being trained to try to suit the cosmetic to the individual type, since this is bound to bring repeat sales.

The blues and greens in eye shadow at the moment are in the lead. A mixture called green-blue is one of those colors that, happily, fit into many dress schemes. It's good with the simple street or afternoon frock of black or dark blue. But with one of the popular red shades it probably would be too theatrical for comfortable day appearance, proving that you must poke inquisitive fingers into various eye shadow jars to get the perfect thing for eye sparkle.

For pastel costumes, let's say, a ciel blue might be just the thing. One of those gorgeous tanned blondes seen recently had eyelids tinted a bronzy shade, most effective with a white satin dinner gown. The gray shades in eye shadow are good with deep blue and purple costumes. Brown, light and dark, warms a beige dress. Brown shadow, too, may be considered for wear with green dresses.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

LOUISE: ABSENCE OF LIME (calcium) and vitamins from food retards tooth development. That's the way rickets affect the teeth.

CONNY: APPLY A TONIC TO THE scalp with your fingers. It's brushing that carries the oil to the dry hair ends.

High Schools Should Train for Home Life

Practical Domestic Courses Needed.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

One of the first letters I received after this column began, some five years ago, said in effect:

"Here I am married and with a young baby. What do I know about housekeeping, handling money, and taking care of this precious little son? So little that I wonder that I get along, at all. I am reading and studying things out all the time and I have to depend on myself because my people live in another city.

"I am a high school graduate and when I think of the time I wasted over studies I'll never use again it makes me furious. Very few of the girls in my class went to college and high school did not prepare us at all for this. I hope some day they will wake up." And other letters have come along with the same theme as the burden of their song.

Well, they are waking up, the school people. William J. Cooper, the United States commissioner of education, recently recommended the introduction of a course in family relationships for both boys and girls in the high school. This was advocated at the home making conference of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Of our young people he said that about half go through high school and only one-tenth go through college.

"Holding the home together during this machine age is a real challenge to education. Education should take a specific step to give young people the preparation which will help them overcome the obstacles which break up so many homes."

Mr. Cooper mentioned that the course of study might include material from the fields of sociology, mental and social hygiene, economics, and similar activities which have a bearing on home life.

Roughly, we might expect this more simply stated to be: courses in the choice of foods, cooking, healthful living, planning expenditures of wages or salary, baby care, and child study.

Many inexperienced young people with children have found several of our booklets of practical help. Those most fully written are on the following subjects: "Obedience," "Patience," "Stubbornness," "Orderliness," and "Shyness." A stamped, self-addressed envelope brings them to you.

Bright Sayings of the Children

One Sunday we took my little cousin, Armin, age 4, to a restaurant to dinner. After the waitress brought the order, his mother asked him why he did not eat. Armin replied in a meek voice, "Mother, isn't this a restaurant?"

His mother answered, "Why, yes, of course."

"Well, then," said Armin, "I came here to rest." B. W.

Interpreter Is Called to Aid of Noel Coward

His Spoken English Baffles Film Executives.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., July 21.—[Special.]—During his visit to the Fox studio, where his "Cavalcade" is to be filmed, Noel Coward was telling his ideas about the picture to a conference of studio executives. Carried away by enthusiasm, he talked fast and emphatically, but the combination of British accent, speed, and his emphasis bewildered the executives, who failed to understand the author. Finally Coward pointed and said, "Send in that fellow with the glasses outside." The fellow with the glasses proved to be some subordinate around the studio, who had been abroad, or something. So Coward fired his comment to the youth with the glasses and the latter interpreted the remarks, in American language such as motion picture executives can understand.

Mr. Coward's written English is held in high esteem at one of the other studios, for Gwill Andre, the Scandinavian importation at RKO, says that she is learning three of Coward's plays by heart so as to clinch her command of our language.

"Sonny" Fox, 19 year old brother of Sidney Fox, who recently joined the navy as a gob, was his sister's guest for a vacation in Hollywood which was cut short when he had to fly to San Francisco to join his ship to go to Asia on duty.

Harold Lyold was at San Francisco to watch the track and field trials for the American Olympic team. He got so much kick out of some of the world record events that he called up his home and told his wife, Mildred Davis, about them via long distance. All Mildred could think to say was: "What did Nurmi do?"

Patricia Ziegfeld has no ambitions as a movie actress, but she has succumbed to the film lure sufficiently to be writing a magazine criticism, from the flapper point of view, of an unreleased college film, which Radio RKO shortly releases.

Little by little the movie colony seems to be turning its back on Malibu Beach as the favorite summer ocean spot and moving to Laguna Beach, which is about sixty miles south of Hollywood. The Laguna colony includes Frederick March, Polly Moran, Arthur Caesar, Michael Curtis, and Bess Meredyth, Bob Armstrong, E. H. Grimth, Ted Cook, Doris Anderson, Charles Kenyon, and Myrna Loy. The Laguna crowd is backing a "Festival of Art" in the beachside colony the week of Aug. 13 to 20.

Ralph Forbes, who has quit Reno for the time being after establishing residence as a preliminary to a divorce from Ruth Chatterton, says there is no change in the plans for divorce. Forbes flew here from Reno to do some added scenes for "Smilin' Through" with Norma Shearer at Metro. When he finishes he flies back to Reno. Forbes said: "I have had several letters from Miss Chatterton, but, to tell the truth, she said nothing in them about her reported intention to wed George Brent when our divorce is arranged."

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Asks for Bathing Suits, Size 38.

"I wonder if one of your readers has a bathing suit, size 38, that I could have, and one in the same size for my wife. I have been out of work for a year and can't afford to buy one. It would make us feel a lot better if we could get away from home and to the beaches for a little recreation now and then. W. K."

If you bought a new bathing suit this summer it's quite likely you have one from last year which you have been planning to discard. If W. K. or his wife had it they could take advantage of the grand swimming to be had at the city beaches.

Would Welcome Cards.

"I have been asked by several patients in the sanitarium to write you in regard to getting some playing cards, as this is the only recreation the patients have. E. B."

Card games are really a boon to the bedridden men and women. If you have a large supply of cards won't you send a deck or two to them?

SINCLAIR AGAIN WINS NAVY OIL CONTRACT!

1,600,000 Gallons of Sinclair products to be used by U. S. Battleships, Destroyers, Submarines, Navy Aircraft, Army Tanks, etc.

THE United States Government has awarded to the Sinclair Refining Company the major part of the contract for supplying lubricants to the Navy and other Government Departments during the fiscal year 1932-33.

The basis of the award was the lowest service cost per gallon as determined by competitive tests in the Government testing laboratories at Annapolis, Maryland.

Proposals were received from various companies and both price and quality were duly considered in making the formal award. The quality of Sinclair lubricants received due consideration.

Under the terms of the contract the United States Government will use more than 1,600,000 gallons of Sinclair lubricants during the coming fiscal year. This is the second time in succession that Sinclair has won the major part of this contract.

The award includes all of the lubricating oils to be used by United States battleships, destroyers, submarines, naval aircraft throughout the entire Navy and all Navy equipment at Atlantic ports. It also includes other Government requirements including those of the Army's fighting tanks, artillery tractors, trucks, etc., in 33 States.

MEET GERMAN CHAMPS! RECEPTION TOMORROW

CUBS, PIRATES TO OPEN BATTLE FOR LEAD TODAY

Pat Malone Picked to Pitch.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Now comes the season of crucial series. From now on every set of games involving teams seriously contending for the National league pennant—and there are eight such this year—will be deemed by their admirers a crucial series.

Today it is the Cubs against the Pirates at Pittsburgh in the first of a four game series. We submit that this is a genuine crucial series, inasmuch as the four games will determine whether the Cubs are to regain the first place berth which they occupied during most of the first half of the season or whether those wicked usurpers, the Pirates, are to continue to lead the pack as they have ever since the first week of July when they kicked the Cubs out in hand to hand conflict, the climax of which came when the Pirates took both the morning and afternoon games on July 4.

Cubs Trail by 2½ Games.

The big series will open with the Cubs trailing the Pirates by 2½ games, a half game being added yesterday because the Pirates, in the only National league game, defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 2.

Pat Malone, who has been showing brilliant form in most of his recent games, will draw the honor of opening the series. If he wins he will have evened the season series between Cubs and Pirates, for the record shows the Pirates have won 7 games out of 13 played by the two outfits.

In working out his battle plans, Manager Hornsby had narrowed down his pitching deliberations anent the second game to Bush and Root. Bush was a bit wabbly in his start against the Giants, which wound up 13 to 3 long after Guy had been driven to cover. On the other hand Root, after a long layoff, appeared good the day before against the same Giants in administering an 8 to 2 licking to the lads from Gotham.

Bush Clamors for Work.

Bush, before his setback, had turned in some great games to build his win tabulation to 10 for the season. His reversal at the hands of the Giants was merely an accident, he claims, and the young man is clamoring for an assignment either in Pittsburgh tomorrow or in one of the games of the doubleheader in Chicago Sunday. Warneke will go after his No. 15 win in one of the Sabbath encounters.

Completion of the four game series between the Chicagoans and Pittsburghers will leave five more to play with each other. One of these will be taken care of as a jump breaker for the Cubs between New York and St. Louis on Aug. 11, after both teams have completed their impending eastern invasions. The other four will be played at Wrigley field during the last week of the season.

PIRATES, 3; PHILLIES, 2

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 21.—[Special.]—Lloyd Waner, younger of the slugging Waner brothers, played only two innings of today's game with the Phillies, but his bat gave the Pirates a 3 to 2 victory and increased their lead over the idle second place Cubs to 2½ games.

The Pirates came up in the last half of the ninth with the score tied at 2-2. Pie Traynor singled with two out, and then Waner doubled into left center to send Traynor home with the winning run.

Grace Scores in Third.

Waner had replaced Barbee in the outfield at the beginning of the eighth. It was Traynor's first game since his finger was hurt two weeks ago.

The Pirates hopped off with a one run lead in the third inning when Earl Grace singled, went to second on Kremer's sacrifice, and scored on Comorosky's two bagger.

The usually rampant Phillies were helpless before Remy Kremer's pitching until the seventh, when they collected two runs on singles by Lee, V. Davis, and McCurdy, and Pitcher Jumbo Elliott's infield out. Delker ran for Davis.

The 5,000 customers cheered up again in the home half of the seventh. Barbee drove a triple to the wall in left center. Finney went in to run for him and Suhr's fly sent him across the plate.

Seven Hits Off Kremer.

Kremer yielded seven hits and the Pirates got only one more off Elliott. There were no errors.

Manager George Gibson tonight was undecided about his pitching selection for the first game of the series with the Cubs tomorow, but probably will use either Spencer or French. The lineup:

EVERGOLD SHOWS CLASSIC DEFEAT WAS A MISTAKE

Gallops Through Rain to Win at Arlington.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The 3 year olds which looked at Gusto's flying heels in the Classic stakes last Saturday held sort of a consolation party out at Arlington Park yesterday afternoon.

And one of them ran right back to his Classic form. It was Evergold, owned by Dick and Pat Nash of Chicago, which was a fast finishing third in the Classic. In the Dundee stakes yesterday with Gusto and Stepenfetchit, the two that beat him in the Classic, missing Evergold was the winner by a length and a half.

He came from far back, just as he did in the Classic, picked up and sailed past one horse after another, until at the head of the stretch only Springsteel and Dark Hope were leading him.

What's a Little Rain?

Then Jockey Woolf started a new drive with him. In a dozen strides he had conquered Dark Hope. In the next dozen jumps he flew past Springsteel and pulled out into a lead of four lengths. Rain was coming down and the track was thoroughly soaked, but Evergold thrived in the going. He kept pulling out into a longer and longer lead.

Then there came the biggest thrill of the race. Wolff, confident he had the victory in the palm of his hand, took a nap as they neared the finish line. J. Burke rallied Springsteel into a belated rush, and while he had no chance to catch Evergold he came so fast in the final strides every spectator in the crowd of 14,000 was cheering for the horse that could rally so gamely in the face of certain defeat.

A Long Lead, for a While.

In the early running Springsteel had things very much his own way, and at one stage, about three-quarters of a mile out in the mile and a furlong trip, he was three lengths in front, with Dark Hope running second and Evergold about a half dozen lengths behind the two.

This was the order as they hit the lower bend and began rounding it for the run home. Evergold came up like a flying horse and was on even terms with the two front runners not long after the run for home started and it was all over but the shouting and the collecting.

Evergold, a son of Ladkin-Golden Lassie, is one of the most improved horses of the year. Once at New Orleans he ran to be claimed for $1,500. He didn't win in that kind of company. But throughout the summer he has been showing more speed and gameness and since he ran in that $1,500 claiming race he has earned more than $10,000 for the Nash Brothers. His share of yesterday's purse was $2,760.

Sweeping Light Wins Thriller.

He had beaten Sazerac, the New Orleans colt, in the Classic, yet the crowd at Arlington yesterday made Sazerac the favorite over Evergold. In the mutuels Evergold paid $6.82 to win, $4.82 to place, and $3.06 to show. Springsteel was at $7.30 to place and $4.86 to show, and Dark Hope, which got the slim end of the purse, paid $4.62 to show. Evergold ran the mile and a furlong in 1:53 2-5, which was pretty good time, considering the muddy track and the rain storm.

There have been few more thrilling finishes than the one which came in the Mayfair purse at a mile when the eastern 3 year old, Sweeping Light, got a nose decision over the battle scarred old westerner, Pittsburgher. Just another nose back of them came Etcetera, which had fought it out with the two leaders all the way down the stretch.

It was Jockey Hank Mills' brilliant ride that made possible Sweeping Light's victory. He beat the veteran Charley Allen in the mad scramble for the finish line which came in the last furlong. Wright, on Etcetera, was also kicking and slashing with his whip like a wild man but Mills had the most strength and dropped Sweeping Light's nose down in front in the last stride.

ONE AND BEND—TWO AND UP! HOW THEY WORK!

Getting his instructions early. Werner Spannagel, who will be the first German in the ring on Tuesday, lends an ear to Leonhard Mandlar between sessions of yesterday's strenuous exercises. Mandlar is coach of the visiting amateur champions. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Herr Kohlhaas Scores His First American Knockout

BY HEINZ REICHMANN.

[German sports writer in Chicago to cover International Golden Gloves bouts.]

There are for sure two men in Chicago who are picking the Germans to bring the bacon back to their fatherland in the Golden Gloves bouts at Soldiers' field on Tuesday.

One is the writer, who saw both teams in action and is convinced that the visitors are the better boxers while the Chicago boys are the better fighters. I think that a good boxer can always beat a good fighter. The other is William Ruewe, 1925 Sedgwick street, a German dishwasher who came to America three years ago hoping to find a lot of gold. He found instead a lot of dirty dishes.

Ruewe appeared at the Ambassador hotel, where the German team is staying, at 7 o'clock yesterday morning asking for Coach Mandlar. After the telephone had rung for ten minutes Mandlar, awakened out of his dreams of a victory for his team, angrily answered the call.

"There is a gentleman who likes to see you on very important business," said the clerk.

"I won't see him even if he is the kaiser himself. Some nerve, to wake people up at this hour!"

Mr. Ruewe Volunteers.

Ten minutes later somebody knocked on Mandlar's door.

"Zum Donnerwetter! Who is there?" shouted the coach.

"A countryman who wants to see you very urgently."

In came William Ruewe, a very husky man, 235 pounds, with a neck like a steer, hands like two cold meat plates, and rosy cheeks, as if he had been brought up on beer and pig's knuckles.

"Herr Mandlar, I want to help you to lick those Americans," started Ruewe. "I am a former amateur boxer from Germany and I have fought in American rings since I arrived here. Your boys have to learn a lot to have a chance against the Chicago team. You have to fight for some time in American rings before you learn how to beat these tricky and smart American boxers. I offer my services as a voluntary sparring partner for your boys, and I am sure I can show them a lot. I don't want any pay. Satisfaction if they win is all I am looking for."

Ruewe Is Fat, Persistent.

"It is very nice of you," said Mandlar, "but I don't know you and would not allow my boys to train with strange people. And then it is not the first time we are fighting an American team. Last year we had a battle, U. S. A. against Germany, in Berlin and we licked the Americans."

"But my sparring with them won't do any damage to your boys."

"No, it won't, but I don't want it."

"O, I see," remarked Ruewe. "So you are afraid, with my American fighting experience, I might hurt some of your protégés. If that's the way you are feeling, I don't see any chance for your team to win a fight at Soldiers' field. Of course, it would not be very pleasant for you to see how I am chasing your heavyweight around the ring while the newspaper men are looking at this spectacle. I can see the headlines in the papers already: 'Germans are not so tough after all.'

"Is that so-o-o-o," said Mandlar. "All right, I am going to try you out against my heavyweight Kohlhaas. You fight three rounds. If you beat him you may train my boys and I am going to put you on the team and send Kohlhaas straight back to Germany."

"O. K. with me," said Ruewe.

And the Winner?

Fifteen minutes before the regular training started the fight was on and thirteen minutes before the training started it was all over. At least for William Ruewe, who was lying on the floor after he had "swallowed" a series of heavy punches on his chin.

I guess you understand it now why there are at least two men in Chicago who for sure pick the Germans to win Tuesday.

FOUND! FIGHTERS WHO FIGHT FOR CHANCE TO FIGHT

Wherein Golden Glovers Differ from Pros.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lake Wawasee, Ind., July 21.—It is amusing to note how closely the amateur fighters imitate the professionals in their little ring mannerisms, how they sniff and snort in their shadow boxing, just like the pros, how they pick up their feet and step around fancy with the professional stringhalt leg action in their sparring, how they affect to be bored and disinterested when they are poked good and hard on the snoot.

They wind on their tape in the calm, all in a day's work manner of the professional pugs, though you can see by the little flutter of their left ribs that their hearts are tripping with excitement, and they bow to the crowds with that quick little hands-over-the-head glove shake by which the wealthy champions for years have tolerantly acknowledged the tribute of their customers.

Difference—They Want to Fight.

In all these outwards they affect the ways of the professionals, and yet there is this great difference—that the 16 Golden Gloves fighters who are training here for the bouts with the Germans are competing for eight places on the team. They all want to fight, an extremely unprofessional desire, though they quite understand that the Germans are so tough that they use fighting, not sparring, gloves even in their workouts.

The heavyweight champion of the prize fight racket, whoever he happens to be, automatically adopts a schedule of one fight per year the minute he wins the championship, no matter how ignominiously he happens to win it or by what connivance of politicians, or incompetence of officials, or intervention of sinister characters of the bootlegging profession. For that one bout a year he customarily selects the opponent who seems to offer the most attractive combination of harmlessness in the ring and drawing power at the gate, and between times he avoids committing himself, like a politician in the period between campaigns.

Proud to Be Amateurs.

It is remarkable about these amateur fighters also that, although only two of them have regular jobs now, one in the U. S. navy, the other in an automobile assembling plant, they not are only content but apparently proud to remain amateur. The professional mannerisms probably strike them as the signs of proficiency. They want to be as good as the pros, but they fight from a dozen to fifty fights a year, a schedule which places them a whole world apart from the delicate celebrities whose hangnails and chills and charley horse are the stuff that banner lines are made of in the newspapers shops.

Tony Sutton, one of the middleweight aspirants, fighting every day nowadays for nothing but his board and keep in camp and a chance to fight one of the best middleweights in Europe for a medal of little pecu-

PROTESTS MAKE ONLY SPLASH IN U. S. WATER POLO

Pasadena, Cal., July 21.—(AP)—Verbal arguments supplanted aquatic contests here today as protests prevented the final water polo Olympic team trials from getting under way among four teams seeking the right to represent the United States in the international games at Los Angeles July 30 to Aug. 14.

The New York A. C. and Illinois A. C. entered protests against the Los Angeles A. C., and its allied club, the Hollywood A. C., charging that in entering the Hollywood A. C. the Los Angeles A. C. really was represented by two teams. Both clubs are under the same management.

It was also charged that two members of the Los Angeles A. C. team are life guards, who under the international water polo federation rules are amateurs, but under the national A. A. U. rules are professionals.

GERMANIA CLUB OPENS DOORS TO ALL FOR PARTY

Singing, Dancing, Talks on Program.

On W-G-N Tonight

GERMANY'S eight amateur boxing champions will talk over W-G-N, The Tribune radio station, at 8:45 tonight. They will speak in German, but their remarks will be repeated in English by an interpreter. Fredrich Burger, president of the German Amateur Boxing association, and Leonhard Mandlar, coach of the team, also will talk.

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago gets its second chance to say hello to the amateur boxing champions of Germany tomorrow night. The first was at the Union station Monday when the boys completed their 4,000 mile journey from Berlin. The largest crowd in the history of the railway terminal turned out.

Thousands more are expected to shake hands with the young men from over sea at an informal reception tomorrow night at the Germania club. Everybody is welcome. There will be no admission charge. The club is located at 108 Germania place, a block south of North avenue at Clark street.

There will be singing by the United German Male choruses and a few brief talks, but the boys themselves will be the center of attraction. Thousands have sought to talk with them at their hotel, but for obvious reasons the men in charge of the team have had to shoo away most of the well wishers. They are here to fight the champions of Chicagoland and have tried to stick to the purpose of their visit. But tomorrow night the bars are down. All Chicago is invited to the Germania club to get acquainted.

Dancing After Reception.

After the reception there will be dancing in the club ball room until midnight. The program begins at 8 o'clock.

Among the speakers will be Senator Otis F. Glenn, Congressman Fred A. Britten, both members of the Germania club; Dr. H. F. Simon, German consul general; Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing association; Judge Walter P. Steffen, and Frederich Burger, president of the German Amateur Boxing association. Leonhard Mandlar, director of amateur boxing in Germany, will introduce his eight champion fighters. Robert Scheunemann, president of Germania club, will be toastmaster.

This will be the only public appearance of the German team until it enters the ring at Soldiers' field Tuesday night.

Six Preliminaries on Tuesday.

The first bout Tuesday will go on at 8 o'clock. There will be six preliminary contests between outstanding boys of the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament who failed to qualify for the international competition. The first match between the United States and Germany, which will pit Johnny Baltzer of Davenport against Werner Spannagel of Barmen, probably will get under way at 9:30.

The German boys will be escorted to the ring by six German war veterans in uniform while the band plays a popular air of the Fatherland. As soon as they have completed their march the Americans, headed by six soldiers from the Medill post of the American Legion, will swing down the aisle to the strains of the "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Both teams then will stand at attention in the ring while the flags of the German republic and the United States are raised at the north end of the arena. Huge flood lights will be turned on the flags during the ceremony.

Avoid Congestion; Buy Now.

While the reserved section is limited to 46,000 seats, it does not follow that only that number can watch the bouts. There will be seating accommodations for at least 70,000. Tickets will be on sale at 35 booths along the west and south sides of Soldiers' field starting at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening.

There still are thousands of good seats available. Fans who do not care to battle the crowd in ticket lines at the gates are urged to obtain their tickets in advance. They are on sale at Tribune Tower, room 530, and at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street. The prices are $3.30, $2.20, $1.10, and 55 cents. All seats are reserved.

Buy Now! Avoid Rush!

The Golden Gloves ticket office at The Tribune Public Service office, 1 S. Dearborn street, will remain open evenings to accommodate fans seeking tickets for the bouts between Germany and the United States at Soldiers' field Tuesday night.

Tickets are also on sale at Room 530, Tribune Tower, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

The prices are $3.30, $2.20, $1.10 and 55 cents. All seats are reserved.

MEXICANS BRING OWN BEANS TO OLYMPIC GAMES

El Paso, Tex., July 21.—(AP)—Indian members of the Mexican Olympic team are taking no chances with the American variety of beans. They had a big sack of frijoles with them when they passed through here en route to Los Angeles.

United States public health service officials said that vaccination of some of the Mexican athletes at the international bridge last night would not handicap them in their training. No formal protest against the vaccination was made by the athletes.

Col. Raymundo Izcoa, Mexico's champion fencer, and Juan Morales, marathon runner, were vaccinated.

WHITNEYS NEVER SEEM TO RUN OUT OF TURF CHAMPS

Crowning Glory Appears Next in Line.

The Whitneys seem to have another budding turf champion in the 2 year old Crowning Glory.

He startled all the clockers at Arlington yesterday with the most amazing workout of the year when he pulled up at the end of a five furlong drill in 59 seconds after running the quarter in :21 3-5, the three-eighths in :33, and the half in :45 seconds.

Crowning Glory is getting ready for the $60,000 Arlington futurity on July 30. He had plenty of weight up yesterday. He is a son of Black Toney.

W. T. Waggoner, the Texas millionaire, whose Three D's stable represents one of the big investments in American racing, has tired of watching dust thrown into the eyes of his thoroughbreds. So he has decided to ship them back to his ranch at Arlington, Tex.

Lady Broadcast was destroyed following the injuries she suffered in a race at Arlington park early in the week. The mare, which once sold for $26,000, was insured for $8,000.

Col. Edward R. Bradley's horses will get away Sunday for Saratoga. It has been a lean season for the Bradley horses since Burgoo King went wrong. The master of Idle Hour farm turned loose a fleet filly yesterday in Boy Crazy. She was a handy winner of the first race at the good odds of $12.72. Boy Crazy is a daughter of Broadway Jones-Ethel Dear.

A new opponent for Equipoise in the $30,000 Arlington Handicap, tomorrow's main attraction at Arlington park, appeared yesterday in the shape of the speedy four year old filly, Risque, owned by Mrs. John Hertz. Risque was asked for a mile and a furlong workout by Trainer William Knapp and replied with one of the outstanding trials of the current season, covering the distance in 1:52 2-5.

She was rated along at a smooth pace, being timed for the first half mile in :48 4-5, the three quarters in 1:13 and the mile in 1:37 4-5. Trainer Knapp was immensely pleased with the performance and stated that Risque could be included among the probable starters for the mile and a quarter event.

Elms and Flynn will judge in the saddle and jumping classes while Coleman will name the winners in the children's riding class.

There will be nine events in the exhibition, which will start at 2 o'clock Leading horses of the Chicago district are entered. Among the stables to be represented are Forest View stable and the Lexington Saddle farm.

Laurance Armour, Libby Chase, C. A. Walters, Mrs. W. C. Booth, and Florine Goldsmith will have horses in the exhibition. Miss Goldsmith will ride Rebel, one of the horses which competed in the South Shore Country club show.

Sixteen Detroiters were allowed to play. Don Bradman, world champion batsman, was retired for a score of 26 when he played the ball on to his wicket.

Boerner Yields 2 Hits in Seven Innings.

Nature Succeeds Where Man Fails in Saving Town

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Blaney, Mich., July 21.—Thirty years ago it was a mushroom lumbering town, a thriving bustling place with a roaring saw mill, stores, and even a ball team. Today it's a 10,000 acre game refuge with deer walking up and down the forest highways and beaver splashing in the trout streams.

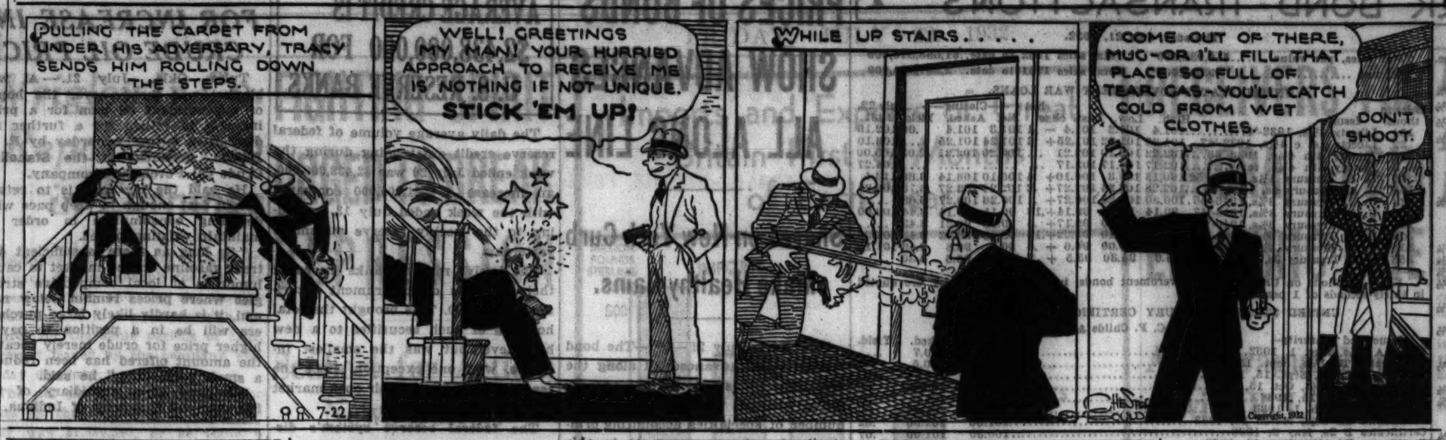
That is the story of old Simmons, the scene of our wanderings today. There is a dandy trout stream in this 10,000 acre tract. This was one of the reasons we sought out Simmons, the faded old town which went down to oblivion after a series of fires.

Today Simmons has a total permanent population of two people. It is twenty miles from Blaney. Continue beyond Simmons past signs which tell you to "Break your matches. Watch out for fires!" and through forests, cool and shady with healthy growths of beach, hard maples, spruces, and balsams, and you come to the shore of Lake Michigan. Except for a warden or two the only residents you encounter are wild deer which watch your automobile with curious eyes. You may also see a bear.

The history of this quaint old town reads like that of the mushroom towns in the western cold country. When a lumber company opened a saw mill and a planing plant at the edge of the big forest that originally grew here, Simmons grew up almost over night. Then came disastrous fires. The mill was closed. More fires wreaked havoc, but Simmons kept going until 1914 when the death blow was delivered. With the country pretty well logged out, the camps were closed and as quickly as Simmons had been born, Simmons died.

Now this historic old site has "gone native" again. There are deer trails where once the loggers hauled the big maples to the mill. Black bears actually are chewing on the signs which tell visitors which forested trail to follow to the Michigan beach or to the trout streams.

DICK TRACY—The Surrender



Here Are Some Fighters Who Want to Fight

niary value, has a cut over his left eye. A cut over an amateur fighter's eye is of such little importance that I wouldn't have mentioned it at all except to draw a comparison. Suppose he were a Dempsey, a Schmeling, or a Sharkey training for a heavyweight championship fight and a sparring partner cut him over the eye? You will get the comparison.

Easy on Their Fellow Guests.

The atmosphere of this training resort in Indiana is a good deal like that of a camp for middling rich or more so kids in the woods of Maine or Michigan. They splash in the lake, although they do not swim because that isn't good for fighters in training, they fish for theoretical or non-existent fish, they golf slightly, and they behave themselves in a manner which has been a revelation to the other customers of the Spink-Wawasee hotel who seemed apprehensive when the squad first arrived.

Not all amateurs are as angelic as the members of this particular troupe happen to be, but I doubt that the worst of all amateurs ever committed much worse damage than the innkeepers in the football towns are accustomed to expect from old grads of a familiar, alcoholic, athletic type in the months of autumn.

How About the Germans?

The young men seem much interested in the style and abilities of the Germans whom the eight best fighters in the squad will meet in Chicago on the night of July 26. They want to know if this guy is a puncher or a fancy fighter and does he have trouble making the weight and where does he seem to enjoy his punching least, upstairs or down? Up to this time there has not been much to tell them because the Germans went in for a little more social and ceremonial activity than they had originally expected and they are just settling down to their fighting now.

But the quaint practice that the Germans have of fighting with fighting gloves and punching for knockdowns in their training bouts undoubtedly has been puzzling the Golden Gloves team. Are these Dutchmen as tough as that? Or merely as crazy as that?

A Lake from New England.

A strange state is this Indiana. The train rolls across a fiery plain so hot that it hurts even to breathe or to look at the bleak barns and houses with their red tin roofs suggesting red hot frying pans, and then, suddenly, it whoas itself up on the shore of a ten mile lake called Wawasee that seems to have been mislaid from New England or Minnesota. A cool wind comes bustling across the lake bellying the awnings and chasing little white horses over the blue water. The train labors away into the inferno again with an anguished groan of the whistle.

Strange people are these Hoosiers, hospitable, sentimental, and apparently normal, but ruled by the most malignant prohibition law in all the Union which yesterday made a convict of a really decent kid who sold the neighborhood Hoosiers a little home brew in response to popular demand.

Everybody Gets a Cut.

He is 21 years old, a Hoosier himself and out of a job, his wife is pretty, and their baby was one year old the day the police broke in. The Hoosiers say the arresting officer gets a certain share of the fine and the judge another share when a man is convicted of selling home brew in Indiana, so naturally the rate of convictions is high. The young man has gone away for thirty days and some one will have to dig up a hundred dollars for his fine.

And, of course, when he comes back from school he will be permanently on the books as a convict because it was maddening hot on the desert and the Hoosier required home brew.

M'KAY ALREADY HERE TO DEFEND CITY GOLF TITLE

Douglas McKay, the Long Beach, Cal., golfer who stopped in Jackson park last year long enough to win the Chicago city championship, is not taking any chances on being surprised in the twenty-ninth annual tournament which opens at the south side course next Monday and continues through Saturday. He is already in town and has played around the course several times this week.

President Jack Kelly announced yesterday that the city meet will be conducted on the same basis as last year—all match play with no qualifying round. There will be two flights, the championship bracket for players with a handicap of eight or less and the other flight for those over eight. The entry fee is $2.50 and may be posted at tee time Monday or at the club offices, 1845 East 63d street, before then.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

GERMANS AND AMERICANS.

Lake Wawasee, Ind., July 21.—[Special.]—Five of the sixteen original candidates for eight places on Chicagoland's Golden Gloves team to box the Germans Tuesday night at Soldiers' field are of German or Austrian ancestry.

Johnny Baltzer's parents are German. So are Vernon Miller's. Tony Sutton's mother is German. Frankie May's people came from Austria, but were German. Duffy Dvonch's antecedents are Austrian.

When Herr Reichmann, German press representative, was here last week he was curious to know how our boys of German descent felt about battling representatives of the Fatherland. Somewhat to his surprise he found they had not even thought of that. They are Americanized to the extent they want to win as individuals and as members of Chicagoland's team.

Herr Reichmann thought he had a lead when Dvonch, 190 pounder with a terrific punch, admitted his Austrian mother did not wish him to fight. "And why was that?" asked our press visitor with the gleam for home consumption of a good story in his eyes.

"O, she was afraid I might get hurt," was the laconic response of this husky Great Lakes sailor.

* *

Dvonch's Strategy.

Duffy Dvonch, heavyweight candidate, speaks English, Austrian, Bohemian and Polish with a smattering of Chinese. That was acquired during two and one-half years' stay with the American navy in China guarding Yankee oil tank boats against Chinese pirates. He does not speak Chinese fluently, he admits, but can make himself understood.

In one of the fanning bees Duffy remarked, "If I'm picked to meet Hans Kohlhaas, German heavyweight, I'm going to say something to him in Chinese when in the ring. Then while he's trying to translate it, I'll crack him on the chin."

"But suppose he thinks you are calling him some offensive name and cracks you on the chin instead?" interjected Capt. Leo Rodak. "I hadn't thought of that," replied Dvonch, "perhaps I'd better stick to the gloves."

This Wake Is Conducted by Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

Only a Gargle.

As the Wake stood at the drinking fountain in the hotel corridor quaffing our second glass of artesian well water, Henry Rothier stepped up for his turn. Henry is drying out to make the required 135 lightweight poundage.

"Wish I could do that," he said. "What do you get, only a swallow?" we asked.

"Not even that, only a gargle," he replied.

Wise Choosing of Parent.

Among the camp followers here is a young chap who has developed a keen interest in the Golden Gloves boxers. He has money to spend, received from his father's estate, and is not averse to spending it, since it brings him into contact with a sport where otherwise he would be a stranger. He's not offensive, or at least does not mean to be, but attaches more importance to his own opinions and suggestions than do the trainers or coaches. Like many sons of wealthy men, he's not an intellectual giant. You know the type.

"Does he annoy you?" some one asked Trainer Behr.

"No," replied Johnny, "but I can't help thinking how lucky for him his father was born first."

Newport, R. I., July 21.—[Special.]—Cyril Tolley, English golfer, was the medalist in the Newport Country club's sixth annual tournament today. He broke all previous tournament records by shooting a 69, one more stroke than Tommy Tailer took to create the course record in 1930. Par is 71.

C. S. Bishop of Glen View was the big chief at Briergate's ninth annual Braves day yesterday, leading a field of 210 warriors over a rain swept course with a 36 hole total of 78—81—159.

Vines, Shields Face Germans in Cup Matches

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 21.—America's Davis cup team meets Germany's tomorrow to settle the question of which will play France next week in the finals. The young team from the United States will enter the match a favorite over the Germans, though some feel that they are stale and the Germans, particularly Daniel Prenn, played so well against the English and Italians that they must not be underrated.

However, it is taken for granted that if Ellsworth Vines will play up to the form he showed at Wimbledon nothing can stop the Americans either in this week's match or in the finals next week.

Tomorrow Francis Shields will play Gottfried von Cramm, and Vines will meet Prenn. Saturday comes the doubles match which probably will see Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn against Prenn and Von Cramm, and Sunday there will be two singles matches again.

The French team is practicing hard these days. Though Jean Borotra is out on the courts regularly, he still insists he will not play.

J. Humphrey Wins Western Girls' Title

Janet Humphrey, 15 years old, brought the western junior trophy back to Calumet last night after defeating Eleanor Tobin of the home club in the final match of the thirteenth annual tournament conducted by the Women's Western Golf association at the Flossmoor Country club, 5 and 3.

There was joy and sorrow in the finale of the four day tournament, joy for Miss Humphrey, making her first appearance in the western, and sorrow for Miss Tobin, who for the second consecutive year battled to the championship match, only to lose there.

Miss Tobin's Putting Off.

Miss Humphrey played steady golf most of the route, but her blonde opponent, who was playing over her home course, was in the traps much of the time and her putting was off. She lost the first hole, but halved the second and then came back to square the match at the third.

At the ninth Miss Humphrey was two up. They halved the tenth and Miss Tobin came back to take the eleventh and make herself only one down, but that proved to be her last stand, for Miss Humphrey won the next four holes and the match ended on the fifteenth green.

Miss Briese Wins.

In the first flight final Eloise Briese of Kenosha, Wis., had little difficulty in winning from Mary Lou Laird of Indian Hill, 8 to 7. In the championship consolation match, Josephine Souchek, 14 year old farm girl, who has been playing golf only a few months, won from Mary Armstrong of Indian Hill, 3 to 2, while Louise Willard of Exmoor was the victor in the first flight consolation, defeating Mary Tyson of Sunset Valley, 9 and 8.

Jean Armstrong of Indian Hill yesterday continued the pace she had set earlier in the three day medal play event of the Chicago Women's District Golf association at Evanston, and won low gross honors in the first flight with a three day card of 88—81—82—251. Mrs. Lillian Zech of Tam o' Shanter won low net in the first flight with 266—18—248. The first two stages of the event were held at Briergate and Sunset Ridge on Tuesday and Wednesday, respectively.

The event was regarded as a tuneup for the association's city championship, which will be held at Riverside next Monday to Friday, inclusive. The next three day medal event will take place at Glen Oak, La Grange and Ridgemoor on Aug. 10, 11, and 12.

Miss Armstrong's card for yesterday's round follows:

Par—Out	555	345	345—39—
Par—In	453	545	545—40—79
Miss Armstrong—Out	464	445	345—39
Miss Armstrong—In	553	565	545—43—82

Other winners in the various flights were: Second flight—Betty Burton, Tam o' Shanter, 283, and Mary Dresser, Glen Oak, 288—42—246; "Third flight—Mrs. H. H. Adams, Evanston, 298, and Mrs. W. H. Littell, Indian Hill, 308—57—251; fourth flight—Mrs. J. W. Weaver, Lincolnshire, 326, and Mrs. H. M. Wyatt, Middlebrook, 329—78—251.

Tom Jordan, Jim Hennessey, John Jordan, and the Rev. M. J. Conway scored a low net total of 295 to win the Bishop Bernard J. Sheil trophy in the Catholic Youth organization's golf tournament at the Walnut Hills Golf club yesterday. They represented Visitation parish.

The low gross team prize went to Lee White, H. LePage, R. Pflum, and J. Herberts, who turned in a total of 327. The individual low gross winners were Tom Jordan, 73; Paul Roscoe, 76; Lee White, 77, and J. L. Bradburn. The low net winners were John Jordan, 84—12—72; C. Corrigan, 86—14—72; Joe Fogarty, 94—22—72, and F. Spert, 95—23—72.

ROTHS WIN FIRST PRIZE IN FATHER AND SON TOURNEY

Card 139 in 28th Annual Pater-Filius Golf.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Thirty-seven boys, ranging in age from 9 to 50, each brought the old man out to the North Shore Golf club yesterday for the twenty-eighth annual Midlothian Pater-Filius tournament, one of the oldest golf events in these parts. It was the first time in the history of the Pater-Filius that it had not been played at the south side club which originated it. The event now is under the direction of the Chicago District Golf association, which will move it from club to club.

There will be no need to move the the Pater-Filius trophy for the next twelvemonth, however, for it will be resting in the clubhouse of the St. Andrews Golf club, out West Chicago way, for that period, due to the work of Dr. William H. Roth and his son, Theodore, yesterday. They collaborated in the tournament, which was conducted on a two ball foursome basis, to the extent of a 36 hole net card of 171—32—139, two strokes better than A. H. Holcomb of Kishwaukee and his son, Edward, who had 173—32—141. The John Van Nortwicks from Chicago Golf, who won the trophy last year, finished with 175—18—157.

Play National Open Course.

The field of 74 had an opportunity to play the course which next summer will find Sarazen, Hagen, Farrell, Armour, Cooper, and others trooping over it in the thirty-seventh national open championship. Among the seekers after the Pater-Filius trophy were Judge Charles S. Cutting of Hinsdale and Jack Pritchard of Elmhurst. Judge Cutting, whose age, combined with that of his son, Robert, vice president of the United States Golf association, totals 128 years, played the morning round with Bob and between them they shot 100—19—81.

Tie for Low Gross.

Low net honors for the morning round were taken back to Chicago Heights by the Sheehans, Tom Sr. and Jr., who had 83—13—70, while the afternoon prize went to the Holcombs' 83—16—67. Two father and son combinations tied for 36 hole low gross honors, with 162. They were Thomas McMahon and son, Robert, of Skokie, and Walter O. Schmidt and son, Oliver, of Medinah. Leading scores:

Dr. William H. Roth and Theodore, St. Andrews, 171—32—139; A. H. Holcomb and Edward, Kishwaukee, 173—32—141; Walter O. Schmidt and Oliver, Medinah, 162—18—144; Carl E. Carlson and Marshall, Medinah, 195—46—149; George D. Wolf and Door, North Shore, 193—42—151; Dr. E. T. Schildberg and Edwin, North Shore, 185—16—169; Gordon D. Beckley and William, Edgewood Valley, 172—18—154; M. L. Joslyn and Merritt, La Grange, 179—20—159; William H. Tell and William K., Columbian, 194—30—164; J. D. Roth and Charles, North Shore, 182—22—160; J. A. Adamson and Clifford

REPORT ON FOUR MORE SHERIDAN TRUST ISSUES

Extend Deposit Time on Fischer Flats.

BY AL CHASE.

Arthur M. Wirtz, chairman of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank bondholders' committee, yesterday issued reports on four more defaulted issues underwritten by that bank. For the Kedzie-Montrose building, at the northeast corner of Kedzie and Montrose avenues, J. W. Guskay, receiver, states that there was $1,286 cash on hand on May 1, 1932. The rental income for February, March and April of this year was $2,059; operating expenses were $773, leaving a net of $1,286.

ARTHUR M. WIRTZ. [Grinstead Photo.]

The property is reported as 76 per cent rented on May 1. The building was erected by means of a $125,000 bond issue at 6 per cent. This was reduced to $122,500 when default occurred. It contains stores, flats, offices and has seven brick garages. A large majority of the outstanding bonds are reported to have been deposited.

The receiver for the Talman apartments at the southwest corner of Talman and North Shore avenues, Daniel A. Uretz, reports a deficit of $7 for the period from Feb. 15 to May 21, 1932. The rental income was $482 and the operating expense $489. The building contains six four room suites. The original issue was $24,000 at 6½ per cent. This has been paid down to $22,000.

Litchfield Apartments.

An operating statement of the Litchfield apartments, at the southeast corner of Leland and Albany avenues, shows cash on hand on June 1, 1932, as $1,475. A receivership in this default was avoided and rents have been assigned to the committee. Rental income from November, 1931, to May, 1932, including $1,000 from a previous deposit, totaled $7,751. Operating expenses were $3,524, leaving a net of $4,227. Interest on first mortgage bonds was $2,752, which left cash on hand of $1,475. This was a $110,000 6 per cent issue, since paid down to $98,000. The building contains thirty-two one and two room apartments.

Chester R. Davis, trust officer of the Chicago Title and Trust company, receiver for the Lincoln Square building, at 4938-48 North Western avenue reported a deficit of $6 for that property based on February, March and April operations. The rental income for those months was $300 and the operating expenses $306. The building contains three automobile salesrooms and a 150 car garage. The original bond issue was for $75,000 at 6½ per cent, since paid down to $58,500.

Fischer Apartments.

Carlos A. Life, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee of the Citizens Trust and Savings bank, reports that control of the title to the Fischer apartments at 7907-15 Normal avenue has been secured by the committee. In order that bondholders who failed to deposit prior to the closing date may have the advantage of this situation Mr. Life states that the committee has decided to reopen the deposits for a limited time.

He also announces that the committee intends to bid in the property for the bondholders when it is sold by the master in chancery. As usual, the nondepositing bondholders will get only their pro rata share of the amount bid for the property at the foreclosure sale, after deducting all expenses of foreclosure.

ILLINOIS BOARD O K'S 70 MILLION UTILITY BONDS

Banks Here Lead in Underwriting.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The way was cleared yesterday for the offering of $70,000,000 of securities by Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. When the Illinois commerce commission at Springfield amended an order issued May 25 authorizing the issuance of bonds totaling that amount.

A petition to amend the original order so that the financing might be carried out along the terms agreed to by Chicago and New York banks that underwrote the various issues was presented to the commission just before closing time Wednesday afternoon. Approval was given yesterday morning.

Chicago Banks Lead.

The entire $70,000,000 has been underwritten by a syndicate headed by the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, the First National bank and the Harris Trust and Savings bank, and including the Northern Trust company and four New York banks—the Chase National, National City, Guaranty Trust, and Bankers' Trust company.

It is understood that Commonwealth Edison company's thirty year 5½ per cent bonds will be offered first and that the Peoples Gas and Public Service company offerings will follow at intervals. The date of the Edison offering will depend on bond market conditions. It is not expected before the end of next week at the earliest.

To Repay 60 Million Dollars.

The task of raising $60,000,000 to meet obligations maturing at the end of this month and $10,000,000 for capital purposes is now taken care of as far as the three companies are concerned. The issues have been underwritten by leading banks in Chicago and New York and approved by the Illinois commerce commission.

Thus the hope has been realized that the falling into receivership of a number of the more speculative Insull holding and investing concerns would not seriously impair the credit of the soundly set up operating companies in the Chicago district.

The underwriters have agreed to lend the three companies, for a period not to exceed seven months, $60,000,000 to meet early maturities. In return the underwriters have a five months' option on the financing to be done.

Details of Bond Issue.

Under yesterday's amended order the Public Service company of Northern Illinois was given permission to sell $20,000,000 of first lien and refunding mortgage 6½ per cent, five year, sinking fund convertible gold bonds, series G, dated July 1, 1932, and maturing July 1, 1937, at a price not less than 92.

This company also was authorized to issue $20,000,000 of first lien and refunding mortgage, 6½ per cent, twenty year sinking fund gold bonds, series H, dated July 1, 1932, and maturing July 1, 1952, at a minimum of 85. These are not to be issued concurrently with series G bonds.

Holders of the series G bonds will have the right at any time prior to Jan. 1, 1937, to convert such bonds into the series H bonds. Upon making such conversion holders are entitled to secure from the company a premium equal to 5 per cent of the principal amount of the bond.

Public Service company also was authorized to issue and sell $11,900,000 of five year 7 per cent gold debentures, dated July 15, 1932, at a minimum of 94 Of this issue, $6,400,000 is to mature July 15, 1937, and $5,500,000 falls due Aug. 1, 1937.

Edison to Buy Some.

According to present plans Commonwealth Edison will purchase $5,500,000 of these debentures. Public Service company, according to the commission's order, has the right to pledge any part of these bonds as security for short term loans of one year or less.

Under the original order of the Illinois commission on May 25, the Public Service company was authorized to issue $32,000,000 of twenty year first lien and refunding mortgage 6½ per cent bonds.

The commission's original order authorized Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company to issue $20,000,000 of twenty-five year 5½ per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds, series C, at a minimum price of 85.

Yesterday this order was amended so that the company may increase the interest rate to 6 per cent and sell the bonds at not less than 91. This will enable the company to realize a larger sum through the sale of its bonds, although this will be offset by the additional amount it will pay out in annual interest charges as a result of the increase in the coupon rate.

PLAN STATEWIDE BODY TO FINANCE STOCK RAISERS

A movement to get financial backing for the corn belt farmers of Illinois to purchase cattle with which to repopulate their nearly empty feed lots took shape in Chicago.

A resolution adopted by the agricultural industries committee of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce in its session at the Morrison hotel yesterday gave the movement its most recent indorsement. Previously steps have been taken to form an Illinois live stock credit corporation to finance cattle, sheep and hog feeding in the state. The aim of the movement is to enable farmers to market their bumper corn crop "on the hoof" by feeding it to stock.

Two plans of credit for the statewide corporation are being considered. One is for the formation of an intermediate credit corporation and the other for the formation of a corporation which can take advantage of the new provisions of the Reconstruction Finance corporation act.

The plan finally approved was proposed by John H. Craig, assistant director of the state department of agriculture at Springfield. Officers and directors of the Illinois Agricultural association also are taking action on the plan, and the chamber of commerce has indicated that it will coöperate with them.

Japanese Copper Helps to Keep Prices Down

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—Although offerings of Japanese copper in the foreign market and the imperial economic conference at Ottawa tended to make for an unsettled copper market, prices of the metal were unchanged today. Metal was being sold abroad at 4.55 cents a pound, the all time low established yesterday.

ASSERTS BANKS HOLD THE BEST ASSETS OF NATL. ELECTRIC POWER

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—The protective committee, headed by A. C. Allyn, for holders of 5 per cent secured gold debentures of the National Electric Power company is advising the owners of the obligations that they are confronted "with an exceedingly critical situation." Since its organization on July 5 the committee has been actively investigating the situation of the company and its subsidiaries with the help of counsel and engineers.

"From our investigation to date," the committee writes, "it is apparent that there are grave possibilities of loss of important assets, with dismemberment of the National Electric Power group of companies and consequent impairment of the value of the remaining assets, including those constituting specific security for the debentures.

"These possibilities arise partly from the fact that of the total bank debt of the companies in the group National Electric Power company appears to be directly liable for approximately $5,700,000 and contingently liable for approximately $11,600,000, and that the major part of the company's most important assets appears to have been pledged to secure these current obligations or similar obligations of the company's principal subsidiary, National Public Service corporation."

The National Electric Power debentures are secured by 276,522 shares of A and 444,868 shares of B stock of National Public Service and 170,000 common shares of New England Public Service. They were part of the Insull group.

FIGHTING SPIRIT URGED TO BREAK DEPRESSION

Seubert for Action; News Better.

Confidence that the current depression will work itself out was expressed yesterday in a message from President Edward G. Seubert of the Standard Oil company of Indiana to the company's 103,000 stockholders and 36,000 employés.

Mr. Seubert said it was the duty of all citizens to work toward improvement and he asserted that there was no measure of disloyalty in protests on the part of members of his organization against the rising cost of government.

"At the height of boom times in 1929 there was much talk that we had reached a new level of economic prosperity and that conditions would always be as good as they were then or better," Mr. Seubert said in his message which appears in the Standard Oil Record.

Too Many Low Spirited.

"Today the pendulum has swung to the other extreme. Talk is heard that there never will be economic recovery, that still worse times are ahead, that the country is, in fact, going to the dogs. As has happened in other times of depression, it has become more or less common to hear loose gossip about the stability of the institutions of our civilization. Such gossip circulates not only among those who are really suffering from the effects of hard times, but also among many who are relatively well situated and have not real cause for fear.

Mr. Seubert then said present conditions call for the aggressive attitude displayed by the citizens in the protection of his home during war.

"No matter how bad the current depression may be, we know that it is going to end sooner or later," Mr. Seubert went on. "It has shown no developments, except possibly in degree of intensity or ill effects, that have not been experienced in past depressions in the country's history. A return to better conditions is bound to occur eventually in this instance as in the past."

Some Favorable News.

Reports from various parts of the country yesterday contributed to the growing feeling of optimism in business circles. Bradstreet's food index remained unchanged from last week at $1.73, which was the highest point in more than three months. This action was in the face of the usual situation that prevails at this season of the year when declines are normally expected. The food index has advanced for the last five weeks and now stands at 55.8 per cent of the 1928-'30 average.

The strong showing of the food index is looked upon as one of the brightest spots in the present situation.

Then heavy engineering contracts as reported by the Engineering News-Record totaled $33,386,000 for the week ended July 18. This is the second successive week that contracts have run ahead of the $23,000,000 June weekly average.

From Lafayett, Ga., comes the news that several hundred employés of the Consolidated Textile corporation mill will be given work after having been idle for a month. These are but a few of the news items which indicate an improvement in business conditions.

UPHOLDS SUGAR INSTITUTE FOR PRICE ADJUSTING

New York, July 21.—(AP)—Henry E. Wooster, vice president of the Revere Sugar Refining company, testified as a defense witness today in the trial of the government's suit to dissolve the Sugar Institute for alleged violation of the anti-trust laws.

Questioned by David W. Peck, counsel for the institute, Wooster said his concern had joined the institute because "I always felt if I had to meet anything that I would like to know what it was."

The answer referred to the institute's code of ethics, requiring all refiner members to notify the institute of any change in prices or concessions given customers in order that fellow members might be made aware of the changes.

"As a general thing," Wooster added, "any concern that is getting a concession cuts into its competitors' business. We felt that if any one was getting a concession in the neighborhood of one or more of our customers it was up to us to see that our customers received concessions also."

Asked what sort of concessions, he replied "cuts in prices."

In reply to a question, Wooster said his company once stored sugar in the care of a Detroit broker "years ago, but we found the broker was stealing our sugar, and we quit," after getting "what money we could out of the broker."

The railroad operates other trains between these points, which, the commission found, render adequate service.

CONTAINER CORP. REPORTS LOSS; DENIES CHARGES IN DELAWARE

Container Corporation of America reported for the first six months of this year net loss of $696,557 after interest, depreciation, and all other charges and after inclusion of $100,311 profit on the purchase of bonds and debentures for sinking fund purposes. This compares with net loss of $168,601 in the first half of 1931. For the quarter ended June 30 the company had a net loss of $337,058, compared with a net loss of $44,083 in the second quarter last year.

The corporation answered yesterday the receivership suit, brought against it recently by Harrington J. Thomson, of Orange, N. J., in the Chancery court in Wilmington, Del. The answer denies as "unqualifiedly false," the allegation that on June 1 the corporation defaulted interest payments due on its 15 year, six per cent gold debentures.

"If the complainant owns one of the bonds, as he says," the answer stated, "he knew the allegation was false, or else he had refrained from depositing the coupon for payment."

The corporation stated that on May 27 it forwarded to its paying agent in New York funds for full payment of the interest amount due June 1. It declares it endeavored to locate Thomson, but was unable to find him in Orange.

The court ordered Thomson to file a bond by July 25 to cover costs of the litigation. The suit was ordered set for a final hearing Aug. 1.

Bank of France Shows Decrease in Gold Supply

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 21.—For the first time in many weeks the condition statement of the Bank of France, issued today, shows a slight decrease in gold holdings amounting to $2,560,000. This came in the report dated July 15, and marked the cessation of French repatriation of gold, which has been carried on fairly steadily since Great Britain abandoned the gold standard last fall.

At the same time there was a drop in the sight balances of the bank abroad and in the circulation item as well, so that the ratio as of July 15, stood at 76.31 per cent, as compared with 76.30 per cent on July 8.

RECEIVERS FOR AURORA, ELGIN ELECTRIC LINE

A. A. Sprague Named with B. I. Budd.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Receivers were appointed yesterday for the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin Railroad company by Judge Wilkerson in the United States District court. Thus another of the enterprises which formed a part of Samuel Insull's great empire of power and transportation has passed into insolvency.

Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works of Chicago, and Britton I. Budd, president of the line, were named as receivers.

The receivership action was filed by the Standard Wheel Works company on a bill for supplies amounting to $3,862 and was unopposed. In its petition the wheel works company charged that the railroad had defaulted on interest payments on bonds and notes due July 1 in the amount of $272,000 and that the outstanding floating indebtedness for materials, equipment, taxes, power, and supplies amounts to more than $450,000.

Assets Exceed Liabilities.

"Although the property and assets owned by the defendants," the petition states, "are of a fair value largely in excess of the total liabilities, the company has neither sufficient cash nor sufficient assets readily convertible into cash to enable it to pay the claims of creditors, nor is it able to obtain credit or borrow sufficient money to pay its obligations."

The petition also states that it is to the interest of the public and creditors that the property should not suspend nor be sold piecemeal. It held that the road should be operated as a going concern until such time as it can be sold in its entirety.

"Directors of the company decided not to oppose the filing of the bill for receiver," Mr. Budd said in his statement, "in the belief that the owners of the company's securities will be best protected in this difficult period through this step, and that at the same time the service can be maintained for the benefit of the public.

Company's Traffic Lower.

"The continued increase in unemployment has resulted in a large decline in the business of the company. This has become so marked in the last several months that the railroad has not earned operating expenses, not to speak of interest on its mortgages and other fixed obligations.

"As illustrating the effect of unemployment upon its business, the railroad had gross revenues of but $1,939,776 for the twelve months ended June 30, a decline of $547,409 compared with the preceding twelve months."

Insull interests purchased the electric railroad in March, 1926, from Thomas Conway Jr. of Philadelphia and others. Mr. Insull immediately improved the line through the expenditure of about $3,000,000, making it one of the outstanding suburban roads in the country. The roadbed was rebuilt, train speed increased, and a modern terminal in Chicago installed. Last year the Aurora and Elgin was awarded third place in the speed award of the American Electric Railway association. First and second places were awarded other Insull developed lines, the North Shore and South Shore roads.

Uses "L" Structure.

The Chicago, Aurora and Elgin enters Chicago over the elevated tracks of the Rapid Transit lines. It operates west to Wheaton, where its lines spread fanwise to serve, Aurora, Elgin, Batavia, Geneva, and St. Charles.

The line sustained a loss of $325,485 for 1931 and a loss of $19,297 for 1930 operations. It reported a net income of $73,912 for 1929. Its total assets as of Dec. 31, 1931, were given as $21,827,637. Its common stock is wholly owned by the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin corporation, which was controlled by Mr. Insull and his associates. The funded debt as of Dec. 31, 1931, was $8,777,500 and in addition there was $746,000 in $7 preferred stock.

U. S. Ruling Likely to Hit Board of Trade

Predictions were being freely made in Chicago and Washington yesterday that a decision unfavorable to the Chicago Board of Trade would be handed down by the committee of three cabinet members which has been hearing charges that the board violated the grain futures act in refusing to admit the Farmers' National Grain corporation, farm board coöperative, to clearing house privileges.

Predicts Adverse Decision.

The Associated Press in a dispatch from Washington predicted "a decision early next week finding the Chicago Board of Trade guilty."

According to the Associated Press, two members of the commission created under the act to deal with alleged violations—Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Attorney General Mitchell—went over the question in Washington yesterday for more than an hour with legal experts.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont, the third member, was absent from the capital, but it was indicated that after his return today a decision quickly would be reached and drafting of the opinion would be begun immediately for publication, probably early next week.

Clearing House Balked.

The Farmers' National Grain corporation was denied admission to the Board of Trade's clearing corporation on the ground that it was in reality a corporation and as such was automatically barred by the Board of Trade by-laws which rule out corporations because of their limited liability features. The Farmers' National then charged the Board of Trade with violation of the grain futures act.

A decision by the committee of three cabinet members is expected next Tuesday, although it may be announced tomorrow.

A verdict against the Board of Trade might mean revocation of its permit to operate as a contract grain market. In that event the board is expected to take the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

President Peter B. Carey and other officials of the Board of Trade said yesterday that they had no intimation from Washington concerning when the decision might be expected.

MOTOR CONCERNS' STOCKS SHARE CHICAGO GAINS

Shares of companies having to do with the automobile business participated in the general gains found yesterday at the close of trading on the Chicago Stock exchange. Reports that the big motor companies are making new determined efforts to capture business was seen as one factor aiding these shares. Bendix gained a fraction to close at 5⅝, Cord was slightly better, and Houdaille Hershey A picked up a minor fraction to close at 4½. Borg Warner held its ground at 4⅝.

Commonwealth Edison, which is about to undertake a major refinancing effort, was stationary at 56. Public Service of Northern Illinois, no par, gained ¾ to close at 29¾. Cities Service gained a minor fraction to close at 2¼ in fairly active trading.

Great Lakes Dredge continued its gains which started with trading on Monday. It picked up a minor fraction yesterday to close at 8¼ on a turnover of 600 shares. Montgomery Ward A, despite its unfavorable earnings report, proved the headliner in points gained by advancing 3¾ to close at 34½. Quaker Oats was up ½ point at 70½. Both the Swift issues closed unchanged from trading of the previous day.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 21.—Speculative sentiment continued to show signs of improvement today. The stock market kept to the upgrade, with prices rising from a fraction to a point or so and activity increasing all along the line. Volume approximated 900,000 shares, as compared with 600,000 or so yesterday.

Better trade news filtering through from varied fields was the mainspring of the renewed endeavor. The splendid action of the bond market was an inspiration and the continued stability of commodities was paraded as good argument for the bull cause. There is no doubt the Wall street community is feeling better over its lot now than it has for a long time, although well informed commentators were counseling extreme caution in following the market too far until more concrete evidence is forthcoming to back up the prosperity talk now flowing so freely.

Selling Is Overcome.

Selling by traders growing wary of the advance threatened two or three times to unsettle the list today, but sufficient support was forthcoming in behalf of the leaders each time to hold the fort. The manner in which the market held under these tests was most encouraging.

Oil shares were out in front most of the time, particularly in the afternoon trading. Expectations of further curtailment, of continued good consumption of gasoline, and talk of firmer prices stimulated buying in this group. Standard of New Jersey, as usual, took the lead, advancing nearly a point. Standard of Kansas rose 1¾ on a single sale, and worth while gains were recorded in Texas corporation, Houston, Atlantic Refining and others.

Rails Get Attention.

The rails came in for further favorable attention, and Atchison, Norfolk and Western, Delaware and Hudson, and Union Pacific moved ahead impressively. The carriers have been doing themselves rather proud all week, comparatively speaking, being helped by the conference of the executives here culminating in a determination to have competitive transportation systems placed under the same regulation as the government imposes upon them, and also by expectations of better car loadings in the immediate future.

More likely looking earnings reports by two or three of the big food companies proved a tonic to the shares of this group. The so-called hot weather specialties looked up sharply, Coca-Cola scoring a gain of nearly 2 points.

Stocks of the two leading sulphur producing companies — Texas Gulf Sulphur and Freeport Texas—were conspicuously active at better prices. The first named rose more than a point net. The comparatively good earnings report of Texas Gulf brightened up matters for it.

Preferred Demand Active.

Demand for preferred stocks was again evident, and a sizeable group of them, including American Sugar, Water Works, Atchison, Baldwin, Case, General Baking, Consolidated Cigar, Crucible, Eastman, Loews, Union Pacific, West Penn Power, and McCrory were able to better their standings by 2 to 6 points. Johns-Manville, Kendall, and Jones & Laughlin were exceptions to the popular strength in preferreds, the trio slumping 1½ to nearly 6 points.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 1,500; hogs, 12,000; sheep, 11,000.

The hog market responded readily to the influence of light supplies yesterday. Prices recovered 10@25c of the recent loss and closed at the high point of the session.

The extreme top advanced 20c to $4.95, with the general average up 15c at $4.50. Forecasts of showers and possible relief from the record heat wave that has been pressing pork prices downward added zest to the buying of hogs and some are holding stock over for today and Saturday with hopes of beating the $5.00 line before the end of the week.

Packers anticipate a recovery in the wholesale trade and have been freezing loins rather than sacrificing them on this week's weather market. Hog receipts are again running very light.

Yesterday's total at the 11 leading markets showed a decrease of 33 per cent, compared with the previous Thursday and only 29,500 are estimated at five markets for today, against 40,700 last Friday.

Cattle Retains Advances.

Cattle held the mid-week agains on yesterday's light receipts, but discouraging reports from the wholesale trade for beef stood in the way of a further upturn. Some plain quality cattle which made up a big share of offerings weakened off some toward the finish. Only 4,000 cattle arrived at Chicago. Supplies fell off sharply at points west of here. In spite of the fact that the trade was slow, almost at a standstill in some divisions, the undertone was not weak and it was impossible to save much anywhere in the yards.

Some of the poorest grades selling at $6.00 and below needed most peddling. The few lots eligible to $9.00 and above got over the scales with little trouble. One lot averaging 1,159 lbs to Swift brought $9.25, the top. Butcher stock brought steady prices, top yearling heifers reaching $7.35.

Lambs Sell Steady.

The sharp break in wholesale prices for dressed lamb carcasses restricted buying by packers yesterday, but most lambs were finally worked off the market on a steady basis. Tops from 34 carloads of Idaho, Washington and Oregon range lambs brought $5.50@5.35, with one load to a shipper at $5.95, the top for westerns. Packers sorted the bulk of natives around $5.75, with a few handpicked by city butchers up to $6.00.

The break has curtailed the movement from some local points, but good to choice western slaughter lambs are still coming in fair volume. Dressed lamb carcasses suffered another break yesterday and now show losses of 5c per pound compared with the high point early in the month. The break is entirely due to the extremely hot weather, according to the trade. Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,500 cattle, 12,000 hogs, and 11,000 sheep, against 2,515 cattle, 17,738 hogs and 8,200 sheep, the previous Friday and 2,349 cattle, 11,020 hogs and 5,063 sheep a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quieter today, although the undertone was easier with offerings of Cubas and duty free at the last sale price of 3.10c. Refiners, who had apparently supplied their more immediate needs, were not bidding more than 3.05c, and no sales were reported. Operators, however, overnight are reported to have paid approximately 3.14c to 3.17c delivered for 119,000 bags of Cubas for December-March shipment. Futures eased under moderate liquidation and commission house selling which reflected the easier tone of the raw market. Final quotations were barely steady at net losses of 1@6 points, with sales for the day totaling 17,650 tons. Prices follow:

WHEAT ERRATIC; BLAME FARM BOARD AS SELLER

December Unchanged to Fraction Lower.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Hedging pressure and selling of December wheat, which the pit trade regarded as for farm board account, prevented the market from making more than a feeble response to further reports of crop deterioration in the American and Canadian northwest.

Prices moved up ½c early, but the upturn brought in selling orders. The close was unchanged to ¼c lower July was 45c; September, 47⅜@47½c, and December, 50⅝@50½c at the last.

While better than an average yield of spring wheat was anticipated in the weekly Van Dusen-Harrington company crop report, it also said the northwest had ceased to talk about a bumper yield. Temperatures were somewhat lower in the more northern sections where the grain was in a position to be damaged, but there was no rain of consequence and the forecast was for generally fair, although somewhat cooler was anticipated.

World's Crop Equals 1931.

Failure of the wheat market to rally more than a cent or so from the inside figures of the season, which are also the lowest known in the local market, tends to discourage buyers. An estimate that the 32 countries of the northern hemisphere, exclusive of Russia and China, had an indicated crop of 3,080,000,000 bu, or practically the same as last year, attracted little attention, although it is expected that the final returns will suggest a yield somewhat less than in 1931.

The world's disappearance of wheat during the 1931-'32 season is tentatively estimated at around 3,900,000,000 bu, the largest on record, and a reduction in the carryover from the previous season is anticipated. Official figures on the latter will not be available until early next month. Reports indicate, however, that some reduction is probable in the American carryover as compared with earlier anticipations.

There is much more cash wheat being sold for export than is being reported. While the seaboard claimed only small lots of Manitoba had been taken, Winnipeg messages claimed that over 1,000,000 bu had been sold and Wednesday's sales were also placed at 1,000,000 bu.

Liverpool Wheat Firm.

While Liverpool wheat prices showed little change the undertone was relatively firm with the close ½c per bu lower, October being 53⅛c. Limited clearances are expected from Argentina this week, and frost was reported in the province of Buenos Aires. Winnipeg was off ⅛@⅜c for the day with October at 57⅛c in Canadian funds. The latter were quoted around 13 per cent discount at the last.

Corn was firm early on scattered short covering credited to local traders, only to weaken later on reports of scattered showers at several points in Iowa and the close was ⅛@⅜c lower. July finished at 30½c; September, 31⅜c, and December, 31⅞@32c. Country offerings to arrive were fair with purchase of 50,000 bu reported.

An increase was noted in the number of reports of corn firing in various states, with Missouri as well as Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska claiming some damage during the day.

Liquidation in Oats.

Liquidation and hedging pressure depressed all deliveries of oats to a new low for the season, and to a point where Illinois farmers generally were receiving around 10c per bu or under for their grain at country loading points. July sold down to 16⅝c, or within 2¼c of the low figure for the September in 1896. The close was ⅝@½c lower with July, 16⅝@16¾c; September, 17⅝@17¾c, and December, 20½c.

Distant futures of rye sold at a new low for the season yesterday with the close ½@⅝c lower. July was 28¼c; September, 30½c, and December, 33½c. Foreign demand was reported as slow.

EUROPE'S WHEAT

Wheat production in leading European countries this year in detail as given by Broomhall aggregate 1,312,000,000 bu, as compared with 1,270,320,000 bu same time last year, an increase of 42,546,000 bu compared with the same countries a year ago. Weather conditions have not been so favorable in some of the countries since the estimates were published and some of them will have to be modified. Details follow:

LARD HARD TO BUY

Light offerings of lard futures necessitated bidding up of prices on the part of buyers to fill orders. The close was at around the top, with net gains on lard of 5@17½c. Bellies were especially scarce, both of cash and futures, the latter advancing 12½@15c. Cash trade in cured ribs and bellies were reported good, while the call for fresh pork loins was slow at 8@11c. There were deliveries of 100,000 lbs of bellies and 500,000 lbs of lard on July contracts. Hogs were higher in all markets, with receipts decidedly small, as compared with a week and a year ago.
